TIGERS READY FOR STRUGGLE WITH SOONERS

Team Arrives in Oklahoma City and Spends the Entire Day Resting for Contest.

BIG CROWD IS EXPECTED

Preparations Being Made in Oklahoma Camp for 15,000 Homecoming Spectators.

By Staff Correspondent.
OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 10.—Preparations for the largest Homecoming celebration in the history of the finer school are being made in Norman for tomorrow's battle with the Missouri Tigers. Every seat for the game has been sold and the attendance is expected to exceed 15,000.

The Tigers arrived in Oklahoma City this morning at 8:30 o'clock and immediately went to the Lee Huchins Hotel, which will be the Tiger headquarters during the week-end. Coach Kelly plans to spend the entire day resting the team after the tiresome trip except for a short session of signal practice this afternoon. The men are in good spirits and are impatient to use the Tiger Claw on the optimistic Oklahomans.

The weather is cool and slightly cloudy, giving promise of fair weather tomorrow.

After a two-hour practice on Rollins Field yesterday morning, the Tigers, accompanied by Coach Thomas Kelly and eighty-nine rosters, left Columbia at 12:55 on the M. K. & T. Railroad for Norman, Okla., where the Tiger-Sooner game is to be played Saturday.

Two special coaches, on the sides of which was painted "Yea Tigers, Beat Oklahoma!" will take the team and meters direct to Norman. More than fifty students gathered at the station to see the team off.

HARD BATTLES TO BE FOUGHT ARMISTICE DAY

Harvard Regarded as Having Edge on Princeton in First Big Three Conflicts.

CORNELL TO MEET TEST

Notre Dame Expected to Make Spectacular Showing in Contest With the Cadets.

By United Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Some of the biggest battles of the season are carded for tomorrow's "Armistice Day" football program.

Battles between old traditional rivals and the first of the conflicts between the "Big Three," as well as several fine inter-sectional combats are the features of the best card of the year to date. The biggest battles of the day are:

Harvard vs. Princeton at Cambridge.
Pittsburgh vs. Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.
Dartmouth vs. Cornell at New York.
Notre Dame vs. the Army at West Point.
Georgetown vs. Georgia Tech at Atlanta.

Harvard is regarded by many critics as the most powerful eleven of the East and one that compares favorably with the teams of old, when the Crimson was the power of the gridiron.

Princeton, on the other hand, started the season with perhaps the poorest prospects of any major team of the East. The Tigers have come fast, however, and while there are few that look for anything but a Harvard victory, the experts all expect a grand fight from the Tiger.

Penn will meet the second big test of the season against Pittsburgh. The Philadelphians look upon Pitt, Cornell and Penn State as their most deadly rivals and this first of their three big battles is sure to bring out everything Johnny Heisman has taught them. Pittsburgh hasn't been living up to old Pitt standards this season, but they've been pointing for this game and Penn does not consider them anything of an easy thing.

Cornell in Dartmouth gets the first big test of the year. Gil Doble must have a great team at Ithaca, even if the "Big Red" has had rather easy going. Any team that can come close to a "point-a-minute" must be a good organization against any opposition. Dartmouth always fights and that's one of the main things in football.

When Notre Dame lost virtually a whole team last fall, Eastern critics made light of the plight with the theory—"Knute Rockne will make another good team." And he has. The Hoosiers may not have the spectacular team of 1919, 1920 and 1921, but they have another good team and they are bound to give the Army a great fight.

West Point is represented by one of the most powerful teams of the East and the cadets have reached the point where they regard a victory over Notre Dame as important, almost, and as much to be desired as a defeat of the Navy.

Some idea about the final standing of the big teams in the South may be acquired in the games between Georgia Tech and Georgetown and between Centre and Washington and Lee.

California, out of the championship of the Pacific Coast, is expected to have an easy time with Washington.

McGill coming down from Montreal to meet Syracuse; St. Xavier's journeying from Cincinnati to play the Navy at Annapolis; and Washburn against Washington and Jefferson provide three very interesting inter-sectional games.

SOONER AGE IN NEW POSITION

Entire Backfield Shifted for Tiger Game With Morrison at Quarter.

Coach Bennie Owen has shifted the entire Sooner backfield during scrimmages this week, according to reports from the Oklahoma camp. The change is due to Morrison's injury in the Kansas game last week.

