New Tin Shop.

Harry Dobbins has opened a new tin shop in the building occupied by J. T. Claywell's machine and farm implement store, one door east of the shirt factory. All kinds of tinwork, roofing and guttering promptly attended to. Any kind of repairing done. A share of your patronage is requested.

Serious Accident at Flat River.

At the Flat River picnic yesterday a pole that was used to hold up a balloon for inflation fell and struck a boy named Frank Brookman, fracturing his skull. It is feared that he may die, but he was still alive this morning. With this exception we have heard of no serious accidents in the county on the 4th.

Hospital Board Meets.

The Board of Managers of State Hospital No. 4 met in Jefferson City last Monday and Tuesday to consult with the Governor in regard to filling the vacancy occasioned by resignation of Dr. Kuhn, who goes to No. 2 at St. Joseph. It is understood that Dr. Harrison, Assistant Superintendent of No. 1 at Fulton, was agreed upon and that he will be elected Superintendent by the board at their meeting here next Monday. Secretary-elect Mootbart tendered his resignation for reasons given in another item, and the board will probably elect Mr. Waters.

Resigns Secretaryship.

Prof. Mootbart, who was recently elected Secretary of State Hospital No. 4, although he was not a candidate for the position, has sent his resignation to the Governor to take effect at once. This action became necessary owing to the fact that it was found that he could not give sufficient time to his official duties at the Hospital without seriously neglecting the management of his schools; consequently, taking everything into consideration, his resignation was decided upon, so as to devote all his time and attention to school work.

A Gross Misrepresentation.

During my absence last week, it seems that the Carpenter's Union of Farmington have taken the liberty of declaring a boycott against me and my goods, and going so far as to tell my customers here and elsewhere that I am running a SCAB FACTORY, and telling them to keep my brands from their counters or show case, under a threat. There are also certain individuals in this town who, evidently, are in league with them and supplying this Union with this erroneous information. Before taking any such action, they should have informed themselves correctly and a thorough investigation made as to whether I am running a SCAB FACTORY or not. They are seemingly disregarding all precedents in Union matters and have taken it upon themselves to injure me in my business.

The truth of the matter is that for the past few years, or since I have been in business here, I have operated the only strict UNION FACTORY in St. Francois County, and am doing so today; never at any time has my factory been otherwise.
I wish to inform my friends and customers and the public generally, this say talk to the contrary about my factory is simply a malicious, rotten lie.

LABOR'S AGGRESSIVE FIGHT

Boise Trial an Epoch in Sociological History—Letter From Hon. M. R. Smith.

BOISE, IDAHO, June 28.

To the Editor of THE TIMES:
The trial of William D. Haywood, Secretary of Western Federation of Miners, now in progress in this city, has resolved itself into a titanic struggle between capital and labor in the great mining regions of the West. The personality of Haywood and his straightforward fight for liberty looms big, it is true, but behind it all is the class battle.

The Western Federation of Miners is an aggressive organization and has been fortunate in having at its head live, young, vigorous, able and practical miners, men of real, natural ability. As witnesses on the stand they show their opinion now that Haywood will not be convicted. That the jury will disagree is the most prevalent opinion, and indications now point to that result. Under the evidence, as it now stands, and the State's case has been established as forcibly as it was possible to establish it, Haywood should be acquitted, but the stakes are heavy on both sides, and to attempt to positively predict the outcome would be folly.

On the side of the miners is the principle that makes for their betterment and freedom from wage oppression. On the side of the mine owners, defeat would be galling and would entail a decided weakening of capitalistic strength, not only in the West, but throughout the States.

Governor Stenness was a victim of conditions. As the Master said: "It is impossible but that offenses will come, but we unto him through whom they come, etc." I will hereafter make it clear, as it appears to me, who the offenders were.

As for Boise, it is a beautiful city of 25,000 inhabitants, a progressive people. Boise's streets are wide and well-paved. The houses are of brick or stone, well built and attractive. It is the capital of the State of Idaho and a splendid capitol building is now in course of construction.

By way of Denver and Salt Lake City, the route to Boise is one famed for its grandeur. I left St. Louis on the evening of June 21 and arrived in Denver on the morning of June 23. Boise was yet almost 1,000 miles away in the Far West. Out from Denver about forty-five miles, running in a westerly direction, we passed within about six miles of the foot of Pike's Peak, which is more than 14,000 feet high, snow-capped forever and like a great sentinel watching and numbering the cycles of time. Here we stopped, but only for a short time.

Up the Arkansas River the journey was continued, the train climbing for more than one hundred miles of the route, the river alongside winding through canyons and gorges of marvelous sublimity, perpendicular walls of granite rising over and above the track 1,000 feet or more on each side, the roaring waters dashing from cascade to cascade and the train whirled along by two great engines near the precipitous banks of the river, with whistles screeching incessantly.

The Royal Gorge, which is about one mile in length, is one of the most grandly spectacular scenes in all the Rockies. I shall not attempt to describe it. It must be seen to be appreciated, and even then one wonders whether such a feat is possible. As we made the last ascent of the mountains within a mile of Leadville to Tennessee Pass, the divide, or summit, the sun was just falling behind those mighty walls of granite, part of the massive framework of the Western Continent. Here we halted to catch our breath, as they say, more than 9,000 feet above the level of the sea. There are 21 mountain peaks visible from this point, each of them higher above the sea level than Pike's Peak. Massive Peak, which towers 10,240 feet from its bases strikes farthest into the heavens.

