Bloomfield Vindicator: "We have been advised by several whom we know to be our friends, that we had better lay off of the stock law question. This is a question everyone is entitled to, and should have an opinion of their own, and should be permitted to express that opinion without fear of offending some friend. The Vindicator has for over thirty years advised the people of this city and country on questions pertaining to the welfare and advancement of the population as a whole. While no doubt many mistakes have been made, we have been honest with our readers and advised what we thought was for the good of the majority. While we appreciate friendly advice, and are willing to listen to reason, we feel it our duty to urge the voters of this city to cast their vote in favor of the stock law."

The Hayti Herald has been served with the same warning, but it only served to increase our efforts.

Petroleum experts are busy investigating the lands near Clarkton, and succeeded in finding a specimen which a chemist reports to be "Grade mineral oil of a very fine quality." Mr. Hohlitzel, the principal promoter, the representative of a company with large capital, has contracted for the machinery with which to find the oil reservoir on Virgil McKay's land as near as practicable to Drainage Ditch No. 2, on the western boundary of the Gideon-Anderson land on which the prospectors hold an option. The work of drilling begins in 30 days and sink a well 2000 feet deep. The Malden Merit and the Clarkton Courier are enthusiastic over the prospects of seeing a dozen gushers discharging oil this fall, and the Record hopes they may not be disappointed.

Dunklin Democrat: Under a law which went into effect last Monday, all births and deaths must be reported by physicians and midwives, or others, to proper registration officers. Within ninety days after the law goes into effect, the state board of health must divide the state into registration districts and appoint local registrars. Each incorporated city becomes a district and the outlying county may be divided into as many as convenient. Up to this time in the country burial permits have not been necessary. Now before a body can be buried a permit must be obtained from the local registrar. Railroads may not take a body for shipment in the state until such certificate is obtained. The local registrars will be paid 25 cents for each birth or death certificate properly made out and filed with the state registrar. These are made monthly.

Richard Zeno, former editor of the Parma Victor, has set sail for parts unknown. Zeno was master of many trades and professions, being a good printer, painter, paper hanger, circus performer, carnival promoter, candy maker and what not but his domestic life was not pleasant. He and Mrs. Zeno quarreled and she finally left him, taking their young child. Zeno followed her to the Cape, thence to Kennett, and later gave up the chase and left the country.

Prohibition in Tennessee is a failure so far as it concerns Memphis. In fact, it doesn't concern Memphis, as the saloons are as wide open there as they were before prohibition went into effect. The only difference is, that the bottles instead of being on a shelf behind the counter, are now kept under the counter. You call for what you want and pay for what you get.—Portageville Critic.

Correspondence in Dunklin Democrat: When those oil experts came here, they made careful inquiry about whether substance resembling charred coal was found here. It is those black chunks found on the sand blows. They said that was a good sign of oil. They are to be found all over the county.

Correspondence in Dunklin Democrat: Last week, in Campbell, we saw two women cutting dog fennel in front of their houses along the street. All honor to those women in setting an example in cleaning up. Would it be possible to make the men ashamed?

The New Madrid merchants have subscribed money to pay the way back and forth across the river of parties from Kentucky and Tennessee who come to trade on Saturdays. Gasoline boats make trips all during the day.

A very fine vocalist arrived here Sunday to cheer up the sad hearts of our citizens.—Exchange.

What breed? Maltize or old "yaller."
