Irene Albertine, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Feldman was christened January 6 by Rev. Trinklein.

Miss Agnes Shelock returned to her home at Dickinson Sunday. Miss Shelock visited friends and relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Washer returned last Sunday from Chicago where they spent the holidays with friends.

Oscar Hall, a prominent farmer residing north of Wibaux spent several days here the first of the week visiting friends.

A train load of Case automobiles passed through here Monday, billed to a Russian port and to be used for war purposes.

The ladies of the M. E. church will meet at the home of T. L. Smith and Mrs. N. A. Heath Thursday, January 20. Everyone is welcomed.

Irene Albertina, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Feldman, was christened on January 5th by Rev. Trinklein at the home of the parents.

The semi-annual business meeting of the German Lutheran church will be held at the church Monday, January 17th at 1 p. m. All members are urged to attend.

The term of District court that was to have convened here last Tuesday has been indefinitely postponed because of the cold weather and the lack of a suitable hall to hold it in.

G. W. Clarke, proprietor of the Carlie Dray & Transfer Line, was up from Carlyle Wednesday on business and while in the city had his name added to our subscription list. He says that business is good down there and in the spring another big building boom is expected.

The interior of the fine new residence of Mrs. L. W. Richards on Richards ave; is rapidly nearing completion and when finished will have one of the most handsome interiors of any residence in the city. The arrangements are up to date and modern in every particular.

H. A. Bredevold, a newspaperman from Halstad, Minnesota is visiting at the Ed. Hoverson home here. Mr. Bredevold is interested in newspaper propositions in North Dakota and here's hoping that he will decide to locate in this great state of ours. At present he is owner and editor of a paper at Halstad.

J. R. Waters returned last Sunday from a couple of weeks visit at Rock Island, Illinois, Davenport, Iowa and other eastern points, where he transacted business and visited relatives and friends. He visited his mother at Montezuma, Iowa and went up to Maquoketa, Iowa, where he spent a day visiting our former townsman O. C. Kucheman. He tells us that Maquoketa is a beautiful little city of over 5000 inhabitants and that Mr. Kucheman is doing exceptionally well there, inasmuch as he is cashier of a bank that has over a million dollars on deposit and is also an officer in a trust company that does a similar volume of business. Mrs. Kucheman enjoys the privilege of resuming her former position as one of the most popular leaders of their exclusive social sets there and both expressed their desire to be remembered to all their Beach friends at the same proclaiming that no matter what success they met with in their present location or elsewhere they would always have a warm spot in their hearts for Beach.

Aug. J. Bredvold of Halstad, Minnesota, is visiting at the home of Ed. Hoverson.

Wm. Rosenberg has returned from a visit to Lambert, Mont., where one branch store of the Toggery is located, and has been transacting business in Golva this week.

The stork called at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Fuller on Monday, January 10th and left them a darling baby girl. Mother and daughter are doing nicely and of course the Dr. is the happiest man in the country.

J. M. Still left this city Friday morning for Dickinson in order that he might accompany his wife home from the hospital there where she has been taking medical treatment for the past several weeks.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist church will be entertained at the home of Mrs. T. L. Smith by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. C. F. Heath on Thursday, January 20. Everybody welcome.

The semi-annual business meeting of the German Lutheran congregation will be held at the church Monday, January 17. The meeting will be called at 1:00 o'clock sharp. As very important business is to be transacted all members are urged to be present.

Beach High School Notes

Resume of Doings at Beach's Public and Graded Schools—Athletics, Etc.

Albert Tissen has been absent all this week from school.

Lillian Wolf has been sick with the grippe and is still absent.

Several pupils have been absent this week owing to the cold weather.

Freda Brault was absent a couple of days this week on account of the grippe.

The central school has been closed all of this past week while the furnace is being repaired.

A number of frozen ears and cheeks at the High School are the results of the cold weather Tuesday morning.

The girls have resumed practice on the operetta, "The Feast of the Little Lanterns," and they expect to have it ready for production in a short time.

Russell Letson will have charge of the Boys Basket Ball team the rest of the season. The local team meets Wibaux in the opera house on Friday night. A good game is assured.

The Beach High School team played a good game with Dickinson on Friday despite the fact that the score was 49 to 7 in Dickson's favor. The first half of the game was a winning one for Beach but during the last half the Dickson team gained the ball and refused to let go of it.

