In the pamphlet just published by Rev. J. J. Lovett, there are three lectures as follows: "Poe's Raven," "Heredity and the Drink Habit," and "How Can Christians Make an Aggressive Warfare Against the Saloon?" In the interpretation of "Poe's Raven," Mr. Lovett brings out the forcefulness of habit and the application of the thoughts in the poem to character. The lecture on "Heredity" traces the evil and good qualities of the child back to parent or grandparent. In the third lecture, he shows the true christian's attitude against the saloon. He puts the church far above the other moral institutions that oppose the saloon, and advocates a united effort on the part of the churches and the saloon would go. Every church member should read this little book. The price is ten cents. It will not hurt you financially and it may help you intellectually. A party of four left St. Louis last Friday morning in an automobile for Jackson. They arrived here Saturday evening. This is the first automobile that ever made this trip—160 miles over hills and rocks. The party consisted of the following: Messrs. Oliver P. Burkart and E. C. Tenscher, and Misses Francis Tiemann and Anita Helmkamp. Mr. Fred Tiemann came to Jackson later, business interests keeping him from coming with the rest of the party.

Miss Helen Williams entertained a party of girls and boys at her home last Wednesday evening from 8 to 10:30 o'clock. The following were present: Clara Bell Burt, Lucy Morgon, Phoebe Limbaugh, Martha Cramer, Jean Caldwell, Henrietta Mueller, Carrie Atkins, Louise Behrens, Imogene Vinyard, Frankie Lusk, Ralph Brown, Roy Taylor, Murry Jones, Shannon Morgan, Tom English, George Hyde, Joe Todd, Earl Williams, and Robin Overmiller.

Died, at his home in this city, Monday, at 3:30 p. m., J. W. Limbaugh, aged about 52 years. Mr. Limbaugh was a good lawyer and a useful citizen. He was vice-president of the Jackson Exchange bank and city attorney at the time of his death. He, with his entire family, united with Presbyterian church prior to his death. He leaves a wife and five children to mourn his death. Funeral services were conducted at the residence by Rev. C. W. Latham. Interment in the city cemetery at 4 o'clock Tuesday. Mr. Limbaugh was a member of the A. O. U. W., Masonic and Elk lodges.

We are pleased to call the attention of our readers to a little advertisement that appears in this paper. There is existing with many people a wrong idea of the Keeley Cure—they think it makes one ill for a few days; or it destroys the mind at first or last; or that there are hardships connected with the treatment. In no case is this true. There is a noticeable improvement from the start; the mind is strengthened and recovers its normal condition under the treatment; the nervous system is restored, and as the drugs or alcohol are eliminated a healthy condition is builded, and the patient gradually loses the appetite for those things which the system craved during the diseased condition. Men who have taken the stand, who have decided that they have run the course and that their intelligence prompts them to change for the better manhood, have never regretted it, the only regret being that they did not take the treatment sooner. We have no hesitancy in recommending this institute. Dr. Blaine, the physician and manager, having been chief of the medical staff of the Keeley

We learn that on last Saturday night the night watchman at the normal school at the Cape struck Prof. W. S. Dearmont, president of the normal, with his club and broke Mr. Dearmont's jaw. It seems that the watchman had orders to let no one in the building after six o'clock. Prof. Dearmont and two other gentlemen came into the building to look around about six o'clock. The watchman stated to them his orders, and it seems that the professor and his party did not heed the watchman, so he struck him. To carry out orders to the letter, the watchman did his duty, but it seems to us that if a little "good sense and reason" had been used, the watchman need not have gone so far. He knew that Prof. Dearmont was not an
