

THE DEMOCRAT

THE PEOPLE'S PAPER

Original Organ of the People

CAPE GIRARDEAU, MO.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 7, 1893.

No free trader has as yet attributed the heavy snow in the Southern States to the McKinley law. The free traders must all be celebrating the holidays very earnestly.

Poor Ed. Nelson; he will have to serve out his full time in the penitentiary. Governor Francis is too busy with his cabinet room to pay any attention to his friends in the penitentiary.

"Jerry Simpson's Senatorial boom has flattened out, because it has been learned in Kansas that he now wears socks. There are other evidences, too, that Jerry has been 'puttin' on style' since he got to Washington.

Apparently the Democratic Bourbons prefer an invasion of cholera, with the sacrifice of thousands of lives and the loss of millions of dollars, to the slightest infringement upon the Democratic fetish that goes by the name of "States Rights."

Some of the People's party men object to the numberless military titles conferred by the recent Indianapolis conference. In fact, there were more titles and rituals than members, and some of the leaders had to accept double honors.

The Hon. Adlai Stevenson's Southern tour is, to his own words, a grand success. He has enjoyed himself so much that he must be almost sorry he didn't go down with the other fellows who stirred things up in the Southland some thirty years ago.

No American with a heart in his breast has any feeling other than that of earnest, solicitous sympathy for Count Ferdinand de Lesseps in the multiplying misfortunes that have overtaken that venerable engineer and projector. As the leader in vast enterprises having for their promotion of commerce and civilization the name of Lesseps is secure of its place on the world's list of great men.

Representative Dockery of Missouri wants to "probe the Treasury," and everybody who believes in fair play should stand back and give him a chance. If Mr. Dockery goes on with his probing process in a proper way he will find that way down deep in a cool, dark corner of that Treasury the wholesome financial policy of the Republican party has stored some $125,000,000 in gold and a lot of other valuable metal for just such emergencies as that with which an unchecked Democratic administration now threatens the country.

The semi-official statement that Mr. Cleveland favors the plan of Congressmen Gear for the appointment of a committee by the Democratic caucus of the next House to prepare a tariff bill in conjunction with the Secretary of the Treasury, no doubt means that that plan will be followed out. The bill will be considered at an extra session of Congress to be held late next summer. Meanwhile the Republican "robber tariff" will continue. It is not so awfully bad after all. The Democratic party is willing to stand it for six months or a year or more.

The cotton mills of Fall River, Mass., comprising thirty-six corporations operating fifty-six mills and capitalized at nearly $20,000,000, have closed their financial year with an average payment in dividends of a little more than 11 percent, as against a little less than 5 percent a year ago. The employees in many of these mills have also had their wages raised during the year. What will be the showing in 1893 if the Democratic war on our protected industries is carried on?

The uneasiness which prevailed at the sessions of the Western Plate Glass Association at Cleveland this week characterizes a great many manufacturing interests in this time of shifting tariff policies. These plate glass men have built up a tremendous business, employing hundreds of thousands. They naturally view with alarm a free trade assault on their business and predict a ruined industry if the assault is successful. A desperate effort will be made to induce a tariff reform Congress to treat plate glass kindly.

So large is the collection of valuable historical papers in the State Department Library at Washington that the work of indexing and binding them, begun several years ago, will probably not be completed within a decade. First in importance are the records of the Continental Congress and the letters and papers of Washington and Franklin. Close to them in interest come those of Jefferson and Hamilton, and the Madison and Monroe papers, which by themselves fill 107 large volumes. It was high time that this labor was undertaken by the government, not only to facilitate reference to these most interesting manuscripts, but to save them from destruction by frequent handling.

"Ugly and Stupid. Everything went wrong with me; and I thought I hadn't a friend in the world; dyspepsia caused this, and for months I couldn't eat anything, and just suffered in misery till I used Sulphur Bitters. Three bottles cured me."—D. Lewis, 22 Bowdoin Street, Boston, Mass.

President or Dictator?