Clock Four Generations in Family.
At a sale of the effects of John Haines at Romney, W. Va., was a grandfather's clock that had been in the family four generations. On the inside of the clock is a statement that it was repaired last in 1817. It has been running constantly and the only thing done to it in the last 21 years has been some oiling with coal oil.

POPE BENEDICT XV. IS HARD WORKER

Rises at 6 and is Frequently Engaged Up to Midnight.

TAKES HIS MEALS ALONE.

After Midday Refection the Pontiff Walks in Vatican Gardens if it is Not Too Hot—Often Goes to the End, Where He Watches Traffic and People With Interest.

Rome.—Benedict XV. is one of the most energetic pontiffs who ever sat upon St. Peter's throne. He gets through more work in the day than most busy men in the outer world. He rises at 6 o'clock, summer and winter. As soon as he is dressed he says mass in his private chapel, assisted by one of his chaplains. After that is a frugal breakfast, consisting of an egg beaten up in a cup of milk—nothing else. Before 8 he is hard at work. His first task is to read the daily papers. Though his secretaries always prepare for him what they consider the most interesting pieces of news, he prefers to read it first hand. The

POPE BENEDICT XV.
Catholic papers are soon done with. He spends far more time with the Italian Liberal and Democratic organs. At 9 o'clock the mail is brought in. Secretaries segregate it rapidly, submit the more important letters to the pope, and these occupy him till about 10 o'clock, when he receives the cardinal secretary of state.

At 10:30 the private and public audiences begin. Here Pope Benedict shows a marked difference from his predecessor. Pope Pius X. used to like to talk with everybody who came; none went away without a special word from him. But Benedict does not spend so much time on his visitors. Those whom mere curiosity has brought are soon dismissed. It is only in the case of an important person that he lingers in conversation. But even then the audiences last till midday, when the pope takes the principal meal of the day. Pius X. always dined with one of his chaplains. When the present pope was elected there was much speculation as to whether he would follow that custom. But the order came from his major domo before the first meal that Cardinal Della Chiesa ate as pope to set his table for one person, and he always adheres to the rule of taking his meals alone. His midday meal—lunch or dinner, whichever you like to call it—consists of an Italian soup with plenty of macaroni and cheese, a course of meat, a couple of vegetables and fruit, with a glass of French wine—no more.

After this comes recreation. Until 2:30 or 3 he walks in his private apartments or, when the weather is not too hot, in the Vatican gardens. He goes on foot, unattended by guards or chamberlains, and walks briskly. He often goes to the end of the gardens, to the wall that looks on the Piazza del Resorgimento, Rome's most modern neighborhood, and people down below in the paces nearest the pontifical gardens can see the pope watching the traffic with evident interest.

At 3 p. m. he goes back to work. Reports, instructions to his nuncios and various correspondence are now attended to. This goes on until 6, when more audiences are held. But these are of a private or intimate nature and are never reported in the Osservatore Romano, the Vatican organ.

It is at this hour that Benedict XV. receives his cardinals, the higher officials at the papal court and, very often, Italians who have some political or diplomatic position in the secular government and who cannot therefore go to the Vatican officially. At these evening audiences the pope learns more of what goes on in public affairs outside his domain than at any other time. It is in many respects the most important part of his day.

At 8 the audiences are closed. The pope then takes a supper of eggs beaten up in milk and talks to chosen members of the household for half an hour. And then to work again. Very often the three windows of the pontifical study are lighted up as late as midnight. No village priest works harder than Benedict XV.

MOTHER
As we sit alone and wonder
How the days have swiftly past,
Of our mother, way up yonder
And the life that can not last
Of our mother who brought
Us into this world of strife,
Of the hardships we have wrought
Turns her gray while young in life.
We never think until too late
Of how she stood before our wrongs
And strove to make us good and Great
Pride for which she waits and longs.
Of how she fussed and made us
ready
Then kissed and sent us off to school
And then she worked so hard and steady
This was our mothers only rule.
None have lived up to mothers desire
Few have ever tried to reach it,
Heeding not the things that do inspire
Lining the paths that mother lit.
Now that our mother is at rest
We look back with broken sighs,
We had not done our very best
To gladden our mothers eyes.