The hard-hitting fullback has been sick this season. That and his injury last Saturday is keeping him out of scrimmage this week so that he will be able to enter the Missouri battle in the best of condition.

Morrison has been changed to quarterback so that the brunt of the secondary defense will not depend on him. He will play safety on the defense.

Oklahoma must have Morrison to win from Missouri, according to Coach Owen, and, therefore, he will do all of his passing and punting from the pilot position. Johnson will be on the sidelines ready to replace the Sooner ace if he fails at the new position.

Hammert will be in one of the half-back positions with Jackson probably starting the game as his mate. However, Graham, Pokorney and Strouville are also anxious to get into the game and are fighting hard for a chance. Strouville has been shifted from quarter to half so that Coach Owen will have five half-backs ready for the Missourians.

TRACK MEN GO TO ST. LOUIS FOR VALLEY MEET

Cross-Country Run to Be Held Tomorrow Under Auspices of Washington U.

Robert Simpson, track coach, and six members of the cross-country team, left for St. Louis this morning to represent the University of Missouri at the Missouri Valley Cross Country Meet to be held there tomorrow.

The following members of the team will enter: Brooks, Case, Pittenger, Trowbridge, Nisbet and Stark.

The meet will be held under the auspices of Washington University. Missouri has one of the most promising cross-country teams developed the last few years. At the meet against the University of Nebraska held early in the season, Missouri won by a large score. At that meet Nesbit finished first, Brooks second, Stark third, Trowbridge fifth, and Case seventh.

JOURNALISTS TO PLAY LAWYERS TOMORROW

Battle Decides Campus Football Championship—Langdon Leads Barristers.

The journalists and lawyers will clash in the second and final inter-school gridiron contest of the year on Rollins Field tomorrow afternoon. The victors will be titled 1922 school champions and as their reward they will be guests of honor at a banquet to be given by a local restaurant.

TRAGOS TO WRESTLE PARCAUT

Local Athlete to Meet A. E. F. Champion Here Soon

Peter James, proprietor of the Columbia Physical Culture School, and wrestling promoter, returned Wednesday night from a four-day trip to St. Louis, Chicago and Kansas City, where he made arrangements for several matches to be held in Columbia this winter.

He met Ralph Parcaut, A. E. F. middle-weight wrestling champion and world title claimant, who is slated to meet Tragos here this month, and found him firm in his demand that the local wrestler take the mat at 158 pounds, 7 pounds under the weight agreed upon in preliminary arrangements. James says the matter will be adjudged and that Parcaut will be seen in Columbia during the month.

A Final Warning!

To be brutal, if you plan to get seats for the Breeze Bug, you'd better rush in your reservation, in person or by telephone as soon as possible.

The performances are three in number; night show, November 21, matinee and night, Wednesday, November 22.

We Haven't Told You Much as to the nature of the production or the identity of the cast. It would be too much of a job. There are too many items of unusual interest.

A Quadrangle Orchestra of Twenty-five Pieces.
Will fill the orchestra pit. The selections played will be played for the first time—not only before a Columbia audience—but before any audience—anywhere. It is your privilege to really attend a "first night"—a premier showing.

Nothing Has Been Spared in Production.
The cost of presenting this year's dramatic offering will far exceed the cost of any Varsity production essayed heretofore. From the elaborate sets with their unique lighting effects to the intriguing costumes of twenty-four Varsity beauties in the chorus—there will be new standards set. (This will not be the half-hearted effort of tired troupers, rehashing again a Broadway production of some seasons past. It will be vivid with youth and enthusiasm and pungent with that wierd wine of life known as "college days.")

As Irresistible as Irresponsible—the kaleidoscopic whirl of wicked, low-down melody from the massed twenty-five piece Breeze Bug orchestra, the jolt of a chorus of twenty-four of the Varsity's most beautiful, the warbling of the Campus song-birds in lilting refrains that are now being dickered for by Broadway stars, dazzling scenic effects, costumes that represent the best work of skilled costumers—these are all incidentals—for above all there is the play.

It is our sincere hope that you don't miss it!

Call 456 now and reserve seats for "The Breeze Bug"
(Sklibooch will be among us again tonight—watch for him and if you're tagged be sure to save your Sklibooches).
