With her most enviable reputation for good roads we can not understand how our sister county of St. Francois can longer neglect the road at Middlebrook.—Ironton Register.

Harry Mitchell, of this city, recently received notice from the Pension Department that he was entitled to a small part of the $10,000 insurance from the estate of an uncle, Martin H. Latimer, a private in Co. A, 27th Engineers, who died after his return from service in France. Last week Harry received some back pay on this account, and hereafter will receive a small monthly stipend, he being one of about forty heirs in this estate.

In July, two years ago, a very successful and interesting Fruit Growers' Meeting was held at the State Fruit Experiment Station at Mountain Grove. A similar meeting is to be held this year at the Station grounds, on Friday, July 14th, and under the auspices of the Missouri State Horticultural Society. The program of the day will include an inspection of the grounds, where numerous projects are under way which should be of much interest to growers, and a short speaking program. Further details concerning the meeting will be given out next week.

The open season for shooting squirrels in Missouri opens June 1, and does not close until December 31, allowing seven months of shooting. It is reported that there are many squirrels this year. Many hunters who have not secured hunting licenses up to this time will get them now and the treasury of the State Game and Fish Department is expected to be considerably swelled. Since nothing but rabbits in the way of game—and rabbits are not technically considered as game under the Missouri law, and not protected, although a license is necessary to hunt them legally—can be shot by hunters from January 1 each year till the opening of the squirrel season, except furbearing animals during January, not so many hunting licenses are taken out as after or just before the first of next month. The hunting license for a county resident is $1. A license that permits hunting anywhere in Missouri costs $2.50 and a nonresident must pay $10. The county hunting license permits hunting and fishing in the county in which the hunter resides and in adjoining counties and the state license covers hunting and fishing all over the state during the open seasons.

SOUTHWEST CALLING FOR HELP TO HARVEST GREAT WHEAT CROP

The "Big Wheat Belt" harvest of the Southwest was officially declared in full swing yesterday by George E. Tucker, Kansas State Labor Commissioner, in a telegram to Wm. H. Lewis, Missouri State Labor Commissioner, requesting that 300 harvest hands from the vicinity of St. Louis be recruited each day until further notice.

Fourteen million acres of wheat must be taken care of in Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma, Kansas itself must harvest slightly over 9,000,000 acres. The cutting of the grain has been going on in these states for the past week.

In the central and western sections of Kansas alone, 30,000 additional men must be recruited to harvest the unusually large wheat crop.

Wm. H. Lewis, State Labor Commissioner, told a Globe-Democrat reporter that in previous years the men recruited for the wheat fields had so far exceeded the demand that the smaller towns in the belt had been overrun with men, who had caused much trouble and became a nuisance. "This year," said Lewis, "we plan to recruit men only as they are needed. The rural sections and larger cities have been given a quota to fill, and when that quota is reached recruiting automatically ceases until more men are needed and called for."

According to Lewis, community entertainment centers have been established throughout the wheat belt, in order to provide amusement for the men. "The average wage of the harvesters," Lewis said, "will be from $3 to $4 a day with free board and lodging."
