Well, Mr. Editor, you are wondering why the Cash-Book man does not put Parker at the head of the ticket. Well, I don't blame the editor for that, because Parker won't get out of his corner and tell the people what he is nor what he is going to do, nor what he wants to do. Now if Parker would know like Watson does, everybody would know without asking. Watson is no drone. He comes to the front and lets the people know what he is. He is for the people. So if the editor can't put Parker at the head of the ticket, tell him to put Watson there. We are all going to vote for Watson and a stock law.

Yours truly,
ITS ME.
