MARBLE HILL.....MISSOURI

Of course the inflationist butter that was served to Uncle Sam's tars was colored red.

How we wish it had been one of those petrified apples Satan gave to Mother Eve!

The minkado continues to give credit to his ancestors. He hopes posterity will do likewise.

A trolley line from the Atlantic to the Pacific is being talked of. Kindly accent the "talked."

Even if the French savants think kissing "an unpleasant custom" it is most ungrateful to say so.

We note that a clergyman has down in Bristol, R. I., says that he has sinless children. What do his neighbors say?

"Yale," says an inconvertible joker who is acting as football coach in that university, "has never stood for rough play."

There are those who detect a certain amount of open work in the arguments against the perforated stocking.

Carlisle has a man on her eleven named Kicked-on-the-Jaw. He'll have lots of brothers-in-fact before the season's over.

Grand Duke Cyril is a lucky man. He has succeeded in marrying the woman he loves and getting banished from Russia.

The Sultan of Turkey has bought an automobile. Perhaps he intends to personally circulate among his Armenian subjects.

A lot of Virginia women have formed an anti-kissing society. Meanwhile, Virginia's pretty women are too busy to break into print.

A California man has adopted a girl because he was charmed by her piano playing. We may add that she didn't live next door.

"Many a man," says one of the lady journalists, "has fallen in love with a dimple." Yes, and discovered later that it was only a wrinkle.

"An Italian," according to an esteemed contemporary, "walked a mile with a broken neck." Did you ever see a mile with a broken neck?

A machine for milking cows by electricity has been invented. It is reported to work fairly well—when the cow can be induced to stand still.

That clubwoman who exhorts mortals to let their boys get dirty once a day need not worry. The boys will see to it that her advice is followed.

A Japanese girl is trying to get a job in a telephone office in San Francisco, and the natives are taking swearing lessons from a Japanese man.

The funny men have been given another opening. John D. Rockefeller says he feels like a sponge, and 235 jokes in repartee suggest themselves at once.

Wall Street will probably give a medal to a loving couple for their other testimonial of esteem and gratitude to the man who got into Russell Sage for $21,935.

Tom Edison says Americans eat too much and work too little. He ought to take a walk around the outside of his shop and get acquainted with the facts.

Isn't it funny that it is always men "who lead exemplary lives" that turn out to be embezzlers? Men who lead the other kind of a life are generally too busy to embezzle.

Apparently lots of people believe that it is unwise to get married on Friday, the 13th. Lots of other people believe that it is unwise to get married on any other day.

It is to be considered, however, that if a husband's pocket were as hard to find as his wife's pocket, there would be no need of his carrying a rat trap in it for purposes of protection.

Carnegie wants the five leading nations to get together and make the world accept peace. The great trouble is that if the five leading nations ever get together they will be likely to fight.

A European scientist says man's first ancestor was a tree. That's nothing new in that. Darwin asserted that men descended from monkeys, and any fool knows that monkeys descend from trees.

A Boston tailor killed himself because his customers wouldn't pay their bills. If he did it to spite the customers he probably succeeded. They may now have to get their clothes made where deposits will be required.

"Aunt" Ann Betts of East Orange, N. J., celebrated her one hundred and second birthday last week. She isn't in the poorhouse and hasn't used whisky and tobacco all her life. This is a remarkable record for a New Jersey centenarian.

Joe Letter has defined stealing as "borrowing your scrippin, taking it round the corner and going into a hook shop and pawning it." Stealing was always thought to be much simpler than that; besides, there isn't always a hook shop handy.

It took a visiting Russian only about 1,500 words to write about all the things he doesn't like in America. An American would need the same number of columns to describe all the things he doesn't like in Russia.

The Globe wants to know why rich girls always choose "Common." Probably to teach him that somebody else can do some driving.—Newburyport News.

Wrong; scientists report it is because he is the only man who can drive with one hand safely.

An intensely enterprising explorer has found a tree in the tropics that feeds boiled coffee. With that and a few minkado plants, a couple of eggs plants, an ester plant and some milkweed in one's yard, why work?

MANY RIOTERS SLAIN

Over 100 Revolutionists Killed in Conflicts at Odessa.

Tver, Russia: Rioters here chased the military governor and mayor into the City Hall and then set fire to the building, finding the doors barricaded, from behind which troops fired on them.

They overcame a detachment of troops sent to rescue the officials from the burning building, but gave way later when artillery came up and reinforced the troops with rapid fire guns.

The officials escaped from the hall eventually.

Czar's Last Words as Autocrat.

"I never valued autocratic rights for their own sake, but for the sake of my subjects, nor ever wittingly exercised them for any other purpose than because I was convinced that the welfare of the nation demanded it. I now lay aside a part of them because I have good reason to believe this to be to the advantage of the nation."—Czar Nicholas' address to Witte while taking up his pen to sign a constitution ending the autocracy and making Russia a constitutional government.

