

SUCCUMBS TO PTOMAIN.

Young Life of Clement Carey Falls Victim to Ptomaine Poison and Dissolution Occurs in Two Days.

Belfield, N. D.—One of the saddest and most sudden deaths which have startled Belfield occurred at the local hospital last Friday afternoon when the angel of death claimed for his own the young and verdant life of Clement Carey his death coming after an illness of but a few days with ptomaine poisoning.

The young man had been employed at the Dr. Rapp farm near Fryburg for some time and on a trip to town invested in some candy, which it is supposed poisoned him. He complained the next day of not feeling well and was given some easy riding to do, but at noon when he did not appear for dinner a search was made and he was discovered lying in the hay mow seriously ill. Mrs. Rapp administered aid to the best of her knowledge and he was brought at once to the Belfield hospital where all that could be done, to no avail.

Great grief is felt throughout the community over this untimely death; a young man of exemplary habits and a disposition which made fast and firm friends of all associates, cut down in the very spring of life—and what gave promise to be a fine man lost to the world of citizens.

Deceased was one of a family of eleven and was born on a farm near Austin, Minn. Feb. 27, 1897, being in his twentieth year at the time of his death.

Bismarck, June 8.—A new home for the Elks will be shortly erected in the Capitol city. A lot has been purchased on Main street for $3,000 and a building association incorporated.

A three story building designed especially and solely for lodge purposes is planned. Stock will be sold to members in the Elks' Home association.

Members of the Bismarck antlered herd are expecting to move in a body to Dickinson where the annual convention will be held this month.

HOW HUGHES STANDS ON ISSUES OF CAMPAIGN.

Justice Hughes' Creed.

I stand for the firm and unflinching maintenance of all rights of American citizens on land and sea.

I desire to see diplomacy restored to its best standards.

I stand for Americanism which knows no ulterior purpose, for a patriotism that is single and complete.

I believe in preparedness not only entirely adequate for our defense, but with all thoroughness to the end that in each branch of the service there may be the utmost efficiency under the most competent administrative heads.

There is no danger of militarism. We have no lust for territory, no zeal for strife.

In preventing unjust discrimination we must still be zealous to assure the foundations of honest business.

Washington, June 13.—Chas. E. Hughes, in accepting the republican nomination for the presidency and at the same time resigning from the supreme bench, told where he stands on the public question of the day. He sent the following telegram to Chairman W. S. Harding of the republican national convention at Chicago:

"Mr. Chairman and delegates: I have not desired the nomination. I have wished to remain on the bench. But in this critical period of our national history I recognize that it is your right to summon and that it is my paramount duty to respond. You speak at a time of national emergency, transcending merely partisan considerations. You voice the demand for a dominant, thoroughgoing American with firm protective upbuilding policies essential to our peace and security, and to that call, in this crisis, I cannot fail to answer with the pledge of all that is in me to the service of the country. Therefore, I accept the nomination.

Firm for Rights of Americans.

"I stand for the firm and unflinching maintenance of all the rights of American citizens on land and sea, I neither impugn motives nor underestimate difficulties.

"But it is most regrettably true that in our foreign relations we have suffered incalculably from the weak and vacillating course which has been taken with regard to Mexico—a course lamentably wrong with regard to both our rights and our duties. We interfered without consistency; and while seeking to dictate when we were not concerned, we utterly failed to appreciate and discharge our plain duty to our own citizens.

"At the outset of the administration, the high responsibilities of our diplomatic intercourse with foreign nations were subordinated to a conception of partisan requirements and we presented to the world a humiliating spectacle of inaptitude. Belated efforts have not availed to recover the influence and prestige so unfortunately sacrificed and brave words have been stripped of their force by indecision.

Expresses Belief in Preparedness.

"I desire to see our diplomacy restored to its best standards and to have these advanced; to have no sacrifices of the national interest to partisan expediences; to have the first ability of the country always at its command here and abroad in diplomatic intercourse; to maintain firmly our right under international law, insisting steadfastly upon all our rights as neutrals and fully performing our international obligations; and by the clear correctness of justice of our position to sustain them, to dignify our place among the nations.

"I stand for an Americanism that knows no ulterior purpose, for a patriotism that is single and complete. Whether native or naturalized, or whatever race or creed, we have but one country and we do not for an instant tolerate any division of allegiance. I believe in making prompt provision to secure absolutely our national security.

"I believe in preparedness not only entirely adequate for our defense with respect to numbers and equipment in both army and navy, but with all thoroughness to the end that in each branch of the service there may be the utmost efficiency under the most competent administrative heads. We are devoted to ideals of honorable peace.

U. S. Must Have Strength.

"We wish to promote all wise and practicable measures for the just settlement of international disputes. In view of our abiding ideals there is no danger of militarism in this country. We have no policy of aggression, no lust for territory, no zeal for strife. It is in this spirit that we demand adequate provision for national defense and we condemn the inexcusable neglect that has been shown in this matter of first national importance. We must have the strength which self-respect demands, the strength of an efficient nation ready for every emergency.

"Our preparation must be industrial and economic as well as military. Our severest tests will come after the war is over. We must make a fair and wide readjustment of the tariff in accordance with sound protective principles to insure our economic independence and to maintain American standards of living.

"We must conserve the just interests of labor, realizing that in democracy, patriotism and national strength must be rooted in evenhanded justice.

"In preventing, as we must, unjust discriminations and monopolistic practices, we must still be zealous to assure the foundations of honest business.

Particularly should we seek the expansion of foreign trade. We must not throttle American enterprise here or abroad, but rather promote it and stake pride in honorable achievements.

"We must take up the serious problems of transportation of interstate and foreign commerce in a sensible and candid manner and provide an enduring basis for prosperity by the intelligent use of the constitutional powers of congress so as to protect the public on the one hand and, on the other, to conserve the essential instrumentalities of progress.

"I stand for the principles of our civil service laws. In every department of government the highest efficiency must be insisted upon. For all laws and programs are vain without efficient and impartial administration.

"I cannot, within the limits of this statement, speak upon all the subjects that will require attention. I can only say that I fully endorse the platform you have adopted.

"I deeply appreciate the responsibility you impose. I should be glad to have had that responsibility placed upon another. But I shall undertake to meet it, grateful for the confidence you express. I sincerely trust that all former differences may be forgotten and that we may have united effort in a patriotic realization of our national need and opportunity.

"I have resigned my judicial office and am ready to devote myself unreservedly to the campaign."

"Charles E. Hughes."

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—which vary widely but may include pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatic pains, sight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine etc. But if you keep the filters right the danger is overcome. Doan's Kidney Pills have proven an effective kidney medicine.

Mrs. E. W. Fish, E. Third St., Dickinson, N. D. says: "I was so bad off with kidney trouble that I could hardly get up when I was seated. My back felt as though it were breaking in two and I was nearly helpless. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that cured Mrs. Fish. Foster Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Low Price Loses out Against Low Cost

PRICE may sell some things to farmers, but price alone is a poor argument compared with the records for low cost of operation made by Mogul kerosene engines.

Because they run on kerosene, Mogul engines produce farm power at the lowest possible cost.

You know what gasoline costs. You know, too, what kerosene costs. Take the difference—multiply it by the number of gallons of fuel an engine will consume in five years, figuring one pint of fuel per horse power per hour. At what price must you buy a gasoline engine to make it cost you as little as a Mogul does? Could you afford to accept a gasoline engine as a gift? See the dealer about this. He has the figures all worked out for you on all sizes of Mogul engines from 1 to 50 H. P.
