How Watch Cases are Made.

Imitation always follows a successful article, and imitation is one of the best proofs of real honest merit; and thus it is that the James Bosse Gold Watch Case has its imitators. Buyers can always tell the genuine by the trade-mark of a crown, from which is suspended a pair of James Bosse watches. Be sure both crown and watches are stamped in the cap of the watch case. Jewelers are very cautious about endorsing an article unless they not only know that it is good, but that the character of the manufacturer is such that the quality of the goods will be kept fully up to standard.

WILLIAMSBURG, Pa., Feb. 12, 1888.
The gold case, No. 625, known as the James Bosse Gold Watch Case, came into my possession about 1875, and has been in use since that time, and is still in good condition. The movement is the one which was in the case when I bought it, and its condition shows that it has really out-lived the movement, which is proof of its excellence. MARTIN A. HOWELL, of Board of Directors N. J. R. & T. Co. Inc. and I sent stamp to Keystone Watch Case Factory, Philadelphia, Pa., for handsome Illustrated Pamphlet showing how the James Bosse and Keystone Watch Cases are made.

FIGHTING IN MID-AIR.

Terrible Combat Between Workmen on a Narrow Platform One Hundred Feet High.

Chicago, Ill., March 11.—Two men were busy on Marshall, Field & Co.'s new building this morning, adjusting the tree derricks, and were standing on a little platform not more than 6 by 10 feet in size and nearly 100 feet above ground, when suddenly one of them rushed at the other, who was kneeling, and struck him with his fist.

The assailed party struggled to his feet, seized a hammer and made a savagely blow at the other's head, Things began to get exciting indeed, and a large crowd gathered and watched the battle.

The man with hammer was evidently furious, and the other very much alarmed. The latter started to run, with his assailant, hammer in hand, after him. Round and round the narrow platform they went, pursuer occasionally reaching for the pursued with the hammer, but always missing him.

At last the pursued party turned and grappled with the other, and over the edge they went, each one clinging by only one hand and trying to shove his opponent off.

After what seemed to the people collected in the street below a struggle lasting half an hour, during which it seemed as if one or the other must be dashed on the heavy stones below, other workmen succeeded in reaching them and both were carted off to the hospital.

A Disconsolate Veteran.

"No, I didn't lose that leg in the war," replied a stranger yesterday, as he leaned up against the cold wall of the post office. "I used to claim that my leg was shot off at the battle of Antietam, but one day something happened to cure me of lying. I was stumping along the highway in Ohio, and stopped at a farm house to beg for dinner.

"Where did you lose that leg?" asked the woman.

"At Gettysburg,"

"Sit down till I call my husband."

"He came in from the barn, and I was asked where my regiment was stationed in the battle.

"In the cemetery," I replied.

"Oh! Well, my son Bill was in the cemetery, too. I'll call him in."

"Bill soon came in, and he wanted to know what particular gravestone I took shelter behind. I said it was a Scotch granite monument.

"Oh," granted Bill; "my brother Bob was behind just such a stone, and I'll call him in."

"Bob came in, and he swore a mighty oath that he was there alone.
He sort of pre-empted that monument, and remembered the inscription to a word. However, to give me the benefit of the doubt I was asked to name my company and regiment.

"Company 'B,' Fifth Ohio," I promptly answered.

"Oh! Brother Jim was in that company; I'll call him in."

"Jim came in, took a square look at me and remarked:

"Stranger, our regiment wasn't within two hundred miles of Gettysburg during the war."

"I said Twenty-fifth! Of course the Fifth wasn't there."

"Oh! I'll call in my brother Aaron; he was in the Twenty-fifth."

"Aaron came in, called me a wooden-legged har, and I was pitched over the fence into the road.
They've got this war business down so fine that you can't go around playing roots on the country no more, and the best way is to own right up that you got drunk and got in the way of a locomotive."—Detroit Free Press.

The Language of the Cane.

To tap it on the pavement at every step means: "Object is no money to me. I'm trying to wear out the ferule."

To poke a person in the ribs with it—who is standing up on a chair three rows ahead of the pokist at a slugging match, insinuates, "Down in the front."

To hurriedly slip it down the pantaloons-leg and walk away with it concealed therein evidences that it has previously been feloniously "magnetized" from some hall-rack and the rightful owner is approaching.

To point with it at a rare old painting in a picture gallery indicates that the check boy was asleep when the visitor came through the entry door.

To carry the upper end in the overcoat pocket, with the bottom part sticking up in front, signifies that the nickel plate has worn off from its bogus leaden head, and the same would blacken the dudelet's tan-colored glove if held in his hand.

To carelessly but gracefully drop it denotes the exhilaration of too much high-priced fine wine aboard; while to awkwardly get it tangled up among the legs and plump the bearer forward on his nasal abutment sadly goes to prove a wholesale consumption of common 5 cent red. red liquor.

To pedestrianize on a crowded side-walk with it run through the akimboed elbows and across the back—with ends projecting beyond each arm—intimates that there is plenty of room out in the middle of the street for other people who do not care to be swiped off into the gutter in passing.

To hold it in the center, with the handed portions downward, is intended by an effeminate "mover" to demonstrate this: "Aw, this stick is weally so pawtively top-eavy, aw, that I—nevah 'aving been used to manual labah, aw, find it a wicid-ulously weighty burden, aw."

To present it, nicely engraved, to a trusted clerk on New Year's day as a recognition of "long and faithful service," conveys the sorrowful fact to the t. c. that ye employer's act is an economical "stave off" against his hireling's hoped-for raise in salary.—Detroit Free Press.

All For a Few Cents.