The capital, aside from the government officials, awoke Tuesday for a grand celebration of the new order.

The biggest demonstration was organized by students and workmen. A great procession was formed. Starting from the university, 10,000 strong, it increased in number as the demonstrators marched across the river and up the Nevsky Prospect as far as the Kazan Cathedral, singing the "Marsellaise."

A dozen red banners inscribed with the word "Svoboda," (Liberty) were carried at the head of the parade which were the places where the troops fired on the people January 22 and the paraders, with bared heads, chanted funeral dirges. The crowds in the streets uncovered their heads as the procession passed.

MISSOURI DOINGS

HUNT COUNTERFEITERS' PLANT.

Girl's Discovery of Quantity of Coin in Vault Let Start Search.

St. Louis: Secret service men and city detectives are puzzled over the utter absence of a clew to the identity of the makers of nearly 1,000 counterfeit coins found by 16-year-old Paloma Scheppacher of 2201 Division street in a vacant lot adjoining her home.

Officers searched all Friday afternoon for the molds from which the coins were made and for clews which might lead to the identity of the counterfeiter band. They were successful in neither.

The search will continue until the counterfeiters are located. There is in secret service legend to the effect that never has a counterfeiter escaped capture, and the men of the local office will endeavor to hold up the record in this, which is the largest lot of counterfeit coins discovered in St. Louis for many years.

Shortly before noon Thursday Paloma Scheppacher found the large pile of counterfeit half dollars, quarters and dimes lying in plain view on the ground in the vacant lot adjoining her home.

She was searching for a tin can in which to put some flowers.

She says she thought they were medals of some kind and scooped them up to half fill the can. She carried them into the house. Her first thought was what a pretty necklace the "medals" would make. She sought to drive holes through the coins with a nail and hammer, but each time she tried the coin would break in two. Her mother, who had been attracted by that time, saw the "medals" were counterfeit coins. She notified her husband, J. M. Shoppacher, who directed the girl to throw all into the stove. This she did.

Supreme Court Refuses Pardon or Commutation Now Sought for Former Cashier.

Jefferson City, Mo.: The State Supreme Court refused to grant the application for a writ of habeas corpus for the release of Lee DeFord, the Alton bank cashier, from the penitentiary, where he is serving an eight-year term for receiving money when the bank was in a failing condition.

DeFord was sentenced to serve two years on each of four counts, and he sought to be released, having served eighteen months, under the provisions of the three-fourths rule, his prison conduct being good. This would have given him liberty for six months, when he would have returned to the prison to serve another eighteen months, and so on, until all four sentences had been carried out. As the second sentence, however, under the statutes, begins immediately upon the expiration of the first, he has already served the entire term, and must remain in the prison six years, getting the time off allowed for good behavior all in one. There are efforts now being made to have the Governor either pardon him or reduce his sentence by commutation.

The bank was insured in the Ocean Accident and Guarantee Corporation and will lose nothing.

Interests recently acquired the Iowa Falls road, and at Des Moines connection will be made with that line, which is 83 miles in length. The building of the St. Joseph, Albany & Des Moines and the connecting lines of the Iowa Falls and Iowa Valley roads at Hampton, Ia., will give the Harriman railroads a direct line from Minneapolis to St. Joseph, Kansas City and to the west over the Grand Island and Union Pacific.

THINKS DAUGHTER IS LOCATED.

Newspaper Dispatch Gives Mrs. Kate Martin Clew to Missing Woman.

Mexico, Mo.: A dispatch from Omaha, Neb., published in a recent issue of the Globe-Democrat, will probably lead to the discovery of a daughter whose whereabouts have long been a mystery.

Mrs. Kate Martin of Hannibal, Mo., who has long allowed her infant daughter to be adopted twenty years ago because of poverty, is now searching for the child, and is thought to have discovered her home through a friend in this city. The dispatch was as follows:

Omaha, Neb., October 17.—After tracing to Omaha the daughter whom she gave away twenty years ago, Mrs. Kate Martin of Hannibal, Mo., has lost the trail and asked the Omaha police to assist her in the search. She says she is old and infirm and wants to see the girl once before she dies.

Mrs. Martin's story is that, twenty years ago, she was compelled, through poverty, to give her only child to a family named Simons. The daughter took the name of Minnie Simons. She has traced the family to Omaha, and believes the girl has married.

The Simons was notified by a Mexican friend of Miss Minnie Simons, who at one time resided here with her adopted parents. Miss Simons is Mrs. Fred McDowell, of Kansas City, Mo., now the Mexico friend recognizing the name, Minnie Simons, at once wrote to Mrs. Martin and offered to drive her to the searching mother of her suspicions. A letter received in the last few days from Mrs. Martin says that she is firmly of the opinion that her lost daughter and Mrs. McDowell are one and the same person. The mother is now in the city, and the daughter and awaits the reply eagerly.

ROBBERS CRACK A SAFE.

