Mansfield's Tiniest Building

Space for business houses on the square has become limited and Frank Schuermann has erected between the mirror office and the Mansfield Produce Co. the smallest business building in the town, and we believe, in the county. It has a 6 foot frontage and is 16 feet long. It will be used for a popcorn and peanut stand.

MISSOURI HEN DAY—MARCH 7TH.

A Personal Letter from T. E. Quisenberry, Director of the Missouri Poultry Experiment Station, to Readers of the Mirror.

Missouri is the greatest poultry state in the Union. We admit it,—and we are proud of it. A larger number of Missouri's citizens are engaged in poultry raising, either to a large or small extent, than are engaged in any other single industry. The value of the poultry and eggs produced in Missouri last year was greater than the value of Missouri's immense wheat crop or of any other single product of farm, factory or mine.

The organization to which credit is largely due for the present magnitude of the poultry industry in Missouri is the Missouri State Poultry Association. For nearly a quarter of a century this Association has been a mighty power for the betterment of the industry. But there is still work to do. The poultry industry in Missouri is only in its infancy. There is yet vast room for growth and improvement. Profits might easily and quickly be doubled by a more general use of modern methods and practices.

There is a contagious enthusiasm and inspiration in concerted action which makes molehills out of mountains, and renders the impossible possible. It is with this thought in mind that Saturday, March 7th, has been designated as "Missouri Hen Day." On that day, the Missouri State Poultry Association will launch a systematic and thorough educational campaign, in co-operation with the State Poultry Experiment Station at Mountain Grove, which will extend into every county in the state. In order to properly carry on this work, as well as to promote the poultry industry locally, the members of the State Poultry Association in each county will meet and organize a County Branch of the State Poultry Association.

In addition to organizing the County Branches, the day will be devoted to a one-day membership campaign. As a special mark of appreciation, every member who secures five or more new members, will be presented with one of the beautiful new gold and enamel State Poultry Association pins, and the person who secures the most new members will receive a beautiful silver loving cup.

If you were "from Missouri" and, either through oversight or neglect, you are not now a member of the Missouri State Poultry Association, send in your membership TODAY, and get ready to assist in the membership campaign, and in organizing your County Branch. We want your help, your loyal support and co-operation. And in return, we will help you, personally to make your work more pleasant, more profitable, more successful.

The membership fee is only 50c a year. Membership insures your securing all the books, bulletins, etc., issued by the State Poultry Experiment Station, also a copy of the annual Year Book containing your name and address and the variety you breed. It also entitles you to compete for special prizes offered by the State Poultry Experiment Station at the various poultry shows throughout the state. Send your membership fee either to Ralph Searle, State Organizer, Mountain Grove, Mo., or to Fred Crosby, 3251 Gillham Road, Kansas City, Mo. Let us all resolve now to make Missouri Hen Day the greatest day in the history of the greatest industry in the greatest poultry state in the Union. Yours in the interest of the Missouri Hen.

 T. E. Quisenberry.

Moonshine Still Captured

Surrounding a log cabin in the Douglas county hills 16 miles south of Mansfield at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning, Deputy U. S. Marshal Tony Arnold and Revenue Collector James Case of Springfield and City Marshal Roe Strong of Mansfield captured part of a moonshine outfit and took into custody George Walker the owner of the house in which the still was located. The rest of the still was found in the woods about a mile from the house. The still was complete—copper kettle, worm and all, and it is thought that moonshine whiskey was to have been manufactured this week.

Part of the still was destroyed and the rest together with the prisoner, a companion by the three captors, went to Springfield that night, Mr. Strong returning home yesterday morning.

Walker denied any knowledge of the still.

The house was guarded until noon in the hope that the man who is thought to have had charge of the still showed up—but he didn't show up until an hour afterwards—and then he promptly disappeared but officers are on his trail. He came to this community about four years ago and had no settled place of abode—being constantly on the go—but the still was kept fairly busy, we hear, in various places.

The first intimation that a still was being operated was picked up about four years ago by Mr. Strong but not until the present time were the officials able to locate it.

But the officials never give up—and success came at last.

Mr. Case came down from Springfield Monday morning and traveled afoot several miles on the lookout for the still. Mr. Arnold came in and about 10 o'clock the three officers started out and captured the outfit. It was thought the other man would be at the Walker cabin that night.

Walker, who is a widower with two children, will be arraigned in Springfield April 6.

Notice to Tomato Growers

The Hoaglin Canning Co. is ready to contract acreage for the year 1914 and will pay 40c per hundred. Farmers, be ready, and plant your tomato seed about April 1. Farmers, do your best, and I will do the rest.

Respectfully,
 G. W. HOAGLIN.

Go to the Bank of Mansfield to sign contracts.

In Memory of Mrs. Rippee

I may not know the reason why
 Dark clouds so often veil the sky,
 But though my sea be smooth or rough
 The Lord knows why and that's enough
 I may not know why I am led
 So often in the paths I tread,
 But trusting Him I'll press my way,
 The Lord knows why, I will obey
 I may not know why death should come
 To take the dear ones home,
 But though mine eyes with tears be dim
 The Lord knows why, I'll trust in Him,
 So though I may not understand
 The leadings of my Father's hand,
 I know to all he has the key,
 He understands each mystery
 Oh, yes, He knows, the Lord knows why
 These things are ordered from on high,
 And though dark clouds may hide the sun
 The Lord knows why, His will be done.

A Splendid Band Concert

It is a commonly accepted opinion that an amateur band and orchestra are organizations incapable of giving an entertainment that will meet the demands of the public. However, there is one organization in Southwest Missouri that has proven a refutation of this idea, as one of the biggest events of the season was the entertainment given for the benefit of the Mansfield Concert Band Friday night at the Mansfield opera house under the direction of Samuel Mathis, who, since taking the position as director of the band, has proven himself the man for the place, in every sense of the word. A thorough musician, a capable instructor and an untiring worker, he has given his best efforts for the good of the band and the success of this entertainment was a credit to the director and every member of the band.

The program by the band and orchestra was played in a highly professional way which was appreciated by the continued encores of the large audience, which taxed the capacity of the opera house.

Special appreciation was shown for the cornet solo by Walter Coday, which so easily won the admiration of his listeners.

The trombone solo by Karl Tripp, met with the same ovation of applause.

The tuba solo by Messrs. Miller and Freeman was in a class of work in which they excel, and the usual points for which these gentlemen are noted were all in evidence, as expressed by the tremendous applause they received.

One among the prettiest musical numbers was the violin quartet by Misses Bertha Miller and Maude Reynolds, Mrs. W. G. Reynolds and Samuel Mathis.

The high-class comic monologue by Miss Blanche Burney, rendered in her charming way, brought down the house with a round of applause.

A catchy little clarinet solo by Ralph Hylton, with Miss Velma Hylton as pianist, merited its well-earned laurels of the evening.

The solo by Mansfield's soprano of higher rank, Miss Bertha Miller, with Miss Gertrude Keller as pianist, as in the past captivated her audience.

The violin solo by Samuel Mathis—Miss Opal Freeman, pianist—as were all the numbers of the program—was well received by the audience, and the hearty encore brought out a number of interesting and comic violin imitations.

The concluding vocal selection—an excellent number and encore by the Mansfield High School Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Keller—artistically finished the musical program of the evening.

It is to be regretted that so few concerts of this character and standard of excellence are heard here.

The entertainment concluded with a rip-roaring burlesque mock trial, "The Great Kidnapping and Breach of Promise Case; or, Balm for a Wounded Heart." This provided a continuous laugh from beginning to end, all doing well the character stunts to which they had been assigned.
