OUR DEAD GOVERNORS.
Men Who Have Filled the Gubernatorial Chair of Missouri.

Two of Them Die by Their Own Hands and One Assassinated.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

Don Carlos Dehault Delassus was the last French and Spanish Governor of Upper Louisiana. He resided in St. Louis. His jurisdiction extended over what is now the States of Missouri, Arkansas, Iowa and Kansas. He was a native of Spain, and died at New Orleans in 1841, old and leaving a fine estate and good character.

Maj.-Gen. James Wilkinson, a native of Maryland and a soldier of the Revolution, was appointed by Jefferson the first Governor of the Missouri Territory. Afterwards he became implicated in Burr's conspiracy against the Government. Mr.
Jefferson sent Rufus Easton, Fred Bates (a brother of Edward Bates) and J. B. C. Lucas to Missouri as Judges of the Federal Court, not merely as officials, but also to watch Wilkinson; and in this way the three great Missouri families of Lucas, Bates and Easton were founded.
Wilkinson fled the country and died in the City of Mexico, ruined in fame and in fortune, in 1822.

Merriwether Lewis, of Lewis and Clark's famous expedition, was the second Governor of the Territory.
He was a Virginian, a relation of President Jefferson, and committed suicide on his way to Washington in 1809.

Governor Howard, another Virginian, succeeded him. He died and was buried in St. Louis in the in the Grace churchyard in north St.
Louis.

William Clark, also a native of Virginia, and also of Lewis and Clark's expedition, then became Governor. He died in St. Louis in 1838, leaving a good name and fortune and many worthy descendants, who are still honored by the people of this State. He was the last of the Territorial Governors.

Alexander McNair was the first Governor of the State. He was a Pennsylvanian. He lost his comfortable fortune in the terrible hard times of 1821, while he was Governor, and died in St. Louis in 1826, insolvent, and broken down politically and otherwise.

Fred. Bates was the second Governor of the State. He was nominated without solicitation and elected without making a canvass or even publishing an address. He died in Bonhomme township, St. Louis county, in 1826, leaving a small landed estate on which his own surviving child Lucans, still resides, a man of fine acquirements, but who has hid his talents under a bushel in a retired country life.

John Miller, the next Governor, was a bachelor. He died in St.
Louis in 1852, well off, but not particularly distinguished. He was succeeded by Daniel Dunkin, who died on a fine farm on the Mississippi river just where the Iron Mountain railroad leaves its banks. Silburn W. Boggs then became Governor.
His administration was principally noted for the first Mormon war.
This sect had then settled in Joe Daviess county, Ill., and were guilty of so many depredations, that the then frontiers people rose up and expelled them by force from the state; then they settled in Nauvoo, Ill. Boggs, while sitting at his fireside, was shot in the head in the dark through his window. He lived for some time, and removed to California, but never recovered from the wound and died leaving a very small patrimony. His assassination was universally ascribed to the Mormons, but the assassin was never discovered. He was a native of Kentucky.

Thomas Reynolds was the next Governor. He was a Virginian.
He committed suicide by shooting himself with his wife in the Executive Mansion, and while he was Governor, in 1842. The dissipation of his son Ambrose Reynolds was supposed to be the cause of his death.

John C. Edwards was his successor. He was a native of Tennessee, a resident of Jefferson City, and a man of good character. He emigrated to California in 1850, and has scarcely been heard of since.

Austin A. King, a native of Virginia, a resident of Ray county, came next. He was elected to Congress after the expiration of his term, but was afterwards beaten and died in comparative obscurity.

Sterling Price was the next Governor and one of the most distinguished Governors of the State. His career in the war is historical, and although he and his cause failed, his name is still revered by his followers, who have erected a handsome monument over his grave in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Truett Polk defeated the celebrated Thomas H. Benton and became the next Governor. He served only a few months, when he was ected to the Senate of the United States, which high position he resigned in 1861 and joined his fortunes with the South. No one ever doubted the purity of his motives.

After the war he resumed the possession of a good fortune and re-entered the St. Louis bar, a sadder and wiser man from his unhappy experience with rebellion. He left a family well and widely known in this city.

Robert M. Stewart became Polk's successor. He was a native of New York. He was a bachelor, a man of decided ability, but dissipated in the extreme, and died a pauper.
Before his death he begged for dimes and drinks about the saloons of St.
Louis.

Claiborne F. Jackson, of Saline county, native of Virginia, a noted Secessionist and politician, succeeded Stewart in 1860. In less than six months after his inauguration he was driven from the State by Frank Blair and Lyon and died on a little farm near Little Rock in Arkansas, a foiled fugitive, not much respected by any party. The fugitive Confederate Government of the State wandered about the South during the war, vested in the person of Thomas C. Reynolds, Lieutenant-Governor, a scholar and gentleman, but he never really governed the State.

The State Conventin of 1861 deposed Claiborne Jackson and appointed the Hon. Hamilton R. Gamble, a native of Virginia. Governor in his stead. His administration was beset with peril and trouble, both with the Confederates on one side and the Radicals on the other. By the aid of Federal bayonets the State militia put down the one, and by the aid of a faithful and able friend in Washington he baffled the other and remained Governor until July, 1864, when he died in office and was buried with imposing honors in Bellefontaine Cemetery. The vexations attending his administration and the rapid subversion of his conservative views were supposed to be the main cause of his death. His abilities and probabilities were never doubted by any one.

