11 WHITES, 90 NEGROES DIE IN RIOTS

Tulsa Passes Night Calmly After Day of Bloodshed—Streets Cleared After 7 O'clock—Militia on Guard.

By International News Service.

Tulsa, Okla., June 2.—Business resumed today following Wednesday's bloody race war and after a night of quietude under guard of militia, it is thought that no fresh outbreak will occur.

Last night promptly at seven o'clock, the street cars were discontinued, pedestrians were barred from the streets and theatres, drug stores and other public gathering places were closed and a strict watch put over the entire city.

Dick Howard, a negro, who caused the trouble, is to be tried at once for attempted criminal assault. As a result of his desperate acts eleven whites and ninety negroes are lying dead in Tulsa today and it is estimated by Adjutant General Barrett that the wounded will reach a total above three hundred. Three thousand negro prisoners are being fed today by relief agencies.

It has been reported that large armed bands of negroes from Muskogee were preparing to advance on Tulsa but although a strict watch is being maintained, no great fears are entertained that this will materialize.

Large portions of the city have been swept away by fire and otherwise damaged by the rioters. It is thought that the police and militia have the situation well under hand.

CARRIES CORPSE AROUND FOR SHOW PURPOSES

By International News Service.

Sycamore, Ill., June 2.—For rent: A much dead "corpse," guaranteed not to walk in the night nor to otherwise annoy its owner.

This is the ultimatum of Marlan French, a penmanship teacher and owner of the "corpse." The "body" by the way, recently was alive enough to keep police in eight Indiana and Illinois towns on the jump for 24 hours. Even the Chicago police fell for the corpse, although the latter was partly victimized by some active students from a journalist school who had a sense of humor.

The "corpse" now stored in a stable here, first came to the attention of the students at the Sycamore station. Trainmen, suspecting the box which contained it to be a bootlegger's storeroom (the box weighed 480 pounds), opened it. They found the corpse of a man, dead eighty years and in a petrified state.

When the journalistic students noticed the "find" the immediately scattered reports of a brutal trunk murder in which a woman was cast as the victim. "She was stabbed in a dozen places," said their sensational reports.

Police "snapped into it" and ran down clues. The Sycamore police finally denied the murder story and announced the corpse was that of a man, dead at least eighty years. Its owner, French, was finally located.

He explained that he had been carrying the body around for exhibition purposes. He called it a "real American mummy."

"I bought it from South Dakota cowboys in 1881 as a bona fide petrified man," he said.

"It's caused me lots of trouble, so I'm going to rent it out for exhibition purposes," he added. "No, I don't to sell it."

PIERCE-RIDGLEY

The wedding Mr. Curtner Pierce to Miss Agnes Ridgley, both well-known young people of our city, was announced at the function at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. Horner, some weeks ago, occurred this morning at ten o'clock at the home of Miss Ridgley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ridgley, at Sixth and Highland. The wedding, solemnized by the Rev. Harry V. Muculloch, was a very quiet one, there being only a very few invited guests, with the immediate members of the family of the bride.

Boy friends of the groom, in a "develish" mood, had printed and scattered broadcast handbills announcing the wedding to take place this morning and inviting the general public to be present. Not satisfied with this, they "organized" a parade, with a ramshackle buggy, drawn by a very poor old horse, the wheels decorated with old auto castings and with a string of old tin pans, cans, etc. on the rear, properly carded with the name of the groom and the announcement that he was "just married." Headed by this equipage, carrying the bride and groom and his mother, closely followed by a car with several members of the local band, and quite a number of other automobiles following, the parade passed through the principal streets of the city following, the ceremony, after which the newlyweds were driven to Hayti, where they took the noon train for St. Louis.

They will return in perhaps a week's time and will occupy the Nethery property on West Eighth street, recently vacated by Geo. A. Lamb and family, which will be redecorated and put in readiness for them, meanwhile. We extend congratulations to the happy pair and hope that their future may be as pleasant and prosperous as indications now show that it should be.—Caruthersville Democrat.

WOMAN'S BEST DEFENSE HER VOICE

By International News Service.

Denver, June 2.—Attention, ladies!

Scream loud and long when confronted by a burglar or a footpad!

This is the advice of Chief of Police "Rug" Williams, given in a series of "Hints on Home Protection" for the benefit of the female of the species.

A woman's best defense against attack is her voice, declares Williams, and says that the best and quickest thing for her to do when confronted by an intruder is to scream—scream at the top of her voice—and the more terrified the pitch the more successful her effort is likely to be. Because, the Chief adds, either the burglar will flee or someone will come to her aid.

Time is too often limited in emergency cases for a woman to rush to a pillow, or a bureau drawer, to grasp a revolver, and, even when she does get hold of a gun, the chief thinks, the chances are she will not know how to use it. "So just scream, scream, scream."

And the high mogul of Denver's Police Department adds a few don'ts to the advice to women.

"Don't slip over to the grocery store and leave the doors open.

"Don't go out at night leaving the house black dark. A thief works best under cover of darkness.

"Raise the shades, light up dimly, and lock the house before going out for a evening.

"Don't hide the front door key under the porch mat for "sonny" or "sister" when they get home from school. A prowler watching the house is certain to discover the secret."

ENGLAND GAVE AID TO GREEKS, REPORT

Vast Sums of Money Said to Have Been Loaned Constantine Despite Anglo-French-Italian Agreement.

By NEWTON C. PARKE.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, June 2.—England not only gave the Greeks moral encouragement in their recent ill-fated campaign against the Turks in Asia Minor, but lent financial assistance and the advice of military experts, according to information from reliable sources here.

This help was given secretly because it violated the Anglo-French-Italian agreement reached at the London conference. Though the French Government, which has always worked for an understanding with Mustapha Kemal's Turkish nationalists, strongly opposed the Greek adventure a number of French banks are said to have helped provide funds.

It is estimated that General Papoulas' campaign cost Greece at least $30,000,000. It is known that the Bank of Greece was not prepared to furnish this sum and that King Constantine sent out distress signals for money before he ordered the offensive.

Exactly to what extent the English Government participated directly in financing the campaign is not known here. Nevertheless, it is no secret in banking circles that several big London banks helped raise funds.

In Paris a group of banks which has large interests in Greece and the Near East lent enough additional support to enable Constantine to get along without worry, despite the fact that he is still waiting for recognition by the Allied governments.

At Constantinople the Greeks received not only military advice but an organization is said to have been created by the British Embassy to help Constantine erect a civil administration if the Greek offensive had been a success. Mustapha Kemal's representatives here report that among the dead found by the Turks as the Greeks retreated were numerous British officers and that several Britishers were taken prisoners. Athens dispatches admit that one English colonel was killed while leading a counter-attack, but explain that he "happened" to be with the Greek troops and assumed command when their leader was killed.
