There are apples enough to go around this year and some for cider. The crop is estimated at 210,000,000 bushels against a general average production of about 145,000,000 bushels. Because of the loss of export markets growers will undoubtedly suffer and already there is talk that in some large apple-growing regions not all the fruit will be picked because of low prices. There are not too many apples to be consumed by our own people if they could have access to them. It will be a pity if desirable apples are not picked and consumed, while the lowest prices are offered producers. Recently in a store in a country village apples were priced at 40 cents a peck. A short distance away trees were so burdened with fruit that it was problematical if it would pay to gather it at all. Apples are bound to be low by the barrel and that is the way to buy apples whenever possible. Nearly everywhere through the corn belt farmers will need to buy their apples, owing partly to the inroads of the scale.

H. S. Schoonover, a farmer living in the Mount Airy neighborhood, brought to Maryville for exhibition Saturday, a "yard long" bean, 30 inches in length, which he grew this summer. Mrs. Schoonover reports that the bean is quite a novelty there and that it is quite desirable.

Days of fine weather remain before winter comes with mingled cold and wet. Many things can be done now to make farm life pleasanter in winter time. There are the mud holes at the gates. Some farmers are paving between their gateways with concrete; others are placing gravel in such places. Either will do much to take farm life out of the mud. Some men have cracks in their feed boxes through which grain sifts out constantly. In five minutes' time in such places a rail or two and a bit of lath or board will do much to save the grain. The men who have made netting for the fences at farming are those who look after just such little details as these. They did them opportunely and were never rushed. They are a man who from poverty grew to be a very large landowner. Striving about his place one day after his death, we were astonished to see hanging on a nail a spade that was used in the place more than two decades before he died. His buildings were in perfect repair. His fences were strong. There was never any rush or hurry on that farm, yet it grew and grew. Order, system and attention to details helped to achieve a notable success.

The bald eagle that stole a chicken from the yard of John Stevens at Jonesburg didn't know about John's ability to pitch 'em over his fence. Mr. Stevens, indignant at the theft of the Rhode Island Red, quite promptly heaved a pebble at the bird of prey, bringing it to earth, when he slew it with a club. The eagle measured six feet from tip to tip.

Competing for a purse of $50, rival butchers at Monett engaged in a "skinning contest" where the meatcutters dressed a beef in a race against time. Lewis Baldwin won the money by finishing his task in seventeen minutes and eight seconds.

A Franklin county woman combats the high cost of chicken by raising and selling her chickens. She is raising her poultry with cracked walls which she covers, gives the fowls exercise in picking out the kernels and that the hens in gratitude lay for her all winter.

Fennwald Bros., the extensive Audrain county feeders and regular patrons of this market contributed some more of their good steers for Mondays trade and they sold at the top of the market, also bringing the highest price ever for these here for about two weeks. There were 75 head in the consignments averaging 1476 pounds that sold to Joseph Sterns & Co. of New York for $10.50.

The steers showed the careful handling that is characteristic of all cattle raised here by the feeders. They were conditioned for the market mainly on a ration of corn and Lyon's Champion Molasses Feed. The brothers were well pleased with their price.—Live Stock Reporter.

This Handsome Silver Spoon Absolutely and Unconditionally FREE If You Call For It Next Saturday

Each woman who calls at this store next Saturday, is going to receive FREE as a present, one of the most beautiful Tea Spoons ever designed—the ROGERS' Spoon here shown. You are not asked to buy anything now or later. This spoon is absolutely and unqualifiedly free.

This spoon is guaranteed to give permanent satisfaction. And the guarantee is authorized by the manufacturers.

Why This Offer?

Many people will wonder how Silver of this quality can be given away.

It is done to quickly introduce the "Puritan" pattern to the best homes of our city. So handsome is this spoon that most women, we believe, will come back at a later date and buy several, and some will also want "Puritan" knives, forks and the various fancy pieces, which are on sale at this store.

In making this offer we lay no claim to liberality. It is simply our idea of good business.

Only One Spoon Per Family

But we won't give two Spoons in the same family. You, as a representative of your family, are entitled to just one spoon. And you must call next Saturday to get it.

This offer is not apt to be repeated again this season. So, if you want this genuine ROGERS' Spoon (Puritan Design) free—come Saturday and get it.

The New "Puritan" Pattern

Note the style of this spoon. It belongs to the Popular Colonial series. This particular design is the "Puritan"—perhaps the most artistic ever designed by America's most famous Silverware maker. Certainly no spoon was ever more beautiful.

