

Guides of Telephonic Speech

THE telephone wires are the guides of telephonic speech.

Along these wires pass the electric impulses which reproduce the vibrations of the human voice to the listening ear of the person you wish to reach.

Along these talk tracks the electric current travels at the rate of 56,000 miles a second. No matter what the distance, telephonic communication is practically instantaneous.

There are 21,000,000 miles of these guiding wires in the Bell system. They form a national system of highways and byways for telephonic speech uniting more than 9,000,000 telephone subscribers, and carrying 28,000,000 telephone talks daily.

PONY, LASHED BY BOY THROWS GIRL RIDERS

Mary Vandivort and Ruby Rice Escape Being Trampled—Suffer Bruises.

Two little girls, Mary Harriet Vandivort and Ruby Rice, yesterday morning narrowly escaped serious injury beneath the heels of their pet pony when the animal threw them after having been struck by a boy's whip as they were riding in Jackson.

Both children sustained scratches on their faces and hands as well as bruises on their bodies, but neither was seriously hurt. The Vandivort child, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Vandivort of Jackson, suffered a bad bruise on her face and injured her right knee.

The Rice girl is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Rice and she hurt her left arm besides being scratched up. As soon as the children had fallen from the back of the pony, the animal stood perfectly still, so that the girls managed to get away from its heels and escape being trampled or kicked while on the ground.

They had been riding the pony when Clarence Dickerson, a delivery boy for the Mueller meat market in Jackson, struck the pony lightly with his whip. The girls' mount was unaccustomed to the lash and the moment that the blow was struck the animal jumped forward, causing the girls to fall off.

The pony belongs to Mr. Vandivort, having been purchased only recently for the entertainment of his children.

MAY FESTIVAL IN ORAN FILLS CITY

Auto Parade Is One of the Most Attractive Events of Celebration.

The May Festival which was held in Oran yesterday filled that little city to overflowing with visitors. It was a day of big events, feasts, pretty girls and women.

A monster parade of more than one hundred decorated autos was the principal event of the morning. The parade started at the city hall at 9:30, and passed through the principal streets. The May Queen and her escorts—fairies and flower girls—were some of the pretty events. The toy soldiers, the clowns and suffragettes furnished amusement for the spectators. A dinner was served by the ladies of the Methodist church at noon.

The automobiles were beautifully decorated. Some with roses exclusively, others with flowers and bunting; but all were decorated. Many prizes were awarded for various features. A cash prize was given to the owner of the best decorated auto.

The afternoon was taken up chiefly with athletic events. The program for the afternoon, and which was carried out, follows: Bicycle race; 100-yard dash, boys over 16; 50-yard dash, fat men; 50-yard dash, lean men; 50-yard dash, boys under 12; 50-yard dash, girls under 12; sack race, boys over 12; three-legged race, boys over 12; married ladies' race; potato race; pea-

JULIUS C. FISHER MARRIED 25 YEARS

Well-Known Cape Man and Wife Commemorate Wedding Anniversary—Friends Present.

Memories of a wedding ceremony twenty-five years ago were revived Wednesday night by Mr. and Mrs. Julius C. Fisher of 25 North Fountain street, as they entertained a party of friends who surprised them on the silver anniversary of their marriage.

The couple, who are well known in the Cape, were married on Independence street in the former home of H. A. Pott, the bride's father, who used to conduct a harness and saddlery shop in the early days of the town's history.

The wedding was performed by Rev. Flachback, pastor of the Lutheran church at that time, and those who "stood up" with the bridal couple were Mrs. Emma Maul, a sister of the bride and then Miss Emma Pott, and Miss Lettie Fisher, a sister of the bridegroom, who now is Mrs. Charles Tamm of Washington, Mo., as the bride's attendants, and Emil Pott and Peter Maul, as groomsmen. Peter Maul and Miss Emma Pott subsequently went to the altar themselves.

Those who called upon Mr. and Mrs. Fisher were: Mrs. F. W. Pott, Mrs. Louis Pott, Mrs. Emil Pott, Mrs. Gas Pott, Dr. and Mrs. L. F. Popp, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rodbaugh, and Mrs. Emma Maul with her five children.

The Fishers this week are entertaining at their home Mrs. M. J. S. Burkhardt, her daughter, Mrs. August Lucker, and son, Otto Burkhardt, all of Chicago, who are relatives of the Fishers.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher have five children. They first met each other when Mr. Fisher was an engineer working out of Sedalia. After their marriage they came to the Cape to live and have remained here since. Mr. Fisher now is an engineer on the Frisco.

TO HOLD GOLDEN JUBILEE.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mabrey Will Celebrate Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mabrey, pioneer residents of Cape County, today will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding at their home five miles from this city on the Gordonville road. The golden jubilee will be marked with a family re-union of the old-fashioned kind.

Until ten years ago the couple lived on a farm at Gravel Hill, near Burfordville. They were married at Burfordville. Mrs. Mabrey before marriage was Miss Mary Berry.

The Mabreys have nine children, all living, and all of them will attend the big event. The children are: Cornelius and Court Mabrey and Mrs. Frank Leslie, of Gravel Hill; Silas Mabrey, of Sikeston; Toobe Mabrey, of Illinois; G. W. Mabrey, of the Cape; Nancy, Maranda and Dora Mabrey, who live at home.

Ten grandchildren and two great-grandchildren also will attend the celebration.

nut race; young ladies' race; laundry race, young ladies; 3:30 to 5 o'clock, show at opera house; 5 to 7, band concert; 7:30 show at opera house.

COUSINS, APART 35 YEARS, MEET HERE

Mrs. Anna Mueller and Relative Recognize Each Other at Sight—Last Met as Girls.