Of course the Mugwumps are jubilant over the apparent determination of Mr. Cleveland to add the appointment of United States Senators to the Presidential functions. They are obliged to admit that the history of American politics does not furnish an instance of a similar purpose on the part of a President or a President-elect to violate the spirit of the Constitution by assuming to decide whom the people shall or shall not elect to the Senate of the United States. The Boston Herald, whose devotion to Mr. Cleveland and the cause of free trade and low wages has been generally Mugwumpian from start to finish, remarks that Mr. Cleveland has taken "an unconventional step in politics," which it attempts to justify on the ground that "the people have elected him President, and he feels it incumbent upon himself to do the best possible for his country and for his party in that office."

It is true that Mr. Cleveland has elected President, not by the "phenomenal majority" which he pompously claimed in his anti-Murphy manifesto, but by a vote of about 5,600,000 in a total vote of more than 12,000,000. But the Presidency is not a dictatorship. Its incumbent has no right whatever to exercise his official power to aid or hinder the election of any member of Congress.

The plain truth about Mr. Cleveland's action has been outlined in Washington dispatches at The Press. It is the purpose of the President-elect and his Mugwump advisers to build up a vast administration machine through the use of government patronage; a machine which shall be powerful enough to control the actions of State Legislatures and prevent the election of Senators of men who are obnoxious to the Mugwump rabbi. Mr. Cleveland desires to have as many subversive followers in the Senate as possible. The pledges of patronage which he is now able to make give him an influence which might easily turn the scale in a closely contested Senatorial contest. In the State of New York the Hill-Tammam machine is strong enough to treat his commands with contempt. In other States where the Democratic party is not controlled by anti-Cleveland leaders the power of the President-elect is likely to make itself felt in the election of Senators.

The project is one of spoils-mongering on a grand scale. Mr. Cleveland, with the aid of the virtuous Mugwumps, proposes to make use of the patronage of his office to constitute himself the autocratic "boss" of the Democratic party. There have been plenty of party bosses on a smaller scale in politics. Mr. Cleveland intends to eclipse them all in the extent and arbitrary character of his power. The eagerness of the Mugwumps to aid him is an effective illustration of the hypocrisy of the Mugwump pretense of opposition to bossism in politics. There are no spoilsmen so ravenous as Mugwumps.—New York Press.

A ROYAL heart on the auction block in the strange and gruesome spectacle which will occur here in a few days. It is said to be the heart of the unhappy of all French princes, the d'Orleans, of Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette, and it has been preserved for almost seven years in a jar of spirits where it was placed by the famous surgeon Pelletan, who made an autopsy in the temple. The history of the relic is authentic. The only question is whether the boy who died in the temple in 1793 was the real d'Orleans or a child who had been substituted for the prince when the boy died.

Ten latest feet in spoon carving is reported from the capital city of Iowa, and was accomplished by H. E. Wilson. He took a common Iowa spoon, one bearing the Iowa coat of arms on its handle, and wrote the whole of the Lord's Prayer in its bowl. Very letter and comma is in its proper place and can easily be read with the naked eye. A local paper, in commenting on the feat, says: "The great number of such spoons would make religious instruction more easy and greatly improve the spirituality of coffee and tea drinkers."

Electric light baths are among the latest inventions. The necessary parts of such a bath are a cabinet which will inclose the entire body except the head, and fifty electric lamps of sixteen-candle power, or one hundred and ten lamps, arranged about the body in groups, with a separate switch for each group. The light is thrown on a section at a time, making the patient dizzy and browning the skin like an orange bath.

No one can visit England, says one who has been there, without being struck with the extraordinary superiority of its English highways over our country roads. It is safe to say that almost every five miles of public roads in Great Britain is better than almost any five miles of public roads in our country.

A RAILROAD employee on a Wisconsin line stole a kiss from a pretty passenger. The young lady sued the company for damages, and was awarded one thousand dollars. With the money she obtained her lover, a young clerk, established himself in business and the couple have become wealthy.

The latest market reports brought by travelers from Morocco quote prices from ten to fifteen years of age at eighty dollars to one hundred and fifty dollars. This is what they "fetch" in open market when the bidding is lively. The reports add: "The slave merchants find the females most profitable from ten to twenty years of age."
