

NELSON WON'T BE CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

Former Eighth District Representative Believes Editorial Work Offers More Opportunities.

HARRIS ALSO WITHDRAWS

No Boone Countian in Race James S. Rollins to Try for Re-election as State Representative.

With an announcement by Frank Harris this morning, that he would not be a candidate for Congress from this district, coupled with a similar statement regarding himself by W. L. Nelson, editor of the Missouri Homestead, chances of a Boone Countian sitting in Congress during the next term has faded. Mr. Nelson formerly represented the Eighth district. Mr. Nelson believes his editorial connection with the Pierce Farm Weeklies offers greater opportunities for service than would a seat in Congress. Shortly after the statements of Mr. Harris and Mr. Nelson had been made it was reported that W. H. "Wood" Sapp, a former representative of Boone County in the State Legislature, might file to make the race for the Democratic nomination for Congress. The deadline for filing is June 1.

When interviewed this afternoon Mr. Sapp said that he was considering the proposition but that he had not definitely decided what he should do.

Charles E. Dewey of Jefferson City, a former student in the University, has filed for Congress in the Eighth District. Dewey is a Democrat. He played football during his undergraduate days.

The statement which Mr. Nelson gave to the press today follows:

"A month or more ago, in a communication given to the press, I indicated that I would not, this year, be a candidate for Congress. Yielding to the urgent requests of many friends, I for a time delayed making a further statement. Finally, though, I felt that in justice to the public and in fairness to any who might care to file as candidates, I should definitely announce my decision. This I did Saturday and before any candidate had filed.

"In determining not to become a candidate for Congress I do not wish to be thought of as unappreciative of the support which so many Republicans as well as Democrats, have generously and graciously assured me.

"I am not financially able to be in politics, yet in reaching the decision here announced this fact has not been placed first. Rather, have I been prompted by what appeals to me as duty. Upon my return from Washington, more than a year ago, I joined the editorial staff of Pierce's Farm Weeklies, opening an office in Columbia, my home. As editor of the Missouri Homestead and as associate editor of three other farm papers, I am each week preparing messages which go into more than 350,000 homes, practically all of them farm homes. In this work I see more than a livelihood—in it I see a call to duty, a call just now stronger than the call to become a candidate for Congress.

"Were I again in the National House of Representatives I would—just as in the last Congress—join with those who are fighting the fight of the people as against special interests. In fact, I am, in my editorial work, rendering all possible aid to the promotion of this program. Each week I am telling a million people the truth, telling them of the things that are happening in Congress and of some of the proposed schemes sure to succeed unless the public is aroused to righteous protest. Since my retirement from Congress I have made more than one trip to Washington to get first-hand information for the readers of our papers. With what appears to be a concerted effort to poison or dry up the sources of information—to substitute propaganda for facts, or to induce silence—I can, in the present campaign and under the circumstances, see no larger opportunity for public service than that presented in the work in which I am engaged.

"As to the present Congress, a few may apologize for it, but surely nobody will attempt to defend it. Never before has the country known such a failure. The next House of Representatives is sure to be greatly changed. How important it is, then, that the party which is to triumph at the polls next November should nominate the best man available. This done, a democratic victory seems certain.

"I am not getting out of politics. I am today more interested in public affairs than ever before. I believe, though, that for the present my place is in the ranks. Never has there been such need for fighters, never so much of had to fight—and so much of good for which to fight. Each voter should see in the coming contest a duty not to be delegated.

"Thinking the many who suggested that I again become a candidate for Congress, and with deep assurances of appreciation, I am

"Gratefully yours,
"W. L. Nelson.

"May 29, 1922."

The statement of Mr. Harris follows: "Since my boyhood days I have been ambitious to represent my district in

THE WEATHER

For Columbia and vicinity: Somewhat unsettled but mostly fair weather tonight and Tuesday; not much change in temperature.

For Missouri: Generally fair tonight and Tuesday, except possibly showers extreme west portion; not much change in temperature.