After an elapse of thirty-five years, during which time neither saw the other, Mrs. Anna Mueller, of this city, and Mrs. Marie Klages, of Akron, O., met at the station here and recognized each other at sight.

Mrs. Mueller is one of the well known ladies of Cape Girardeau. This has been her home since she was a child. Mrs. Klages, who is a first cousin of Mrs. Mueller, was born and reared in Hanover, Germany. Thirty-five years ago she married and came to America on a honeymoon, locating with her husband at Akron.

Mrs. Mueller, who was but a girl then, had never seen her cousin. She went with her relatives to Akron to meet Mr. Klages and his bride. They corresponded regularly after Mrs. Mueller had returned to her home in Cape Girardeau, but that was the last time they met.

The distance between the two cities kept them apart for thirty-five years. A week ago Mrs. Klages, who is now a widow, accompanied her son Louis out west to claim his bride. After the marriage ceremony the bride and groom departed on their honeymoon.

Mrs. Klages Sr., decided she would take advantage of the opportunity to visit her relatives in Cape Girardeau, and she notified Mrs. Mueller of her plans, and stated when she would reach this city. She had never seen Cape Girardeau before, and Mrs. Mueller and her daughter, Miss Helen, a teacher in the Jefferson school, went to the station to meet Mrs. Klages.

Mrs. Mueller's and Mrs. Klages' eyes met. Both smiled simultaneously, and their thoughts went scampers back over memory's dim horizon. It was thirty-five years ago that they had smiled at each other last. Both were but girls then. Now they are mothers of children older than Mrs. Mueller and Mrs. Klages were when they last met.

Mrs. Klages is going to make a good long stay at the Mueller home to make up for the long, long absence between visits. Mrs. Mueller has arranged a series of entertainments for her cousin, and the Ohio visitor is being made to vividly realize what she has missed by living thirty-five years in the United States without even visiting little old Cape Girardeau.

JOHN RUDERT SELLS OUT TILSIT SHOPS

Pioneer Blacksmith and Machinist Is Considering Coming to the Cape.

John Rudert of Tilsit, who probably is the best known blacksmith in Cape County, yesterday sold his blacksmith shop, residence, machine shop and hardware store in Tilsit to William Macke of Gordonville.

Mr. Rudert now is being urged by his two sons, Edwin and Otto Rudert, both machinists in Cape automobile garages, to come to the Cape and engage in business here. He is considering the proposition of coming to this city and has told his friends that to fall, when he will turn over his business completely to Mr. Macke, he will have made his decision.

For the last thirty-five years Mr. Rudert has been known in all parts of the county as a machinist and blacksmith. He has built up his business in Tilsit from a small cross-roads shop.

Mr. Rudert is a son-in-law of Louis Kipping, retired merchant of Tilsit, who now resides on William street.

BODY OF MAN TRAIN KILLED, IS BURIED

Homer Crites Met Death Instantly on Cotton Belt Tracks Wednesday.

The body of Homer Crites, who was killed instantly Wednesday morning when he was struck and run over by a Cotton Belt freight train, was conveyed to Lutesville yesterday by Constable Otto F. Willa, at which place the funeral was held.

The body was claimed by Charles Crites, a brother, who lives on a farm near Lutesville, and who was unable to pay for the casket in which his brother's body was buried. Constable Willa furnished the casket.

At the inquest a verdict of accidental death was returned. Crites was identified by means of two notes which he had in his pockets. One of the notes was written on the back of a postcard bearing photographs of two women. It said: "In case of accident, please notify Pearl Crites, Genoa, Ark."

The other note, in exactly similar terms, was written on a piece of paper which had been folded up in his pocket. Authorities who investigated the death were unable to locate the Pearl Crites at Genoa, Ark., who is the man's wife.

Crites was walking along the Cotton Belt tracks a half mile from Randles station as the freight train approached. When the engine was but three car lengths away, the engineer said, Crites stepped upon the track. He was dead by the time the trainmen reached him after the train had been brought to a stop.

One leg was completely severed and the heel of the other foot was crushed. He was injured about the head and body also.

CULTIVATE YOUR CORN CAREFULLY URGES ADVISER

By C. M. McWILLIAMS (County Agent)

Now is the time to do the most careful cultivating of corn. The first and second plowings may well be deeper than succeeding ones. Weeds are small and if they are destroyed and the field put in good condition, the young corn gets a start and is not difficult to handle. The corn plant sends out a great network of roots and is a heavy feeder, but now, while the plants are small, medium cultivation can safely be practiced. Later in the season when the roots have become established, deep plowing breaks many of them off and injures the plant in proportion to the amount of pruning done.

The breeders of pure-bred heel cattle who met in February and organized an association for their mutual benefit, have called their second meeting for Monday, June 5. The meeting will be held at the Courthouse in Jackson. Prof. S. T. Simpson, a beef cattle man from the Missouri College of Agriculture, will address the meeting.

While cowpens are comparatively cheap and plentiful is a good time to plant a few acres on thin land, let them mature and plow them under this fall. Such a field is in good condition to sow to rye and later clover. The rye can be utilized for pasture without injury to the young clover.

Potato beetles and some other insects are prevalent in nearly every potato patch and destroy the vines. They can be controlled by spraying the potatoes with a solution of two pounds of arsenate of lead paste to fifty gallons of water. If the powdered form of the arsenate of lead is used, one pound is sufficient. For small plots one tablespoon of the poison to one gallon of water should be used. This is also an excellent remedy for cabbage worms and may be applied as often as necessary without any danger whatever of injuring or poisoning the cabbage. Arsenate of lead sticks to the plants better than Paris green and is not likely to burn the foliage.