Break Into Bank and Gag Citizen Who Finds Them.

Odin, Ind.: The fifth bank robbery in Indiana which occurred here Thursday night.

Safeblowers, believed to be the same gang who yesterday robbed the bank at Sandborn, only a few miles away, of $4,000, made an unsuccessful attempt to loot the bank of Odin.

The safeblowers were at work when Jacob Shields, a citizen, happened along. Two of the four burglars sprang upon him, bound and gagged him and left him on the sidewalk in front of the bank. A shot of nitroglycerin was then fired, forcing open two of the doors of the bank and blowing the safe.

The third door, leading to the money vault, containing $6,000, did not yield to force of the explosion and the burglars became frightened and ran away without securing any booty, except $10 they took from Shields.

Shields was left upon the sidewalk to be released by citizens. He says the men wore no masks, but he is unable to give a good description of them.

Citizens arrived 20 minutes after the robbers escaped, and pursuit was begun, but no clew to the thieves was found.

The attack on the Odin bank follows rapidly robberies by desperadoes of the banks at Ridgeville, Hagerstown, Yindfall and Sandborn, Ind., and Riverton, and Willard, Ky.

TAKE REVENGE ON JEWS

Officials Say Jews Insulted Emperor Nicholas.

Odessa: After a fairly quiet night, shooting again commenced Friday morning. The Red Cross is busy attending to the wounded.

Up to the present time no Christian shops or houses have been touched. The principal hotels are full of the better class of Jews seeking refuge from this week's disorders.

Bodies of police escorted by squads of infantry are placarding the city with notices from the mayor appealing to all peaceable citizens to remain indoors until the most urgent necessity takes them out.

The recriminations of the different factions in regard to the responsibility for the outbreak are bitter. Official circles blame the Jews, but the Liberal leaders declare the disorders were engineered in St. Petersburg.

A leading general, in an interview today, argued that the disturbances were the result of the behavior of the Jews by the manner in which they celebrated on Tuesday the publication of the imperial manifesto.

"They abused their new-found freedom," the general declared, "and strewed the streets and sidewalks with Jewish women and children were strangled and hacked to pieces in the streets where the mobs gained the upper hand."

"A Red Cross doctor says that Kissinoff horrors were repeated a hundredfold. The students alone saved the city from wholesale sack and massacre."

"The military is now placing a hundred machine guns at various points."

"General Kaulbars was called to the 'palace' by the palace 5,000 loyalists carrying imperial portraits and icons and smiting the national flag."

"The sound of firing is again moving westward toward the Jewish quarters. The mobs assert they will not leave a single Jew alive."

Warsaw: Rioting has broken out, says a telegram received here from Moscow. It says the strikers have destroyed the Belt Railroad and burned two houses on Teverska street, one of them belonging to the Governor.

Thousands of wealthy inhabitants of Moscow are leaving the city by every and any means available. The military telegraph operators are complaining of having to operate the commercial service.

Telegraphic communication between Warsaw and Vienna has been severed. The excitement in the streets here shows no signs of abating. The crowds overturned the street cars with the object of stopping traffic.

At Lodz the situation grows worse hourly. The infantry, when ordered to fire on the people, are discharging their rifles in the air. The strikers are closing and those whose owners refuse to shut up are destroyed. Crowds are busily tearing down Russian flags which were displayed by order of the police.

Bands of peasants in the government of Sverdlov are destroying the government alcohol stores.

St. Petersburg: Following a day of general celebration of the passing of the autocracy and the beginning of constitutional government, the city Tuesday night became a scene of wild disorder.

Crowds numbering 200,000 people jammed into the Nevsky Prospect and massed around Kazan Cathedral. The city addresses were made by workmen and students.

Release of political prisoners was the cry.

Proclaim general amnesty to all arrested for political offenses and release them from the Bastille.

On the great crowd started for the Bastille, the political division is called, but the leaders of the workmen, students and strikers, having been apprised that M. Witte had announced that amnesty was to be declared, led the crowd around the streets and back into the Nevsky.

But it is feared that they cannot be restrained and that the Bastille will be opened and the prisoners freed.

This means bloodshed, for the prison is well garrisoned.

St. Petersburg: The autocracy of the Romanoffs and the old order of things cease to exist in Russia. Emperor Nicholas has surrendered and Count Witte comes into power as Minister-President with an Imperial mandate which will enable him to convert the farcical national assembly into a real legislative body, elected by greatly extended suffrage and to confer on the people full civil and political liberties, including free speech.

These welcome things reached St. Petersburg shortly before 6 o'clock Monday evening. Count Witte had spent the day with the Emperor at Peterhof, going over the final draft of the manifesto to which the Imperial mandate certain minor modifications he made and before taking the train for St. Petersburg he telephoned to a friend that the Emperor had affixed his signature and that the Imperial mandate comprising the conditions on which the autocracy had accepted office, was in his pocket.
