

MARBLE HILL PRESS.

VOL. X.

MARBLE HILL, MO., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1890.

NO. 18.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

—It is now lawful to kill wild turkeys.
—Go to W. S. King's for your merchandise.
—Wm. Drum is reported as being very sick.
—Miss Lou Shell has returned to St. Louis.
—On the 23rd the St. Francois County Fair opens.
—Buy your boots and shoes from W. S. King, Lutesville.
—Ephraim Stevens is visiting his parents of this place.
—Hon. Roger Q. Mills speaks at Jackson, Mo., Oct. 2nd.
—Go to Jackson Oct. 2nd and hear Hon. R. Q. Mills speak.
—Best stock of men and boy's fall clothing at W. S. King's.
—England has 45,000 women who earn a livelihood as printers.
—If you want Fresh canned goods go to A. & E. Miller, Lutesville.
—Necessity is the mother of invention; and likewise the father of lies.
—Take your produce to W. S. King to sell. He wants it at best prices.
—Each kindnes shown to bird or man, is sure to flutter back again.
—Why don't you go to W. S. King if you want to buy goods cheap?
—The usual number of horse-swoopers were in town during circuit court.
—W. S. King has a fall line of men and boys ready made clothing at his Lutesville store.
—The F. & L. U. of the county of St. Genevieve has nominated a ticket.
—King, of Lutesville, sells the best goods and sells the cheapest goods. Go and see him.
—K. W. Webber, of Farmington was in Marble Hill a few days last week.
—The Exposition is a big thing for St. Louis so is Kings Dry Goods Emporium for Lutesville.
—At its last session, the County Court of Madison county ordered that a jail be built in Fredericktown.
—Don't forget the new Restaurant and Grocery store run by A. & E. Miller, Lutesville. They sell cheap—you bet.
—Collector's notice to pay taxes appears in this issue. Mr. Seabaugh will start on his round of the county Oct. 13.
—W. S. King of Lutesville will sell you Millinery goods as cheap—if not cheaper—than you can buy them elsewhere.
—Miss Dora Axe, who has been teaching school in Madison county, has given up her situation as teacher and returned home.
—W. S. King keeps the People supplied with all of the cheapest and best Groceries the St. Louis market affords.
—While cutting wood, Willie Ledbetter accidently stuck the hz he was using, in his foot, making an ugly and painful wound.
—Business may go slow at other places but that is not the way it is going over the counter at W. S. King's cheap cash store.
—Robert Wilson of Jackson and lawyer Davis of Cape Girardeau were in town this week. They had business in our circuit court.
—Lawyers must be paid but they come a great deal higher than does the Dry good and Groceries sold by W. S. King of Lutesville.
—Children under sixteen years of age are, by law, prohibited from smoking cigarettes or cigars in New York. This is a good law.
—One half fair will take you to the St. Louis Exposition but it costs you nothing to examine King's immense stock of Prints and dress goods.
—A collision of two freight trains near St. Louis Saturday, caused a delay of the mail of several hours. The mail intended for this place did not reach here until seven o'clock.
—The Press would be thankful to the proprietors of threshing machines if they would send it a report of the number of bushels of grain threshed by their machine, and would gladly publish the same. We want a report from every machine that did work in this county.