Generally fair prevails this morning in the United States except local showers in the extreme upper part of the Missouri and Mississippi Valleys along the Gulf coast from Florida to Louisiana, and in the Rio Grande Valley. A heavy rain, more than 4 inches, has fallen at Jackson, Fla., in the past 24 hours.

The Missouri River continues at moderate stages. The roads are a bit rough in places but are fast getting in shape. Mostly fair weather is the outlook over Tuesday.

Congress. The opportunity at this time seemed good and I was much gratified to have, from friends, assurances of assistance and support, but after a very careful consideration I have decided not to become a candidate. I have been twenty years at the practice of law and by constant effort and the assistance of friends my firm has attained a practice that is gratifying to us. I know that I could not represent this district in Congress without giving up a practice in my profession that I have been years in building up. A seat in Congress is very attractive and would afford a good opportunity for service and as much as I would appreciate the honor and enjoy the opportunity to learn and to serve I have concluded that I could not afford to go to Congress, even if my nomination and election were assured.

"I am very grateful to those who have generously supported me in the past and to those who have shown their confidence by assurances of support at this time."
"Frank G. Harris."

FOUR HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

Car Driven by James Taylor Runs Into Another From the Rear.

When James Taylor, driving his Chevrolet car, attempted to pass a Cadillac, driven by U. B. Cook of Cook Bros. Garage, between Maryland and Sixth street on Conley last night, an accident occurred in which several people received minor cuts and bruises. None of the occupants of either car was seriously injured.

Miss Elizabeth Taylor, Harry Westbay and Miss Dorothy Limerick, who were occupants of the Taylor car at the time, were cut by flying glass from the windshield. Miss Louise Tatum, who was also in the Taylor machine, suffered a bruised right arm.

The three girls were just leaving Harris' when Taylor offered to take them home. The girls were riding in the back seat of the car and Westbay was in front with Taylor.

According to Taylor, a car was coming down Maryland, which caused a glare of light at the corner of Maryland and Conley. The Cadillac was farther down the street, just outside the glare of light, and Taylor's car was almost on the other car before he could see it. Both were going west. Taylor swerved his car suddenly to the left in an effort to avoid the accident but the Chevrolet struck the back of the Cadillac, demolishing its rear wheel and smashing the windshield and right front fender of the Chevrolet.

Mr. Cook, owner of the Cadillac was in company with V. L. Fox and he said he didn't know of the other car's approach until the Taylor machine struck his car from the rear.

IVY QUEEN IS CROWNED AT COLLEGE FETE

Class Day Exercises Are Held on Stephens College Campus by Seniors This Morning.

OFFICERS PLANT IVY Baccalaureate Sermon Delivered Yesterday by the Reverend Herrick of Massachusetts.

Class Day exercises and the crowning of the Ivy Queen took place on the Stephens College Campus this morning. After a procession of alumnae, juniors and seniors, the seniors took their places on Senior Steps for their Class Day exercises. The class history was read by Pauline Alexander. Mary Lee Simpson read the class will, and Nira Hench the class prophecy. The class officers planted the ivy.

The crowning of the ivy queen took the form of a pageant. With brightly colored costumes and dances the Fete of the Ancient Myth of the Dawn was given.

Night entered with her attendants. After she had been escorted to the throne, Venus and Diana danced for her entertainment. As they finish, the Pleiades dance for Night.

A storm was brewing and the Storm Winds blew great clouds up to cover the night. The storm finally spent itself and the Winds blew the clouds away.

A flaming messenger, Lucifer, brought word of the coming of Aurora, the Dawn. Aurora entered dancing and her attendants followed. They were the Morning Breezes.

When Aurora finished dancing she was led to Night who crowned her and yielded the throne to her. Then Night left slowly with her attendants.

The Morning Breezes danced and as they finished they awakened the Morning Glories. Then the Oriole, the Blue-jay and the Cardinal hunted for their morning worms, and just as they finished their breakfast, the Sun came up behind the throne of Dawn. Slowly Dawn arose and left. The Day had come.

Miss Dixie Dunham, the 1922 Ivy Queen, took the part of Aurora, the Dawn.

