A Clever Artist.

St. Joseph, Mo., March 20.—Fred Jones, 19 years of age, who has been sick at the city hospital for the past three weeks, was to-day arrested on a United States warrant, charging him with counterfeiting and passing $5 treasury notes. He was unable to give bond and was taken to jail. Young Jones is a crayon artist, and the counterfeit of which he is accused of making is one of the most perfect in existence. He uses no plates it is understood, but does everything with a pencil, and says he can make one $5 note a day.

"Uncle Sam" Losing.

Danville, Va., March 21.—More than 200 moonshiners have established fortified camp in Franklin county, this state, and openly defy the authorities. They have over 100 illicit stills in operation, and are producing thousands of barrels of whiskey on which no duty to Uncle Sam is paid.

Another Boy Under the Wheels.

Dr. Britts was called by telegram last evening (Monday) to Rockville, Mo., to amputate the thigh of little Frank Leslie, a six year-old son of Jno. W. Turner, a merchant of that place. The little fellow's injuries were so great that his limb had to be taken off close to the body and there is but little chance for his recovery. He was led by older boys to jump the south-bound freight, as it was leaving the side track where it was switched to let the 3 o'clock passenger by, and had his leg crushed throughout its greater extent.—Clinton Democrat.

One thing the farmer can do that will be of advantage and that is to kill and cure a large portion of his fat hogs at home instead of selling them on foot to be manipulated by the various combinations of middlemen. Butchering is growing to be one of the lost arts on the farm and much to the disadvantage of the farmers. In the south they manage this better and kill and cure their own meat selling the surplus to the people of the neighboring towns after it is cured. We must come back to this plan very largely in the west. Village people would much rather buy hams, bacon, sausage and lard of those they know will give them honest, wholesome goods than buy that they are not sure of and there is money in supplying them.—Nevada Noticer.

The Press and School Room.

L. E. Wolf, school commissioner of Randolph county, and who is prominently mentioned in connection with the school commissioner-ship of the state, in speaking of the relationship of the press to the schoolroom and the home says: "Our public school system represents an investment of over a hundred million dollars, and employs 15,000 teachers. The State Superintendent who, through the press of the state, can thoroughly organize the work of these fifteen thousand teachers will almost double the effectiveness of this system, and add millions of dollars to the valuation of Missouri property. Every teacher should take his local paper and urge his pupils or their parents to do the same, so that the state superintendent could reach the fifteen thousand teachers and parents of the seven hundred thousand pupils through the press of the State."

Cattlemen's Convention.

Clinton Democrat The twenty-eight Missouri delegates to the cattlemen's convention which met last week at Fort Worth, Texas, returned to their homes last Friday. Among the gentlemen personalized in the Ft. Worth Gazette, was one of Clinton's best known citizens, of whom it said:

"Major Harvey W. Salmon, of whom mention was made yesterday, is president of the Missouri immigration society, an organization only two years old, but which during that brief period has done great and valuable services in forwarding the growth and prosperity of Central and southwest Missouri. Major Salmon has been prominently spoken of in connection with the governorship of Missouri, and would, were he to consent to become a candidate, have a formidable following in the next democratic state convention."

All the new novelties in spring neck wear, flannel shirts, stiff and soft hats, underwear and hosiery at SAM'L LEVY & CO.

R. G. Wilson, of Nevada, was in the city Friday, and acted the part of a wise man in buying a fine brown Jack of Colyer Bros. This jack stands 15 hands high, and was a regular beauty. The price paid was $800. Mr. Wilson claims to be a judge of the jack creation and he informed us that he had searched the country to find an animal that suited his fancy, but in all his hunt and out of all the jacks he saw, found none that reached the standard of perfection as did those on sale by Colyer Bros., and the only trouble with him in buying was to make up his mind as to which one he wanted, as they were all good.

Colyer Bros., still have a few more left out of their last shipment, and we would advise our farmers to not let this opportunity of securing a fine jackship go by.

Spring Millinery.

This item of news will be interesting to our lady readers, as it relates to Mrs. Kennett's large and elegant line of spring millinery goods which she has just placed on exhibition at her store on the west side of the square. The TIMES claims to be a judge of fine millinery, and we can say to our lady readers that we have examined Mrs. Kennett's new stock, and it is by far the handsomest and largest line of goods we have ever seen her place on sale in this city. The pattern hats shown us are just lovely, the trimmings run more to flowers and ribbons this season and in this line her stock and selection is not to be surpassed. In a short notice of this kind it is almost impossible to give you hardly an idea of her elegant stock of new style bonnets, hats, flowers, ribbons, trimmings, &c., and we will have to ask you to call and see for yourself in order to appreciate the new goods. One other thing we want to call your attention to and that is her stock of baby caps. This is something new, so mothers if you want your babies to look pretty you don't want to fail to call and buy one of these beautiful caps, they are the prettiest things you ever saw. Be sure to call and see Mrs. Kennett's new stock before you buy.

Arrested for Murder.

Carthage, Mo., March 20.—An arrest was made to-day in connection with the murder of George N. Horn who was killed last October while returning from his store to his home in the southeastern part of the city. A young fellow named Shockly was arrested at the instigation of the coroner's jury, but at the first examination he was discharged. To-day in consequence of an indictment by the grand jury, Ben Woodward was arrested and placed in jail. The nature of the testimony is said to be strong. Sheriff Miller and Detective Davis of Springfield made the arrest. A purse of $1,000 was subscribed by citizens at the time as a reward for the arrest and conviction.