—Put up your stove and kindle a little fire every morning.
—Remember the date of the fair to be held at Cape Girardeau, Mo., on October 14th to the 18th.
—Uriah Phelan, who formerly lived here, and who worked in this office at one time, arrived in Marble Hill Sunday.
—There is in Salt Lake City a society of young Mormon women who pledge themselves not to marry a polygamist.
—Hon. A. H. Livingston of West Plains, is selling out preparatory to leaving Mo and going to the southwest.—Ex.
—John P. Clark of Yount's Store handed us the cash for a year's subscription to the Press, while in town last week.
—A Millerville correspondent of the Cash-Book says: "Rev. A. Miller is still in feeble health and not able to attend to his pastoral duties."
—The friends of W. S. King, Lutesville, should not forget the fact that he is running a general store and would appreciate their patronage.
—Judge Fox and Dr. Witmer went to Castor River Saturday evening to enjoy a few hours fishing. They returned Monday with—well, we are not going to give it away.
—Many people cannot go to see the Exposition at St. Louis but no one should fail to take a peep at King's notion counter. It is a thing of beauty and a joy to the eyes of the Ladies.
—The Republicans of Lorraine township met in convention in the courthouse Saturday and nominated John Benham and Wm. P. Shirley for Justice of the Peace, and Henry Berry for Constable.
—License to marry: Benj. Payne and Ida Johnson; N. D. Huffman and Fanna Penturf; Francis L. Cole and C. James; John W. Killian and Mary A. Swindell; Mathew Bradness and Mary E. Harris.
—It occurs to us that it is about time to repair the cistern in the courthouse yard. The cistern has been out of repair for several weeks and it has been more than a month since the court ordered it fixed.
—Your children all starting to school get them school shoes, wraps head gear, in fact every thing necessary to keep them dry and comfortable at W. S. King's cheaper than any where else in Southeast Missouri.
—PUBLIC SPEAKING.—Ben. Farrell, National Lecturer of the Farmers' and Laborers' Union, will speak in Marble Hill, Saturday, October 11, 1890.
—JOHN P. McMASTUS, County Secretary.
—The federal election bill may pass.—If you want a good quality of any kind of goods kept in a general store W. S. King, Lutesville, can furnish such goods as cheap as they can be purchased in the city.
—The Republican Senatorial Convention has been called, by the chairman of the central committee of the counties composing this Senatorial District, to meet at Perryville the 27th inst.
—The Union Labor party's ticket is as follows: For Supreme Judge, A. Harrington of Christian county; for school superintendent, Burwell Fox of Iron county; for railroad commissioner, Patrick Shannon of Kansas City.
—A Kansas schoolma'am has introduced a new feature in her school. When one of the girls misses a word the boy who spells it gets permission to kiss her. As a result the girls are becoming very poor spellers, while the boys are improving.—Ex.
—The new Restaurant and grocery store of A. and E. Miller is now open in Lutesville and Goods are being sold cheaper than ever before. The Goods are all first class. Come and get your lunches and something cold to drink. They ask a liberal share of your patronage. Call on them.
—There is a farmer down at Gallatin, Tenn., who sells liquor without license, and is never caught. His farm lies in the corner of three counties, and anyone wanting liquor is blindfolded and asked to go forward, turn to the right and walk backwards, etc., when he is asked what county he is in. When he becomes so confused as not to be able to answer correctly he is asked how much liquor he desires, after which he is escorted back to the starting point.—Ex.

—Advertise in the Press!
—The Press' subscription list is still booming!
—Circuit Court is still in session when we go to press.
—Monday was the Hebrew New Year's day, says the P.-D.
—Send us the cash or a card if you wish your paper continued after the time paid for expires.
—Elder Robinson, of Delassus is holding a protracted meeting in the Christian Church at this place.
—Pink Shirley was, last week, sentenced to two years in the Missouri penitentiary, for stealing.
—Chickens assisted out of the shell are generally assisted into another world. If they are unable to hatch themselves they seldom do any good.
—Wanamaker pays a man ten thousand dollars a year to write his advertisements and then pays editors hundreds of thousands of dollars for printing them. He is the most successful merchant in America. He says: "I would no more think of running my store a week without advertising than I would think of living without eating."—Ex.
—The annual Fair at Cape Girardeau will be held on October 14 to 18, 1890. All persons desiring to attend a fair any where this year can not do better than go there, from the fact that the "Cape" is a beautiful city, situated on the bank of the "father of waters," and all necessary arrangements will be made to accommodate those who wish to attend.
—According to the Missouri game law, it is unlawful to kill game between the following periods: Prairie chickens, between February 1 and August 15; quails, January 1 and October 1; wild turkeys, March 1 and September 1. The punishment for killing out of season is imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, or by fine not exceeding $1,000, or by both such fine and imprisonment.
—There are times when the editor's weary, when his heart is sick and sad, when cash is not in his coffers and things going all to the bad. 'Tis then he picks up his ledger and looks his delinquents o'er and wonders if really there's heaven for those who pay no score; for those who ride in chases and drink the choicest wines while the editor rides shank's horses and on cider and crackers dines; for those who bring in their ads just the moment of going to press, for those who know just how to run it [may their shad-ows ever grow less] for all the numbskulls and nymishies that brother and bore a man—if heaven they reach, why, the editor certainly can. So brace up, my boys, be hearty, and cheerily sling the ink; gather items and publish them fairly, no matter what crockers may think.—Ex.
—"Say," said a somewhat excited individual as he darkened the portals of the Press office, "did you get an advertisement from Mr. — to put in this paper for me?"
We informed him that we had.
"You did?"
He was again told that the ad. had been received.
"Shure it was in last week's paper, are you?"
We assured him that there could be no mistake about it.
"Well," he continued, "I don't see what made Mr. — tell me that it was not in your paper. I'm not taking the paper myself, and I wouldn't have come out here to-day if it hadn't have been for seeing about that advertisement. I had no other business."
This man had ridden 24 miles under August's sultry sun and over the roughest of roads to save(?) a dollar. He could have taken the paper for one year for $1, and besides saving that trip he would have received the news for a year. This teaches a lesson of economy(?) from which many could profit.
People who live in the country who are annoyed by flies should remember that clusters of the fragrant clover which grows abundantly by nearly every roadside, if hung in the room and left to dry and shed its faint fragrant perfume through the air, will drive away more flies than sticky saucers of molasses and other fly traps and fly papers can ever collect.—Boston Journal of Commerce.