The Rev. Everett C. Herrick of the First Baptist Church, Fall River, Mass., delivered the baccalaureate address of the Sixty-Fifth Commencement exercises of Stephens College yesterday morning.

The seniors of the college, in cap and gown, formed a double line from the door of the First Baptist Church half way up the College campus, through which the curators and faculty passed.

LOCAL PASTOR GIVES SERMON TO GRADUATES

Mr. Haushalter Speaks at Christian College Baccalaureate Services—Thirty-Six Seniors Present.

ALUMNAE HOLD MEETING Classes from '54 to '22 Are Represented at Annual Reunion—Crowning of May Queen—This Morning.

The baccalaureate services for the 1922 graduating class of Christian College were held at 8 o'clock last evening in the First Christian Church, the Rev. Walter M. Haushalter delivering the address.

Keeping time to "Jerusalem the Golden," the time-honored baccalaureate professional of Christian College, thirty-six graduates in white caps and gowns, followed by the remaining college students, also in white, marched into the church and took their places.

The Rev. R. C. Abram, professor in Christian College, read the scripture and delivered the prayer, which was followed by Kipling's "Recessional" sung by the college chorus.

The Rev. Walter M. Haushalter chose for his text John II:13; "How knoweth this man letters, having never learned." He cited points in the novel, "Main Street," showing of how little worth was a college education to a girl, if she only used it to act as a snob and in contempt of the small town from which she came. He ended his sermon by making an appeal for practical service. "Any education that does not train an individual for social service is not a worth-while investment," he said.

The annual breakfast of Phi Theta Kappa, honor sorority of junior colleges, was given by the Gamma chapter of Christian College, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning in the dining room at Missouri Hall. About forty guests were present, including the active members, visiting members, pledges, and the sponsor, Mrs. Rose L. Lisenby. Following the breakfast, initiation for the pledges, who were elected on the basis of scholarship at the close of the term, took place in the new chapter room at Missouri Hall. The pledges included: Misses Roberta Baldwin, Margaret Thrall, Gladys Powell, Helen Johnson, Mineeva Hays, Neva Nelle Westler and Marie Petree.

The Memorial service for Hazel Kirk, a graduate of 1920, who bequeathed her entire estate of $25,000 to Christian College, was repeated at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the chapel of Dorsey Memorial Hall.

Representatives from the classes of 1854 to 1922 were present at the alumnae reunion held at 10 o'clock this morning in the college auditorium. The meeting was opened by Mrs. John E. Sykes, vice-president of the Christian College Club, in the absence of the president, Mrs. Ora Hardin Scott, who was unable to attend. Mrs. Sykes turned over the chairmanship to Mrs. David A. Robnett, the newly elected president, who welcomed the homecoming guests. She paid tribute to Mrs. L. W. St. Clair-Moss as an organizer and educator who had made her organization a greater Christian College center, and to President Edgar D. Lee, who was following up her ideas.

The roll call of the classes since 1853 followed, in which Mrs. J. K. Rogers of Kansas City, of the class of '54, spoke as the oldest living representative. She gave a graphic and wonderfully clear picture of life in the early history of the college, under the administration of James A. Williams, the first president.

After the roll call of classes, the portrait of former President W. A. Oldham was unveiled by his grandson, W. A. Oldham III, and presented to the college in behalf of his old students by Prof. W. H. Pommer, who taught in the music department during the administration of President Oldham. It was accepted in behalf of the college by Mrs. St. Clair-Moss in the absence of F. G. Harris, president of the Board of Trustees. The singing of "Auld Lang Syne" closed the meeting.

A one o'clock luncheon for the trustees of the college was followed by the annual business meeting and an automobile ride at 4 o'clock by the courtesy of the Commercial Club.

Rolfe Raynor First in Boone County to Receive Bonus Check

An unexpected $250 check, unmarried, with no family to worry about, and going to school at Uncle Sam's expense is enough to make anyone optimistic, believes Rolfe Raynor, who received the first bonus check in Boone County. According to his friends, he looked just as cheerful before he had ever heard of the bonus and is one man who believes that a smile will get you there almost as well as a fard.

