we hold the island of Luzon as a jailer does a prison and the people thereof as prisoners, have we made any progress that can be regarded as a sufficient reward for the expense of maintaining a great army there? Will the Philippines ever pay us back our money at this rate of repayment? (From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch-Ind. Dem.) Swapping American blood for dollars is the worst sort of commercial expansion. [Especially when we don't get the dollars.—Ed. World.] (From the Philadelphia Record—Gold Dem.) When a question, assumes vast proportions it passes beyond the scope and purview of hobby riders and clever men with a mission, and asserts itself overwhelmingly throughout the broad field of American political action. The anti-imperialists at Indianapolis are late with their convention. Their infant issue has escaped from them and has grown into a giant whose shadow darkens the air wherever Old Glory floats. (From the Nashville American—Dem.) It is yet too early to make predictions, but if the impression made by Bryan's speech has not already marked the Democrats' chances up about 50 per cent, in the market we have read the signs of the times awry.

True and False Ring. From the Chicago Chronicle. The contrast between the literary quality of the recent discussion of imperialism by Mr. Bryan and that of Mr. McKinley's official papers and popular deliverances can not fail to impress discriminating Americans.

Mr. Bryan writes like a man whose conviction precedes the utterances. His expression, therefore, is free, flowing, spontaneous. It is delightful to read his natural, unincumbered and direct sentences, vigorous and yet melodious. His elucidation of imperialism is destined for place in literature.

Mr. McKinley writes as one by whom the conviction is a thing assumed for the pen and is no part of the spirit. His diction, therefore, is stilted, mechanical, labored, making up in phrases what it lacks in vivacity, and his paragraphs show that they have been subjected to painstaking effort to conceal the want of belief.

As Mr. McKinley has chosen to write himself around the stump of almost every public question of his time, his pen is cramped and stiff with repeated attempts to double on itself.

He has thus far contributed only one phrase to political controversy, "benevolent assimilation," and that will survive him as the epitaph of his insincerity. It is already a gibes and is never employed except in derision of its author and in implied condemnation of its object.

Between the writing of Mr. McKinley and the writing of Mr. Bryan there is the difference he ears detects between the true ring and the false when the con and the counterfeit quiver on the counter.

An exchange is authority for the statement that "under a new law passed by Congress, after June, 1900, the person who gets the contract for carrying the mail will have to reside along the route. This will do away with all the large mail contracts, will give the person carrying the mail a chance to deal direct with the government. If there ever was an outrage perpetrated on the people it was the Star Route contracts. Fortunes have been made at the expense of the poor unfortunate, who did the work, while the contractors did nothing."

Dunkin Democrat: Dr. Charles Wells, a cousin, and Mrs. Dora Burford, niece, of the late Dr. Back, came down from Marble Hill, Tuesday morning. They left Lutesville at 8 o'clock, went to Charleston from there to Poplar Bluff, from there to Paragould, then to Arbyrd and from there to Kennett, arriving here at 7.50 a. m. Truly the railroad connections in Southeast Missouri cause travelers to go a long route to get anywhere.

LUTESVILLE LOCALS. The new shirtwaist is coming in fashion here. Health very good but some little grunting. Some parties from this town, it is said, have gone to Colorado on a visit to cool off. Hope they will return with renewed health. Our variety tabernacle is well patronized with the odds and ends of preacherdom and all goes merrily as a marriage bell. As an item of news, the Trautwein mill is in new hands going through a state of repairs that will enable it to compete in quality of flour, with any mill in south Missouri. It will not take long to get through with the repairs. The new miller will then take charge. The 1000 workhands in and about this place have been battling heroically with the hot weather to keep business rolling. Some it is true have been on the verge of sunstroke and had to ease off and cool. A very conspicuous business establishment, near the postoffice has become funeque defuncto with nothing left but frame upon which the cloth covering rested so gracefully. I hope the late proprietor may prosper wherever his sign may float for he is worthy and well qualified. A little mad dog fits through the air just now. Rev. Joseph Russell's dog is supposed to have gone mad and run off last Monday night. Russell was not at home or he would have killed him. I understand a conspicuous republican is enquirer of the dreaming qualities of Bryan and will support him. Strange thing to me that so many republicans are quitting such a good man as McKinley for such a winding as Bryan but before the election see if they don't get sick of their bargain and throw up. DANIEL KRISKO. County Court Proceedings. AUGUST TERM, 1900. Monday, August 13, County court convened. Present, Presiding Judge J. M. Zimmerman; Associate Judges M. H. Burton and L. B. H. FRANCKE, Merchant Tailor. Suits made to order at POPULAR PRICES. Cleaning and repairing a specialty. Marble Hill, Mo.

Her Watch wouldn't go. I peeped into her watch when she said "the old thing wouldn't go." After a hasty glance I didn't wonder, and my diagnosis was "indigestion." Fasten against the inside of the case with a portrait of her first love and a lock of his hair; 3. some dead forget-me-nots; 4. a newspaper clipping announcing her recent engagement; 5. a four-leaf clover. Between the inner cover and the works were two pictures and a receipt for cold cream, and still the obstinate thing refused to go. How is your watch running? A little slow? A little fast? Is it out of repair? If so, send it to me and have it fixed right. Geo. C. Hartsough, Jackson, Mo.
