John Whitt, a young man who was sentenced to the penitentiary for life at the last term of Circuit Court, has been paroled to Parkhurst Sleeth, who took great interest in setting right an apparent error in the evidence, which did not develop until after sentence had been passed, which indicates that Whitt, who is only about 20 years old, was not even an accessory to the crime, for which he had received a life penitentiary sentence.

W. B. Rariden & Son shipped a car load of cattle Monday and a car of hogs Tuesday, both to the St. Louis market. The Times is sorry to note that while driving these hogs to the shipping yards at DeLassus, five of them were overcome by heat and died. The remains were brought to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tobe Gossett, in this city. Mrs. Gossett is a sister of the deceased, with whom he lived for several years after the death of his parents.

Deceased had professed faith in Christ during the Burks and Hobbs meeting in this city two years ago, but had never united with a church. Three sisters and two brothers survive him, and they have the heartfelt sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. O. H. L. Cunningham at 11 a. m. Tuesday, at the Gossett home, and the remains were laid to rest in Parkview cemetery.

FARMER CALLS HOGS TO FEED TROUGH BY BLOWING AUTO HORN

Fulton, Mo., Sept. 8.—The Kansas City farmer whose mules came to their meals when the stockyards whistle blew, hasn't a thing on J. Frank Buckner, a big mule and hog feeder, in the north part of Calloway county, who brings his hogs to the feeding trough with the aid of the horn on his automobile. Buckner says it is more effective than any human hog-holler he has ever heard or seen in action. At first it proved a little hard to train the hogs to answer the horn's call, but Buckner solved the problem by driving a number of hogs to a point where they could see the corn falling into the trough as he tooted the horn. Then they came pell-mell, and porkers further down the lane noticing the rush for the meal ticket, came a running also. Since that, they have connected a meal of corn with the tooting of the automobile horn and it proves an easy task to bring them from the extreme end of the farm when it is meal-time.

Rolla cast 557 votes for the proposition to 43 against; St. James 291 for, 54 against; Newburg, 316 for, and 25 against.

THE BANKERS KNOW

Unquestionably the men who guide the destinies of our banking institutions should be conceded to be among the best judges of securities that should be listed among the bank's assets. One of the strong and well managed banks in Missouri is the National Bank of Unionville, within a few miles of the Iowa Border. Its statement published in August, shows its standing. The bank has a capital of $50,000, with loans and overdrafts reaching $210,000.10. Among the assets are listed Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps to the value of $32,543.23. Thus the heads of this successful bank show by their example that they consider the U. S. Government securities a splendid investment. They know, and the uninitiated should know, from their lead, that the War Savings Stamps and the Treasury Savings Certificates, the only form of U. S. Securities obtainable direct from the government, now that the last Liberty Bond campaign is over, are the best investments the individual can find.
