The Academy.

After a great deal of time and hard work has been expended, the Board of Trust of our Academy have secured almost enough means to enable them to erect such an addition to the present building as the exigencies of the school demand. But they find themselves so far unable to carry out the plans and designs of their architect. They desire not only to erect a sufficiently commodious building, but one also which will be satisfactory to the people and an ornament to the town. But unless the friends will assist them still further in the work, they will be compelled to either diminish the size of the building, or else to erect a building severely plain or barn like in appearance, neither of which alterations are they willing to adopt without receiving instructions from the people whose servants they are. Now, friends, what shall your committee do? It remains with you to instruct them as to your wishes in the matter.

John C. Armstrong's Death.

Odesa, Mo., July 25.—John C. Armstrong, a highly esteemed citizen of Bates City, was found dead by the side of the Chicago and Alton railroad track at this place this morning with his head severed from his body. It seems that he was in Missouri City yesterday, and on his return home the train failed to stop at his station, and he came on and got off at this place. When attempting to board a freight train to return to Bates City, he was thrown under the train, and he met his death as stated. He was a member in good standing of Oak lodge, A. F. & A. M.

National Greenback Labor Convention

The National Greenback Labor County Convention for Bates is hereby called to meet at the Court house in Butler on Saturday, Aug. 2nd, at 10 o'clock, p. m., for the selecting of delegates to the Congressional Convention to be held at Rich Hill August 9th; and to elect two delegates to the State Convention called to meet at Kansas City August 20. The committee deem it wise to call a mass convention, as there will be a reorganization for the campaign, and every earnest national is expected to be present. It is specially desired that representatives from every township be in attendance. Come out and re-enlist for the war of 1884.

RICH HILL, Mo., July 16th

A burglar cut through the screen door of C. C. McGee, on the East Side, Saturday night and stole his pants from under his head, getting over $200. This was a bold strike. Every man should sleep with a gun in his hand, to perforate sneak thieves.
—Rich Hill Enterprise.

The old rebel yell heard at Chicago still torments the God-and-morality fellows. Why should it? They might raise one of their own if they would try right hard. There's Longstreet, Mosby, Chalmers, Elkins, Ochiltree, Riddleberger, and little Billy Mahone, to say nothing of a few thousand or so ex-rebel Readjusters. Get these fellows together and start Dixie, and if they don't raise a shout which will make Bunker Hill monument tremble to its base it will be because they are not yet through with their plundering contracts with the Black Republican party.

Look Out for this Forger.

A good looking, good sized young man, well dressed, six feet tall, or more, weight about 160 pounds; 30 years old, straight build, walks fast; has small chin whiskers and mustache of light color; wears heavy gold chain; gives name as Saunders, Davis, Collins, Hassett; works the country schools, calls on district clerks and on some pretence, gets permission to examine district records—copies the clerk's signature; can imitate any signature perfectly; carries his own blanks and presents the orders to the county treasurer for payment.

The Press.

From the New York World.

In its Presidential campaign hitherto the democratic party has had arrayed against it the most powerful journalistic intellects of the metropolis. The illustrated press has been especially a vigorous enemy. This year the democratic standard bearer is fortunate in having on his side the ablest newspapers and the brightest caricaturists of New York. Here is the press roster: For Cleveland—The World, Herald, Times, Journal of Commerce, Staats-Zeitung, Evening Post, Graphic, Morning Journal, Truth, Telegram, Dial, News, Courier des Etats Unis, Puck, Harper's Weekly, Life and the Independent. For Blaine—The Tribune, the Commercial Advertiser, The Judge, Mail and Express and Irish World.

FOR SALE.

Owing to the fact that the new elevator of Lefker & Childs requires my entire time, and that I cannot give that attention to other business that is necessary, I have concluded to offer my flouring mill known as the

for sale. This mill is situated on one of the principle streets near the business part of the city of Butler, with a well established custom and merchant business and good reputation, in fact during a large portion of time has been compelled to run day and night to fill its orders.

The building is 45x50 feet, 2 stories and basement with commodious office attached. Its machinery consists of a 30 horse power boiler and engine, 4 run of burrs, Middlings purifier, cornsheller, with ample cleaning and bolting machinery, wagon and other scales, plenty of well arranged storage room for grain, everything in good order, and built with an eye for convenience, and doing business expeditiously and satisfactorily.

This is a fine opportunity for any one who desires to engage in the milling business and will bear investigation. The property is good, and the location cannot be excelled in southwest Missouri.

Will exchange for farm or city property, or will sell on very easy terms, with ample time and easy rate of interest. For terms call on or address