But a $250 check is certainly coming to a man who has served the government twenty years and who has received fourteen citations for bravery.

Raynor is originally from Kansas City. At 16 he enlisted in the Seventh United States Cavalry and fought all through the Spanish American War. In 1916 he spent the year on the Mexican border with the National Guard. In April, 1917, he enlisted in the 120th Infantry and spent nineteen months in France. He was in the battle of the Argonne, St. Mihiel, and Chateau Thierry. During this time he received fourteen citations for bravery and nine medals from five countries—the United States, Belgium, France, Great Britain and Italy.

In a drive from Van Quos Hill to Exermond, which lasted eight days under constant fire, he was wounded eight times, the last day having the bone of his left leg shattered. In July 1919 he was discharged from the hospital wearing eight wound chevrons, having seen service on every continent and served in the army for twenty years.

Chaplain Edwards in his "History of the 120 Infantry," characterizes him as the best first sergeant in the American Army. Three times Raynor was offered a commission but he refused, saying that he would rather remain sergeant-major and stay with the boys.

Raynor on his mother's side is a lineal descendant of John Rolfe and Pocahontas, his mother having been a Miss Rolfe of Virginia. He is a cousin of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

Raynor is now a vocational student in the College of Agriculture. He expects to finish his course here this summer. He does not know exactly what he will do after he has finished. He has a farm near Kansas City and may put his college training into real practice there. This is what he intends to do eventually, he says. He is one of the best penmen in the University and also an expert horseman, having been superintendent of a riding school in San Francisco before the War. In addition to his army experiences he has taken many trips and has traveled all over Europe, Asia, and Africa, as well as the American continent.

When Governor Hyde drew the first hundred names for the bonus Raynor's name was among the first drawn.

"It didn't really surprise me that I got the first bonus check in Boone County," said Sergeant Raynor, smiling as usual. "You see, I was the first to file a petition."

More Flowers Wanted.

Many soldiers' graves will be undecorated tomorrow because of a lack of flowers unless Columbia citizens come forward with additional supplies, according to Mrs. W. T. Stephenson, member of the committee in charge of the work.

The flowers can be left tonight or early tomorrow at the Veterans of Foreign Wars' home, 1217 East Broadway. Persons willing to give flowers but unable to deliver them, should telephone 539, or 589, Mrs. Stephenson said.

Albert E. Hutchings of Kansas City, an officer of the Seventh Rotary District, has announced that a radio sending station will be set up in Kansas City which will carry across the Rocky Mountains.

The Rotarian trains will make several stops on the way to the coast, one of them being at the Grand Canyon.

IMPROVEMENTS TO BE MADE ON TOURIST CAMP

Commercial Club Provides for Store and Information Bureau to Be Located on Grounds.

WILL HELP TRAVELERS

Road Signs and Markers of Routes for Sight-Seeers in Columbia to Be Erected Soon.

O. B. Wilson, supervisor of the tourist camping grounds, has been authorized by the Commercial Club to open a small store on the grounds to satisfy the wants of tourists. He has received several offers to erect a building in return for the concession of carrying a small stock of goods and selling to the tourists. Wilson wants to get an old range or cook stove to supplement the cooking facilities at the camping grounds and would be glad to receive offers from anyone having one.

The camping grounds have been drained, repairs effected in the shelters, and the grass cut. A man will be stationed there who will keep a register of tourists and give them road information. The signs at either end of Broadway and the red and blue arrows marking the sight-seeing route through the city, authorized by the publicity committee, are practically completed and will be put up in two or three days, according to J. E. Wrench, chairman.

The president of the Commercial Club was authorized to recommend to the City Council that a committee be appointed to investigate dangerous corners in Columbia, with special reference to such intersections as Hitt and Broadway, and Ninth and Conley, and to take consistent action. At a previous meeting it was suggested that a dead line be drawn at Hitt and Broadway.

A resolution of respect was ordered to be sent to Mrs. Russell Monroe of Norman, Oklahoma, whose husband died recently. Mr. Monroe was formerly secretary of the Commercial Club here.
