On Rights of the Common Carrier

The time has arrived when the average citizen, it matters not what his vocation, needs to give a more serious thought to the railroad problem. In days gone by, this question was largely regarded as one which concerned only those who were interested in railroad speculation or those whose living was directly or indi rectly derived from them; in short, as a more or less "private affair" rather than one which holds within its grasp a large share of the welfare and prosperity of the entire country.
Since the Federal Government and the several states have taken over the regulation and control of the railroads, since the great and vital power to make and unmake railroad rates has been placed in the hands of the Commission which, in states at least, are more or less responsive to public sentiment, it becomes incumbent upon every citizen to inform himself upon the under lying facts, but he unconsciously and unwittingly contributes to an erroneous and mistaken public policy, unfortunately not merely for the railroads, but equally so for the masses of the people.
When an industry which transacts a fourth of the nation's annual volume of business is being, it is absolutely certain to precipitate a condition of general stagnation and depression in all other industries. The desperate efforts made by the railroads to reduce their operating expenses through forced economies had their inevitable result in the recent severe depression in the commerce and industry of the country, which threw out of employment thousands of workmen and reduced or destroyed the incomes of thousands dependent upon returns from investments.
Rate increases are necessary to relieve the present distressing situation of the railroads. With the Federal Government and the several states appro priated to themselves the power to lower railroad rates they at the same time assumed the solemn obligation to raise them if the financial condition of the carriers requires it. The right of the state to set lower rates is for the purpose of protecting the public against having tribute. It is a right which every broad-minded railroad man freely acknowledges. The obligation to raise them is a solemn duty and only to the vast army of people dependent upon the operation of railroads, but also to those who own railroads and securities.
The time has come when the Commission in the different states must deal fairly and frankly with the railroads, when they must divest themselves of future political considerations and act as fair-minded arbiters in the matter of just intra-state rates, bearing in mind the rights of both the public and the carriers, and the necessity of promoting the nation's commerce by the provision of adequate transportation facilities through the investment of private capital.

On Church and State

The recent action of one of the leading churches of this nation, in annual convention, demanding that the laymen vote only for candidates for office whose views conform to those of the clergy on one of the leading political issues, and direct and indirect efforts of other church organizations to interfere with the freedom of the ballot, make one of the greatest perils of this age, and present a problem that should receive thoughtful con sideration of both laymen and citizens.
Societal habits may well acquire in their cradles when ministers in convention assembled release the hearts of men and give them by the throat, for Chris tianity has broken down, religion has become a farce and the pulpit a platform for a contest of ministers to seek by canonical law to control the votes of church members as it would be for a convention of manufacturers to issue orders for their employees to vote for a certain candidate. Such conduct is offensive to decency, business morals and a crime against society and convention, strikes composed of saints or sinners, rich or poor, white or black that seeks to prostitute power and coerce conscience ought to be broken up by the police and its leaders arrested for treason.
A crime by another name is a crime just the same. An ecclesiastical troop cannot sanction, tolerate, authorize or preach does not carry with it license to become a political thug, or the right to teach us how to pray give a period to tell us how to vote. No man in joining the church should sacrifice his citizenship, forfeit his constitutional liberties or subordinate his duty to the state. The church should be no respecter of persons. If in any manner it is to be a center of authority to occupy the pulpit as for a minister to preach a political sermon, he has no more right to preach his politics from the pulpit than a teacher has to teach his politics to his pupils. A preacher cannot on a political thug's right, use by usage any more than he can make himself responsible by practice. It is one of the ironies of fate that a preacher may become a scandal as well as a glory to civilization.

R. P. Schwerin

On the Seaman's Bill

The American plowman are interested in sea com merce. It is expensive and likewise humiliating to have to salute a foreign flag every time a farmer wants to ship a bushel of wheat, a bale of cotton or a pound of farm products to market. The American farmer is en titled to the protection of his flag in sending his products across the sea, and Congress should give such encourage ment to shipping interests as is necessary to meet foreign competition in ocean commerce. A recent bill known as the Seaman's Bill became a law under the President's signature and Mr. R. P. Schwerin, vice-president of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, when asked to define this law and outline its effect upon American steamship lines, said in part:
"The bill provides that to ship of any nationality shall be permitted to depart from any port of the United States unless she has on board a crew not less than twenty-five per centum of which, in each department thereof, is able to understand any order given by the officers of such vessel, nor less than forty per centum in the first year, forty-five per centum in the second year, fifty per centum in the third year, fifty-five per centum in the fourth year after the passage of this Act, and thereafter sixty-five per centum of her deck crew, exclusive of licensed officers and apprentices, are of a rating not less than able seaman."
"The overseas trade of the world is competitive, therefore the original cost of the ship and the operation of the ship have to be reckoned with in the keen competition of these rival nations with one another. The Oriental line is the cheapest and most efficient of the world. It is therefore manifestly clear that if this law applied to all nationalities in the transpacific traffic, all would be on the same economic basis, but it works a single hardship to all the ships of the world, except the Japanese and American ships, and with the latter it works two hardships. With the European, the cost of constructing a ship is no higher than the cost of constructing a Japanese ship, but if they had to provide European crews, while the Japanese operate with Japanese crews, the condition of competition would be such that they could not overcome the handicap and they would be driven out. But the American ship would have to contend not only with the tremendous increase of cost of wage in the substitution of the European crew for the Chinese crew, but also the greater initial cost of the ship. As the Japanese have now done away with their European officers and Japanese crews, all of whom speak a common language, there is no difficulty for them to comply with all the conditions of the bill and continue their Japanese crews, with Oriental wages."
"The law, therefore, instead of assisting the American ship, adds another heavy burden, while it places none whatever upon the Japanese ship, but, on the contrary, turns over to the Japanese the traffic of the Pacific Ocean, which the American ship is forced to forgo by act of Congress of the United States."

War Upon Pain

Pain is a visitor to every home and usually it comes quite unexpectedly. But you are prepared for every emergency if you keep a small bottle of Sloan's Lin iment handy. It is the greatest pain kil ler ever discovered. Simply laid on the skin—no rubbing required—it drives the pain away. It is really wonderful. Mer vin H. Soister, Berkeley, Cal., writes:
"Last Saturday, after tramping around the Panama Exposition with my feet, I came home with my neck so stiff that I couldn't turn. I applied Sloan's Lin iment freely and went to bed. To my surprise next morning the stiffness had almost disappeared, four hours after the second application I was as good as new." March, 1915. At Druggists, 25c.

Danger Signal

If the fire bell should ring would you run and stop it or go and help to put out the fire? It is much the same way with a cough. A cough is a danger signal as much as a fire bell. You should no more try to suppress it than to suppress a fire bell when it is ringing, but should cure the disease that causes the coughing. This can nearly always be done by taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Many have used it with the most beneficial results. It is especially valuable for the persistent cough that so often follows a bad cold or an attack of the grip. Mrs. Thomas Beeching, Andrews, Ind., writes: "During the winter my husband takes cold easily and coughs and coughs. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best medicine for breaking up these attacks and you can not get him to take any other." Ob tainable everywhere.—Adv.
