THE ROAD TO RUIN
 St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 8, 1921.
 The Farmington Times:—
 I have noticed an article in your paper headed "Do You Know Where Your Daughter Is?"
 This article is a key to the moral gage of life, and this citizen of your town has said an important thing when he says the automobile midnight life is the door to the road of ruin for our young girls, and the mothers should raise their girls instead of letting them just grow up as many mothers of today do.
 Only a few people stop to realize the fact but it is very important to those who wish to see their sister or daughter be respectful and fit to make a wife or a mother in the speedy coming future.
 The automobile is the ruin of most of our young girls today. For instance, in the last few weeks, there have been auto accidents where the machine has killed someone and the papers state the men had picked up girls on the street or park and took them out for a ride, and then state the girls were unknown to them.

What is your opinion of a girl who will go with unknown men out for a ride into the country? Well, maybe she is only "green" and once in, a while escape disgrace, but seldom.

Girls should be cautioned against the immoral side of life and not just be kept in close, not knowing why.

Both men and women are fighting prohibition and all such which are a ruin to men, but the poor innocent little girl, who should have the most care, is neglected to lead the wrong road.

The country can soon find out what a girl is by the old faithful long-tongued busy body gossipers who only see the wrongs of others and none of their own. But, in fact, they are upholders of morals, after we find out the truth, for the country woman will be very careful about her morals for it may create a scandal if she mis-conducts herself and it was found out.

When most girls go to the city it means their downfall for they are where they are not known and soon go the limit.

I have been through the dives of many of our large cities and find for the fact that most of these downfallen girls are from country towns and were let do as they pleased and soon found they were below the eyes of even the lowest man being.

They are never happy at heart and often speak of home but find they are not any more fit to face their folks and friends who once welcomed them.

There are some sad scenes in the underworld which mothers should see and at once they would be giving their daughters the best of care. If a girl can be kept under until she is 21 years old she will seldom turn out bad.

I'm like that citizen. Girls should be allowed only one fellow, and not make their parlor a stamping ground for every fellow in the town. Girls who have fellows each night in the week are known to be the ones who get divorces and then go to the dogs later on.

The best time to moralize a girl is before she is turned out bad.

There are 4,000,000 women in this country to each man so let each man pick out the moral ones and discard the ones who have been mussed over with every one in town. A good rule is, respect those only who are respectful. If these loose character night girls are shown respect it only encourages the respectful girl to follow in their tracks. I believe when a girl is arrested for misconduct her picture and name should be printed in the papers so her friends and folks can see her life, and believe me, she wouldn't like that but when her friends don't know the fact of her life, what does she care.

There are always people preaching against the wrongs of the world but never do anything to uphold the world's morals.

I have found several girls in this city's underworld, who lives in your neighboring towns and often read of them where they are visiting home-folks who think they are employed in the factory but there's no gossipers to tell tales, so why do they care? So you should thank your city gossipers instead of passing them by.

A girl never knows her faith till it's too late.

Every mother should keep her daughter from these night rides and fight for her daughter's morals and she'll find it will avoid many hours of regret. I feel all mothers can spare a little time anyhow to raising her children instead of giving all her time to societies and outings with friends. Let the women show what they intend to do for the world's morals instead of only using their rights to attend societies and fashion balls and being out flirting with the men.

Let everybody uphold our moral girls.
