School Exercises

Wednesday morning the school began a series of entertainments with a play by the seniors. It was introduced as a "Shakespearean play, with all due respect to Shakespeare." The play "The Dorg" was enacted by Jesse Williams as Joshua Mapin; Ivy Reese as Chloe, wife of Joshua; Ruth Harned, Fanny, daughter of Joshua; Roy Burns, Sweetheart of Fanny; Silas Bennett and Joe Alexander, two bandits. The play was selected by the seniors unaided by the faculty and showed careful study and preparation.

Thursday morning the sophomores gave their entertainment at the general assembly hour. Their work was entirely original and showed much preparation and talent.

This was a session of the Campbell and Irving Literary Society of 1875.

The members appeared in old time costumes and reproduced the manners and customs of the time.

First was the secretary's report and roll call. Then followed Song, Old Time Religion.

Recitation: Louiza Wiakum Binkum. Song: Suzanna Hoptail.

Paper: Coby Argentin. Story: Rev. Johoseph Sprinkler.

Talk on Science: Hezekiah Blucker. Critic's report:

to pacify the naughty little girl and the naughty little girl herself were conspicuous members of the class. The dignity and solemnity of Hezekiah Blucker were worthy of his subject.

The domestic science class set a very worthy precedent for the school. By their own efforts they purchased an electric iron for the use of the class and presented it to the school to be used long after the present class will have no further need of it.

After the class play Sept. Bennett gave an address to the students. His subject was "Whence comes our wealth?" He told them that our country has not enough wealth until every family has a comfortable home where they can enjoy themselves and every child can have good medical attention and good care when ill.

He compared Switzerland and Denmark in their lack of natural resources with Taney rich in natural resources and showed how through the system of education in the former two countries they had become mighty in power, influence and wealth as opposed to the poverty and ignorance in Turkey. Thus by education can our little section become powerful and influential if by education we have Education doubles the value of the natural resources of the country and the native ability of its people.

Friday afternoon the grades gave their entertainment at 2:30. This was an especially happy time for it was all on Christmas and the children did remarkably well.

The numbers were:

1. First Glad Christmas by Eliza Beth St John.

2. Christmas at Uncle Jerry's Home, by the Seventh and Eighth grades.

3. Recitation. A letter to Santa Claus, by Quincy Adams.

4. Old Santa joins the Red Cross. A Play by the Intermediate Grade.

5. The First Tree. A play by the Primary class.

6. Vocal Duet. Violet Weatherman and Elizabeth St. John.

7. Recitation. "Go to Sleep My Little Baby." Rachel Johnson.

Then came the distribution of gifts from the christmas tree. Every pupil was remembered and made happy by some little gift.

The teachers and pupils deserve much credit for the efforts they have made and the parents should be more appreciative and show their appreciation by attending the entertainments, thus encouraging both the teacher and their own children.

The railways of the United States are more than one-third, nearly one-half, of all the railways of the world. They carry a yearly traffic so much greater than that of any other country that there is really no basis for comparison. Indeed, the traffic of any two nations may be combined, and still it does not approach the commerce of America borne upon American railways.

—United States Senator Cummins.

Ask Any Doughboy Who Was "Over There" and he will tell you that American railroads are the best in the world.

He saw the foreign roads—in England and France, the best in Europe—and in other Continental countries—and he knows.

The part railroads have played in the development of the United States is beyond measure.

American railroads have achieved high standards of public service by far-sighted and courageous investment of capital, and by the constant striving of managers and men for rewards for work well done.

We have the best railroads in the world—we must continue to have the best.

But they must grow.

To the $20,000,000,000 now invested in our railroads, there will have to be added in the next few years, to keep pace with the nation's business, billions more for additional tracks, stations and terminals, cars and engines, electric power houses and trains, automatic signals, safety devices, the elimination of grade crossings—and for reconstruction and engineering economies that will reduce the cost of transportation.

To attract to the railroads in the future the investment funds of many thrifty citizens, the directing genius of the most capable builders and managers, and the skill and loyalty of the best workmen—in competition with other industries bidding for capital, managers and men—the railroad industry must hold out fair rewards to capital, to managers and to the men.

American railroads will continue to set world standards and adequately serve the Nation's needs if they continue to be built and operated on the American principle of rewards for work well done.

W. R. Cathel who came home from Kansas to recuperate is not recovering as he and friends would like, he is having stomach trouble.

The deportation of a ship load of 'reds' and another bunch in the pen at Leavenworth Kansas ought to be a warning that the public is getting tired of so much monkeying with the people's business. We doubt that the Christmas tide will be as happy as it should be in many laboring men's families, from the amount of idleness the last two months and that h peace on earth and good will to all men is in a rather shattered condition. However we extend to all our hearty good wishes, altho we shall have to stay on our job and work most of the day, we wish all that can may get all possible enjoyment from the festal day.

Many large firms have recently been added to the list of constant callers for help.

The school uses great care in placing the graduates in situations they are sure to hold. It never puts round pegs in square holes. The teachers who observe the students daily are always consulted when places are filled.

Wife—The fact there are germs on money doesn't worry me!

Hub—No, my dear. It would take a pretty active germ to hop from the money to you during the brief time you have it.