Down gorges along Eagle and Grand Rivers we passed out of Colorado into Utah, crossing long stretches of desert covered with sage brush. Salt Lake city appears

Infants' and Childrens' Footwear

Just received a shipment of infants' and childrens' footwear, comprising a great many styles not carried earlier in the season. These are selling fast and you will have to hurry. One style was half sold out same day shipment arrived. Come in and see them.

to the westward about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. This city is most disappointing and tan only be regarded as famous for its wide streets, Great Salt Lake, one of the mysteries of Nature, and the grey stone Mormon Temple, which was built without the sound of a hammer. This is the statement of its votaries, who revere the structure as did the Hebrews Solomon's Temple. Through Southern Idaho the mountains dwindle into comparative insignificance, and Boise sits in the center of an agricultural country, surrounded by ranches, which are not less profitable than many of the mines.

State Music Teachers Association.

Miss A. M. Eisenberg attended the meeting of the State Music Teachers' Association at Macon last week, and kindly furnishes us with the following brief summary of its proceedings:
The meeting was fairly well attended and was interesting.

The recitals on Tuesday were composed of Macon talent and were good. Wednesday morning, Mr. Nathan Sacks, president of the association, conducted the Round Table, the subject under discussion being "The Standard to Qualify One to Teach Piano." A committee was appointed to fix the minimum standard for which one should qualify before being capable of teaching, the committee to report at next year's meeting.

Thursday morning the Round Table was conducted by Mr. Dibble of St. Louis and was devoted to the Vaicon. Mr. Dibble explained his method of producing a clear tone and enunciating distinctly at the same time, which a great many teachers of voice fail of doing.

Friday morning the Round Table was conducted by Mr. Kroeger of St. Louis and was devoted to the discussion of Theory. Mr. Kroeger in his remarks said many teachers as well as pupils could write chords and recognize them when written, but failed to distinguish them when heard. He stressed training the ear as well as the eye and hand.

Mrs. Hughey of St. Louis gave an illustrated lecture on "The Essential Elements of Good Music." It was the best of the program.

Joint recitals were given each day by the different artists. At night general concerts were the order.

Next year the Association will meet in St. Louis, and it is desired to have every county in the State represented.

The Business Men's Club of Farmington, in pursuance of its plan to set before the world the great possibilities of St. Francois county, is mapping out a scheme of exploitation that promises big results. Any data as to mineral deposits, exceptional productivity of farm lands, successful stock raising or any other resource of the county, should be sent to the Secretary of the Club, who will find it of incalculable assistance in any campaign of publicity that may be undertaken. An article along this line is now in course of preparation for the metropolitan papers by Melbourne Smith.

The Coming Festival.

The Annual Festival of the Catholic congregation will be held as usual at the end of the summer. This year there will be a departure, in so far that there will be no raffles held; instead a mile will be sold in dimes. Mrs. Anthony, Mrs. Rozier, Mrs. Bert Zwart and Miss Emma Lang have been authorized by Father Stolte to solicit for this purpose. As it was thought favorable to the wishes of the people that no raffles be held, the above named women hope to be very successful in their new scheme.

BUSINETS COLLEGE NOTES.

Misses Towers and Snyder expect to go to St. Louis next Monday to accept stenographic positions.

Some of the students ready for positions have concluded to remain at home until September in order to avoid the usual oppressive season in the city.

J. E. Halter, our fifteen year-old student, who graduated in the combined department, has accepted a stenographic position with Judge Rivers in Elyria.

Mrs. William Cain of Potosi was a visitor last Friday, having come over to return with her son Len, who expects to come back in the fall to complete his course.

In order that President Mouthart may not sacrifice the welfare and interests of his school, he has resigned the Secretaryship at No. 4, to which he was recently elected. This step was taken, after his seeing that it would be necessary to devote too much time to his official duties at the Hospital.

Our regular school term closed last Friday, the year being a specially successful one, there being about twenty graduates in the different departments, while a large number of students were placed in positions as soon as they were competent; in other words, before they had graduated. This, of course, is the condition every year in business college work.

Postmasters Not Required to Make Change.

It will probably be an item of news to most of our readers that our postmaster is not compelled to make change for you when you make purchases at Uncle Sam's office. This is a queer rule that not one in a thousand persons know. Buyers of stamps or any purchase at a post-office must furnish their own change, that is the postmaster could insist on the buyer furnishing his own change if he sees fit to do it; but usually the postmaster is glad enough to get rid of his "chicken feed," and he is always ready and willing to accommodate the public by making all the change it asks for. If a man wishes to buy fifty cents worth of stamps and has but a silver dollar, he would be compelled to buy a dollar's worth of stamps or go and get his dollar changed or do without his stamps if the postmaster was stubborn and refused to make change for him. This is the law, and a queer one, according to our way of thinking. And postmasters are not compelled to take more than twenty-five pennies at one time, if they do not want them.—Ironton Register.

Fourth of July Peaches.

Mrs. David Heidelberg has on her place a peach tree known as the Fourth of July peach, and it bore about two bushels this year. They were ready to pick last Tuesday, and she favored all her neighbors with samples. They are large red peaches and unusually fine for an early variety. Dr. Fugate also presented us with some fine ones of the same variety.