All the succeeding Governors, Hall, Fletcher, McClurg, Brown, Woodson and Phelps, are still alive, so that for a period of more than twenty years no Governor of this State, in or out of office, has died.
The long list of dead Governors is not a happy one. Two committed suicide while in office, one was assassinated, one died an exile from power and affections of all parties, and one died a pauper, while many and even most of them died bankrupt in fame, fortune and high position. Some on the list have left names that deserve to be remembered with gratitude and esteem by the people, but the administrations of nearly all of them serve merely as chronological marks in the history of the State.

From the Infant Wonder.
Rich Hill, Mo., March, 7 '82 EDITOR TIMES:—There was another premature explosion of a blast at Slope, No. 1., to-day, severely burning one man's arms, to the shoulders.

A carpenter by the name of Pierce, fell from a scaffold at the Smelting works.
Weather cold, business dull.

A besieging party do not generally expect to be made comfortable by the enemy, but the bitterness of an anti liquor war at Oberlin, Ohio, has been aggravated by the refusal of a man, whose place is spied upon, to furnish accommodations to his accusers. The proprietor of a drug store is charged with selling liquor upon the verbal prescription of persons presenting themselves, and in such doses as they demand. The temperance people therefore determined to keep two of their number constantly on guard in the store, a change of pickets taking place every hour. These sentinels made themselves at home and rested comfortably until the druggist put his chairs where they could not be got at. Then the temperance watchers brought camp stools with them. As a further hint that their company was not wanted, the druggist threw men and stools into the street. In this emergency the temperance people appealed to the Mayor, who is in sympathy with them. He at once commissioned thirty citizens as deputy marshals, and the picketing of the drug store is continued. What greater right to the shelter and comfort of the store than these marshals have does not appear, but the druggist has submitted to the arrangement. He has, however, begun a series of damage suits, which will furnish some of the soldiers of teetotalism with occupations in the courts for a while.

Quick and Sure.
Many miserable people drag themselves about with tailing strength, feeling that they are steadily sinking into their graves, when by using Parker's Ginger Tonic they would find a cure commencing with the first dose, and vitality and strength quickly and surely coming back to them.

Conflicting Questions.
The Chairman of the town Board of West Butler has requested Mayor Shobe to meet him in conference upon the mutual relations of the two cities.

West Butler claims that she has a right under the Statutes to regulate dramshops 1-2 miles from her limits which will take in all of the saloons in Butler. Such being the case they wish to know what proportion of the licenses now levied on saloons in East Butler they may or will consent to give them for their consent to permit saloons to run in East Butler.
West Butler also claims that they are entitled to the West school house and will organize a village school district next week and take charge of said West school house.

They propose to take jurisdiction of every other case of prize fighting, dueling etc. occurring on the neutral tract of land belonging to Henry and Atkinson north of school house, giving East Butler the 1st case, then the 2nd case, and thence alternately.

West Butler will pass an ordinance next week quarantining against meazles and whooping cough, which will materially reduce attendance on the West school house.

It has been ascertained also that the new opera house will be within one-half mile of West Butler's limits and they want a share in all licenses for theatricals taking place therein.
Various other matters too numerous to mention will come up in said conference which the TIMES will report in due season.

It is now in order for the street Railway Co. to get permission to extend their track through West Butler to the depot. Give West Butler the tax on the Railroad and buildings including the elevator and they are financially healed.

The situation is becoming more desperate in the overflowed districts along the Mississippi river, the town of Austin, between Memphis and Helena, is almost completely distroyed. The distress of the people is great. The Secretary of war has sent twenty thousand rations more, in addition to those previously sent, which will soon be exhausted. Gov.
Crittenden attended the meeting of the merchants of St. Louis, on yesterday, on change at 1 o'clock p. m., and made an earnest appeal in behalf of the suffering people in South-east Mo., and about two thousand dollars in money, and provisions was at once donated. A relief committee was appointed to solicit further aid, unless a subsidence of the waters soon takes place, the distress and suffering of the people in those districts, which are inundated will be horrible.

Brain And Nerve.

dy on earth for impotence, leanness, sexual debility, &c., $1 at druggists,

Make Him High Cockerallum.
Boston Post:—Grant has had bull pups, fast horses, Jersey cows, households, house lots, fat purses of money, two terms of the Presidency, a bank Presidency, a Mexican land grant given him, a house full of trinkets from the Shah of Persia, the King of Siam, and from emperors, empresses, queens, lords, dukes, barons, counts and Wall street brokers; and now the Senate of the United States has voted to make him General of the army with a salary. Why not declare Grant to be the grand high cockerallum of the universe and done with it? The Democratic Senators who voted to make him General of the Army, would doubtless be glad to do what they could in this direction. His salary should not be less than $10,000,000.

Wine Products of New Jersey.
This State is becoming celebrated for its wines. Some of the richest in the world are produced in New Jersey, by Mr.
A. Speer, whose name has become celebrated as a producer of strictly pure unadulterated Port Grape wine. The wine of Mr. Speer is not bottled or put in market until it is four years old, and has become thoroughly fine and mellow. It has proved itself a wonderful assistant to physicians, who prescribe it. The wine is recommended for debilitated persons, and is given to consumptives. The difficulty of getting an imported or even a pure California Port is well understood to be so great as to preclude doctors from allowing their patients to run the risk of its use. Mr. Speer being aware of this fact has taken the utmost care in the making of his wine, so as to supplant the imported wines by producing a genuine article. His wines are known by chemists to be pure and the most reliable for medicinal purposes. The druggists throughout the country sell it, as bottled by Mr.
Speer.—N. Y. Tribune.