LUTESVILLE LOCALS.
Miss Z. Martin of St. Louis is here on a visit to friends.
W. E. Miller is visiting his parents in Doe Run this week.
Dr. J. Q. Ramsey, returned from a trip to Blodget Sunday.
Rev. D. L. Phelps and son returned home Sunday from Oran.
Rev. Keiterman is holding a protracted meeting at Beasville, this week.
C. A. Walker of Alto Pass, Ill. is here on a visit to his uncle, Geo. E. Clark.
Mr. and Mrs. Jones of Stroderville were up on a visit to their son, T. M. Jones, this week.
T. M. Jones informed us that he would commence building his new butcher-shop this week.
W. S. King, one of our enterprising merchants, is having a large salt shed built at his store.
Miss Lena Staut, of Cape Girardeau, who has been visiting relatives of this place has returned home.
Mrs. F. E. Bruns, who has been visiting relatives in Ky. for the past two weeks, returned home Saturday.
Mr. Turner, who has been stopping at Allenville for some time, came up on a visit to his family Saturday.
Mr. Cowan and daughter, who have been visiting relatives and friends in Illinois for the past two weeks, returned home last week.
It is said that farmers should keep out of politics, that they are impractical in their views and apt to do mischief.
Well we don't think a farmer's Congress could do more mischief than the one in session at Washington.
We have elsewhere cautioned the farmers against trying too much; here we wish to call attention to a sound statement of principles they have put forth, and ask what honest man can object to it. Among a list of questions presented to the consideration of certain candidates for Congress, we find the following:
Do you hold that all revenues, national, State and county, should be limited to the necessary expenditures of the government economically administered, and that no public money should be used or laws enacted to build up one class or interest at the expense of another?
This strikes at the root of most of our troubles. Economy in expenses; a limitation of taxation to the actual necessities of government; no class favoritism; equal and exact justice to all men.
Farmers can, on such issues, appeal to the support of the entire country. In such a field all honest men can work together.
Henry was a bashful lover. He scarcely dared touch his lady's hand. He loved her well and she was worthy of his affection, for she was modest, intelligent, sweet and honorable; but like all good women she yearned for the respectful caresses that are the evidences of a pure affection. She, however, yearned in vain. Henry worshiped her—he might kiss the hem of her garment, but to kiss her lips or cheek—the very audacity of the thought made him tremble.
They sat together by the sea looking out on the track of the moon's light which white-winged yachts were crossing now and then.
"It was a wretched hour; a scene for love and calm delight."
Suddenly she moved slightly away from him.
"Please, Henry, don't do that," she said.
"What?" he asked in genuine surprise.
"Oh! you needn't tell me," she replied. "You were just going to put your arm around my waist—and you were going to try to kiss me."
"Dear Lillie—"
"Oh! you needn't tell me different; you were going to. Well, after all, I suppose you are not to blame. It is just what a lover would do to his sweetheart, and I suppose I must not be offended if you do."
And Henry grasped the situation and did exactly what Lillie supposed he would do, and the moon grinned and the stars winked and the wavellets laughed and a mosquito that was about to alight on the maiden's cheek flew away and settled on the nose of a grass-widow who was sitting near the band stand.—Boston Courier.
