

DEAN WILLIAMS OPENS SESSION

Many Nations Represented at Honolulu in Congress.

By United Press.
HONOLULU, Oct. 10.—The Press Congress of the World opens here tonight with practically every civilized country represented.

This was generally regarded as the initial step in formation of an international "league of newspapers," devoted to promotion of world peace and a better understanding between nations.

The opening session was scheduled for night to permit hundreds of delegates arriving from the United States on the steamer Matsonia to get their "land legs." It was devoted to addresses of welcome and responses. After tomorrow's session, when committees will be appointed and a message read from Warren G. Harding, publisher of the Marion Club, an adjournment will be taken until October 17.

In the interim the delegates will be seen together to recreation and sight-seeing. Speakers at the first formal session after reconvening will be Walter Williams, dean of the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri, and president of the congress; Mark Cohen, editor of the Dunedin (New Zealand) Evening Star; Thales Contoupis, editor and manager of Nea Ellas, Athens; Ludwig Saxe, editor of Verdans Gang, Christiania; K. Sugimura, editorial writer of Asahi Shimbun, Tokio; W. D. Hornaday, professor of journalism, University of Texas; Walter B. Pitkin, professor of philosophy, Pulitzer School of Journalism, Columbia University, and Hollington K. Tong, editor of the Weekly Review of the Far East, Peking.

Other speakers during the congress, which concludes October 21, will be: Virgilio Rodriguez Beteta, Central American Press Association, Guatemala City; Joe Mitchell Chapple, editor of the National Magazine, Boston; Mrs. Georgia Townsend, editor of the Southern California Women's Press Association, Los Angeles; Dr. Mien Mu T. Wang, Shun Pao, Shanghai; Major Alexander Stevens, editor of Northumberland and Berwickshire Newspapers, Ltd., Berwick, England; Herbert L. Bridgman, business manager Brooklyn (N. Y.) Standard Union; Gregorio Niox, editor Philippine Review, Manila; Edward Frederick Lawson, assistant manager London Daily Telegraph; Guy Innes, proprietor Melbourne Herald; James Wright Brown, owner, Editor and Publisher, New York; Franklin P. Glass, past-president American Newspaper Publishers' Association; B. G. Horniman, president Press Association of India, Bombay; Masujiro Honda, special writer, Tokio; William Southern, Jr., editor Independence (Mo.) Daily Examiner; Riley H. Allen, editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin; James Schermerhorn, publisher Detroit Times; B. W. Fleisher, editor Japan Advertiser, Tokio; Jabin Hsu, China Press, Shanghai; Henry Stead, editor Stead's Review, Melbourne; H. U. Bailey, proprietor Bureau County

AT THE THEATERS

Columbia.
Tonight and tomorrow, Constance Ealmdage in a dramatic comedy, "Mamma's Affair." In this story mamma has "Connie's" husband all picked out for her but as most modern girls, "Connie" has done some picking herself.

There will be a two-reel comedy, "Edgar's Feast Day," a Booth Tarkington story.

In addition, two acts of vaudeville will be presented. One is a singing and piano act by Claude and Hutchinson. The other is Big Jim, the "Shimmy King." Jim is a huge bear who boxes, skates and can impersonate a soldier as well as many other characters.

Hall.
Tonight—"Two Wise Wives" is a domestic picture that will be of particular interest to a married woman. It explains why the best of wives are often misunderstood by their husbands and why some women give a little sigh of relief when their husbands leave for their offices in the morning. The picture shows one woman who loves her husband too much and burdens his life with her "wifeliness" and another woman who does not love her husband and makes him blindly happy for her own selfish ends. The story of these two wives was written by a woman, Lois Weber. Claire Windsor and Mona Lisa play the leading feminine roles.

URBAN PEOPLE ARE NOT IDLE

Statistics Show Increase of Working Population in Two Cities.

Occupational statistics, just issued by the bureau of the census, Department of Commerce, show that for St. Louis, there were 372,618 persons 10 years of age and over engaged in gainful occupations in 1920, constituting 48.2 per cent of the total population of 772,897, and 57.0 per cent of the population 10 years of age and over.

Of these 372,618 gainful workers in St. Louis in 1920, 272,823, or 73.2 per cent, were males, and 99,795, or 26.8 per cent, were females. These male workers constituted 84.5 per cent of all males 10 years of age and over, while the female gainful workers constituted 30.2 per cent of all females 10 years of age and over. Both of these figures show a slight increase over those in 1910.

For Kansas City there were 157,163 persons 10 years of age and over engaged in gainful occupations or 56.7 per cent of the population 10 years of age and over, and 48.4 per cent of the total population of the city, which was placed at 324,310.

Males constituted 74.3 per cent of the total, and females 25.7 per cent. These figures show an increase of .3 per cent over those in 1910 for the male workers and 1.6 per cent for the female workers. The distribution of the workers in different industries in Kansas City is as follows:

Manufacturing and mechanical industries	29.1 per cent.
Transportation	11.3 per cent.
Trade	20.2 per cent.
Public service	2.0 per cent.
Professional service	6.8 per cent.
Domestic and personal service	13.6 per cent.
Clerical occupations	15.9 per cent.
All other occupations	1.1 per cent.

In St. Louis, the distribution is as follows:

Manufacturing and mechanical industries	40.7 per cent.
Transportation	9.0 per cent.
Trade	15.4 per cent.
Public service	2.0 per cent.
Professional service	5.2 per cent.
Domestic and personal service	12.6 per cent.
Clerical occupations	14.4 per cent.
All other occupations	.7 per cent.

Nearly Everybody in McBaine Gets the MISSOURIAN

So says Mrs. Kitty Klaxton, who has been the McBaine postmistress and the Columbia Evening Missourian representative since August. The other day our business manager sent a man down to McBaine to work up a bigger subscription list, and he found that Mrs. Klaxton had sold nearly everybody. How's that for two months' work?

McBaine folks watch the advertising columns of the Missourian as closely as they do the ice card or the milk man. Since they come to Columbia to do a lot of their shopping, they want to know what to buy and where to buy it. And as for news-real news about people they know--they depend upon the Missourian. Ask most any McBaine citizen, folks, and he will tell you that he is sold on

The Missourian Idea
