The Davie Motor Car Company, St. Louis, Mo., have originated a "Co-operative Selling Plan" of selling automobiles direct to the user, whereby the purchaser saves big money by buying direct from the wholesaler. See their ad in this issue. The official statements of the financial condition of the three Farmington banks, at the close of business on Feb. 21st, appears in this issue of The Times. All these institutions make splendid showing, and their statements are worthy of careful inspection. A committee composed of P. G. Hunt, Mayor C. A. Tetley and M. P. Cayce give notice in this issue of The Times to contractors that bids will be received for the erection of the Long Memorial building in Farmington, on Monday, March 21st. Plans and specifications can now be had at the Bank of Farmington. In all parts of town can be seen abundant evidence of the annual clean-up. Surely this must be spring. Many places are being materially improved, while all are being made more attractive with at least a "once over". Many places are being materially improved by simply removing the front fence. What is the need for such "prison-bars" when stock is not permitted to run at large. Lyman H. Reed, secretary of the Farmington Chamber of Commerce, was a business visitor in St. Louis the first of the week. He reports that the St. Francois county exhibit of farm and mineral products, now in place in the Hall of Resources, which is in charge of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, is the largest and best exhibit there—that it is very creditable to this county and is attracting considerable attention. Soon after the fire whistle sounded its alarm yesterday afternoon the horse attached to A. C. Boyd's delivery wagon ran away, the course of its race being around the square, starting from near the post office. But on circling the northwest corner, the animal made too wide a loop and came very near going through the large plate glass front of Oscar Hall's office. As it was it became hedged in between several autos and the driving posts, after having distributed the delivery wagon in its trail. The announcement of Walter E. Burgess for City Marshal will be found in this issue of The Times. Mr. Burgess is a native of this immediate community, and has been a resident of Farmington for twenty-two years. He has a wife and five children, has a splendid life history, and is held in high esteem as an excellent citizen. He is a blacksmith by profession, and is now working for Herman & Herbst, but that work has become trying on him, and he has concluded that a change in employment might be beneficial to his health. CONDITIONS OF THE OLD PENDLETON CEMETERY To the public who have relatives and friends buried in the old Pendleton cemetery: The fence is all falling down, cattle and hogs go through the fence at will. This being the fact, it is absolutely necessary to reference same. Therefore, the United Baptist church at Pendleton, at its business meeting Saturday, Feb. 26, 1921, appointed a committee of ten persons to solicit subscriptions for a new fence: F. M. Matkin, T. B. Parks, W. M. Watson, E. L. Huff, Elias Gibson, S. W. Sebastian, Philip Zolman, Albert Hale, C. F. Hendrich. A part of this committee made an estimate of the cost and find it would take 110 rods of woven wire to go around the cemetery. The wire, 48 inches high, will cost 84 cents a rod, which makes $92. Staples and nails, $3. Will need 150 new posts, and the work of putting it up. J. D. HUFF, Church Clerk. AT THE CHURCHES Christian Church J. M. Bailey, Pastor. Chums' Day next Lord's Day. Come and bring your friend or chum. Bible school at 9:45 a. m. Preaching at 11 a. m. Subject: "Friendship." Christian Endeavor at 6:30 p. m. Prayer service, Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. A welcome to all. Milwaukee Tank Works, Milwaukee, Wis. Mr. Andrew M. Mellon, the new Secretary of the Treasury, owned a half interest in the Overholt distilleries, until he was notified of his forthcoming appointment in the cabinet, when he sold—to another member of the family. As secretary of the Treasury, he would have the last say on withdrawals from government warehouses of the eight million dollars worth of liquor said to be owned by the Overholt people. But, of course he would not act under such circumstances. The decision in such cases would probably be left to a capable assistant. Lungstras Dyeing

is available in every home

Lungstras offers to every citizen, regardless of where located, the same perfect and satisfying dyeing service that has been available to St. Louisians since 1873. Lungstras is as close to you as your mail box. Through the mail order department, you may take full advantage of the wonderful facilities of this immense plant—a dyeing works that to build, required a half-century of conscientious effort, two generations of satisfied customers and the greatest experts on dyeing that could be secured in Europe and America.

Dyeing Saves Buying

Dyeing will freshen up the older furnishings of your home. It will make the clothes of every member of your family look like new. It will cut the high cost of living by reducing buying to the minimum.

For only a few dollars, Lungstras will make you proud to wear the old clothes you had planned on throwing away because they are faded or soiled—coats, dresses, suits, skirts, gloves, waists, laces, sweaters, stockings. He will take your old curtains, draperies, rugs and carpets—no matter whether they be wool, silk, linen, cotton or mixed goods—and dye them in colors that will make the home more beautiful.

Send No Money

Lungstras trusts you. Just send in your goods and tell him what to do. He will inspect them and notify you what the work will cost. If the price is more than you care to pay, order him to return the goods at once. Otherwise instruct him to proceed and you pay when the goods are delivered by the postman.

Send a Trial Bundle Today

To prove to yourself just how wonderfully Lungstras can serve you, bundle up and send him today, some old suit, coat, blouse or dress that you never expected to wear again. Write him what color you want it dyed. He will look it over and notify you what the work will cost and, if the garment cannot be dyed the color you requested, he will suggest other colors that will be satisfactory. He will not dye your goods until you have learned the price and ordered him to proceed, and you do not pay until the postman delivers them to you.

Spring is almost here. Whether it regards clothes or house furnishings, Lungstras dyeing is a mighty big help during this busy season. Let's get acquainted right away. Give your trial order a flying start—get it ready for the mail man NOW.

Lungstras Service Satisfies

Lungstras service is safe, satisfying, efficient. Years of experience have eliminated all guess work. Results are positive. At the bottom of this advertisement is shown a bird's-eye view of the great Lungstras plant which employs 385 people and maintains 21 branches to serve its customers efficiently. It is truly one of the few great concerns of its kind in the world. That it has been possible to create so vast an enterprise, is your guarantee that you also will like Lungstras methods.

Lungstras is no longer a community concern—it has grown into an institution of far-reaching influence. Such size and strength makes possible an abundance of the best and most costly equipment, carefully trained departmental executives, painstaking supervision and inspection, perfect workmanship, rapid service and reasonable charges.

We have prepared a handy pocket calendar containing our address. Send for yours—its free.