Decatur, Ill., March 11.—Three well dressed young men, Edward Ivy and Bruce Woodward of West Liberty, Ill., and Charles McKim of Cordon, Ind., got on the westbound accommodation train on the Decatur and Evansville road this morning at Mattoon, for the purpose of stealing a ride in a box car, which was closed and locked after them by the train-men.

When within ten miles of Decatur the trio became involved in a fight, which ended in McKim's shooting Ivy in the head, back and abdomen, while Woodward, who also had a revolver, emptied the five chambers at McKim without hitting him.
Nine shots were fired in the dark car, while Ivy lay upon the floor weltering in his life blood.

The noise attracted the attention of the conductor, who with a U. S. deputy marshal who happened to be on board, went to the car, opened it and found McKim and Woodward in a hand to hand conflict over the body of Ivy, who was unconscious.

The young men were brought to Decatur and placed in jail. Ivy is at the Laclede hotel and is thought to be dying this evening.

Woodward, who has worked for farmers in Logan county, stated that McKim fired the first shot without provocation for the purpose of robbing his partner Ivy, and that he (Woodward) did not shoot until he thought McKim intended to kill.
There were but $3.40 in the party, about equally divided.

McKim alleges that his companions had made it up to rob him of his watch and money.

A gentleman who had carefully trained up a servant in the way he should go, so that when his wife was present he might not depart from it, sent him with a box ticket for the theater to the house of a young lady.
The servant returned when the gentleman and wife were at dinner. He had, of course, been told in giving answers in certain cases to substitute the masculine for the feminine pronoun. "Did you see him?" asked the master. "Yes, sir," replied the servant. "He said he'd go with you pleasure, and that he'd wait for you, sir." "What was he doing?" asked the wife carelessly. "Putting on his bonnet, ma'am," said the idiot.—

STATE OF MISSOURI,
COUNTY OF BATES, ss.
In the Circuit Court of Bates county, June term, 1888.
Henry Hartman, plaintiff, vs.
John F. Stobugh, defendant.

This day comes the plaintiff herein by his attorney, the undersigned Clerk of the Circuit Court in vacation and adjudication and affidavit, alleging, among other things, that defendant is not a resident of the state of Missouri.

Whereupon it is ordered by the Clerk in vacation that said defendant be notified by publication that plaintiff has commenced suit against him in this court, the object and general nature of which is to correct a deed made by the defendant to one Lewis Smith, wherein defendant conveyed the north half of the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 9, township 38 of range 22, in Bates county, Missouri, instead of the south half of the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of said section 9, as aforesaid, and to do, and to divest title to said south half of the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 9 aforesaid from the defendant and vest the same in plaintiff as grantee of said Lewis Smith. Also for the purpose of obtaining a decree cancelling a certain mortgage made by said Lewis Smith to the defendant about the 8th day of September, 1887, and the following land in Bates county, Missouri, to-wit: The southeast quarter of section 9, township 38 of range 22, in Bates county, Missouri, and the south half of the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter and the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 9 and the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section No. 22, all in township No.
38, range No. 22; the said mortgage having been paid off by said Lewis Smith to the defendant about the 30th day of June, 1888, and the same not being released on the records of Bates and that unless said John F. Stobugh be and appear at this Court, at the next term thereof, he began and he had prepared a certain in the city of Butler, in said county, on the seventh (7th) day of said term, and on or before the sixth day of said term, if the same shall so long continue—and if not then on or before the sixth day of said term—answer or plead to the petition in said cause, the same will be taken as confessed, and judgment will be rendered accordingly.

And be it further ordered, that a copy hereof be published, according to law, in the Butler Weekly Times, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Butler, Missouri, for four weeks successively, the last insertion to be at least four weeks before the first day of the next term of Circuit Court.

A true copy from the Record. Witness my hand and the Seal of the Circuit Court of Bates county, this 15th day of June, 1888.
J. R. JENKINS, Circuit Clerk.

Mortgagee's Sale.

Whereas, Abbie Martin and W. J. Martin her husband, the mortgagors, did, by their certain chattel mortgage, dated January 1st, 1888, and duly acknowledged, executed and delivered to the undersigned, on January 14th, 1888, and duly recorded in book No. 10 of the Mortgage Record of Bates county, Missouri, said above mentioned date, sell, assign transfer and set over to the undersigned, the following described property to-wit: One black horse, 3 years old, white snip on the nose, about 16 hands high. One bay horse, known as the A. Henry horse, about 15 1/2 hands high, two bay horses, 7 and 9 years old, about 14 1/2 hands high; one bay mare, split in left ear 14 hands high; one black horse about 15 hands high; one dun pony, 7 or 8 years old, about 13 1/4 hands high; one bay horse about 8 years old, about 15 hands high; one bay horse 7 years old, blaze face, about 15 hands high; one span of gray mares about 15 hands high; about 5 and 7 years old respectively; one spring buggy, one single buggy, one gray spring; also all harness, saddles, robes, whips &c., sold by said second party to said first party to secure the payment of certain promissory notes in said chattel mortgage fully described below. And whereas default has been made in the payment of certain notes and interest in said chattel mortgage described, the said Eliza J. Willis the undersigned by virtue of the term of the said chattel mortgage, and the power in her vested, did elect and declare the whole sum therein described to become immediately due and payable on the 8th day of February 1888. And whereas and whereas the said notes in said mortgage described are not fully paid and satisfied, Therefore the undersigned having taken possession of said property will on Wednesday, April 7th 1886, at the Elk Horn Stable in the city of Butler county of Bates and state of Missouri sell, at public auction to the highest bidder for cash or such amount thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said debt and cost. Witness my hand this the 12th day of March 1888.

ELIZA J. WILLIS, Mortgagee.
