Wohlberg-Ullman.

The home wedding of Miss Blanche Ullman and Harry Wohlberg of Omaha, Nebraska, was witnessed by her immediate relatives only, owing to the illness of her mother, Mrs. E. Ullman.

Rabbi Macht performed the impressive ceremony and followed by the best wishes of their many Waco friends they were soon on their way to Denver for an extended stay.

The bride was handsomely clad in a henna colored suit with hat to correspond and accessories in harmony.

Many lovely gifts and checks were sent them on their wedding day.

They will make their home in Omaha.

The bride is popular with a wide circle in this city, and so is the groom, for this was his former home. Recently he served overseas with the Thirty-Sixth Division.

TYLER

Wednesday evening the Squabblers held their meeting with Miss Helen Goldstein. The usual Bible lesson was led by Dr. Faber. Felix Wadel read an interesting paper on "The Jew of Today," and Miss Beatrice Goldstucker played a piano solo. Bunco was the diversion for the social hour, Miss Celia Golenternek winning the girl's prize, Mr. Hyman Golternek winning the boys' prize, and Mr. M. G. Goldstucker proudly displaying the consolation.

One of the most attractive affairs of the season was the leap-year dance given at the Royal Harrington Armory. The hall was cleverly decorated with Valentines, red being the color scheme. The boys received diamond rings and hearts as favors, while the girls were only given new spring hats with a "Votes for Women" sign.

Mr. J. Emdold of Wichita Falls attended the leap-year dance.

Mr. L. Greengard of Chicago spent a few days here.

Mr. Harry Cohen of Dallas spent a few days here on business.

Mrs. J. Wolf and children have returned after spending a month with her parents in Elgin.

STUDY OF MERCHANT OF VENICE FORBIDDEN IN HIGH SCHOOLS.

Portsmouth, Va. (By I. J. P. B.)—The local Board of Education has voted to remove Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice from the curriculum of the high school course. This step has been taken at the request of Dr. George Bacarat, the newly appointed Rabbi of the local Congregation Gombly Chesed.