WORRELL, THE JEWELER

of Mexico

In Memory of Judge M. Crum. Matthias Crum was born in Macopin County, Ill., Sept. 13th, 1841. Died at his home on Central avenue, Mexico, Mo., November 1st, 1914.

His father, Joseph Crum, was one of the early settlers of Illinois, having moved to that state from Pennsylvania in the early thirties.

Mr. Crum was anxious for a higher education than the common schools furnished at that time, but with the breaking out of the Civil war, he decided that his country was more in need of his services than by his own interest. He enlisted in Co. B, of the 122nd Regiment of Illinois Infantry, and served until the close of the war, when he was honorably discharged. Thirty days after his discharge he took up his neglected education, and entered Lombard University at Galesburg, Ill. He took the B. S. degree in 1870 and ten years later was honored with the Master's degree. While he was a student he helped to reorganize the scientific course at the University. After completing his studies at the University he cast about for a business opening. He engaged in the lumber business at Farmer City, Ill., and became a prosperous lumber merchant.

From the realm of men, Across into the Great Beyond. Away from mortal ken. His life goes on, an endless chain He lives, and is not dead. But passed into Eternity— That's all—just gone ahead! MRS. F. L. CROSBY.

William H. Gibbs Kills Himself

William H. Gibbs, 73 years old, a substantial retired farmer living near Guthrie, killed himself by drinking carbolic acid Monday. The suicide was at the home of Mrs. W. J. Wilkerson, the daughter of Mr. Gibbs. Despondency and ill health is said to be the cause of his suicide.

How do you like that cigar I gave you?" asked the Old Fogey.

"Next to the filler, the worst thing about it is the wrapper," replied the Grouch.

Rene Sparks, who has been laid up for some time, was able to be out some Tuesday. Rene's many friends will be glad to know that his health is some better.

481 LBS. HONEY FROM HIVE

Hayti, Mo., Nov. 3.—Four hundred and eighty-one pounds of honey was taken from a single hive last week by E. D. (Toad) Baird, a farmer, two miles east of Hayti. When the young swarms was hived it was put in a large dry gourd box, which was found completely filled.

This is the largest amount of honey ever taken from a single hive in Pettis County and possibly breaks the record for the State. If sold for 19 cents a pound the honey would bring $44.19, being considerably more than the same weight of lint cotton would sell for. All it cost Mr. Baird to raise this honey was a dry gourd box which a neighbor gave him to get it hauled out of his way.

SPEAKER CLARK TOLD OF NATION'S PROGRESS

The progress of this State, especially the Ninth Congressional District and the United States was reviewed by the Hon. Champ Clark, Representative from this District and Speaker of the House, Monday evening. A very large and interested audience listened to Mr. Clark, who made a most excellent address, despite a severe hoarseness, due to outdoor speaking.

Col. Fred A. Morris, chairman of the Audrain County Democratic committee, introduced the Speaker. In his introductory remarks Mr. Morris said it seemed strange that he or any one else should be called on to introduce Champ Clark to an Audrain County audience. Mr. Clark knows more people in this county than any other man, he said.

Mr. Clark spoke on the great progress of the United States and the growth of all of its industries. He then came back to the Ninth District, which he calls home, and told of the many resources—natural and otherwise—to be found in these ten counties. Although the address was in no way political and Mr. Clark never touched on party matters, he took occasion to thank the voters for their loyal support. It was the people of the Ninth District, he said, who made him Speaker, in that they elected him time after time without opposition.

On the platform with Speaker Clark were Mr. Clark, Fred Morris, Postmaster W. R. Jackson, A. H. Whitney and their wives.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL

AT KIRKSVILLE

Now is the time for the young men and the young women to lay plans for entering the winter term of the Normal School at Kirksville. The winter term begins Tuesday, December 1. That is the day to enter.

Fully one hundred ambitious, anxious, capable young men and women will be entering that day. They will be entering, many of them, a school away from home for the first time. They will be entering classes in Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Farm Accounts, Typewriting, Geography, English, French, German, Exercises, Manual Training, Drawing, Painting and Designing, Music, Sewing, Cooking, Civil Government, Physiology, Post-Primary Culture, Dairying, Farm Animals, Cows, Soils, Sanitation, and many other subjects that are in the list of studies needed for ambitious young citizens and teachers. In many respects the winter term is the best term in which to begin attending school away from home for the first time.

The big, many-sided school at Kirksville has a great variety of student activities and interests. The Literary Societies, Debating Clubs, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. entertainments, and many other sane attractions give life and interest which young entering students would hardly expect to find.
