Two of the hogs aggregated 1400 pounds in weight, and were among the largest ever marketed here. Mr. Rundle is farmer, and though he has 250 acres in crop this year, believes in diversified farming. He has resided on his homestead near Yates for seven years. Mr. Rundle did not forget the editor while in the city, but set his name ahead on the Chronicle books for another year.

Two fires which occurred Saturday evening were promptly put out by the Beach department. The more serious of the two occurred at the Brown livery stable on east main street, the origin of which is unknown. Presumably, the blaze started in the hay. The department made a record run to the fire and in a few minutes had two streams of water on the flames, which by that time were blazing through the roof. That the flames were controlled at all speaks well of the efficiency of the department. The second fire occurred in J. B. Linger's barn, but was put out before much damage was done.

A spirited contest occurred Sunday afternoon at the Little Beaver grounds located eight miles northeast of Beach when the Little Beaver team, under the management of Walter Hahn, defeated the Yates aggregation to the tune of 26 to 9. The Little Beavers proved themselves battling fiends, Yates team hoisting the white flag of surrender in the eighth inning. The batteries were Lenertz and Lenertz for Yates and Gibson and Hock for Little Beaver. A large attendance was present, twenty-seven automobiles being on the grounds. Manager Hahn is doing excellent work with his team, and in his engagements with other Golden Valley and Wibaux county teams.

ELECTION SUMMARY

(Continued from First Page) and two in the western it looks very well for Seaman this fall. J. J. Madison is the democratic nominee. For county judge Tom J. Smith will be opposed by Frank Fitzgerald. For register of deeds, A. E. Swan will be opposed in the fall by N. P. Reed, the democratic nominee, but Swan's election is practically assured.

Tom is one of the prominent farmers of his district, in the affairs of which he has always taken an active part. While in town, he called at this and pegged his subscription ahead for another year, also that of his father, A. F. Oldis, of Castana, Iowa.

In our effort to carry a full and comprehensive statement of the election returns, county and state, which has involved much time and careful effort, we have been compelled to give what little news we have been able to care for in this issue in tabloid form. The election returns which appear in the Chronicle are in the case of the county correct. In the state, they show the trend at the time we go to press, and are telegraphed to us directly from Bismarck on the Associated Press wire. The Chronicle is the only paper published in the western end of the state which has been able to get quick action in the matter of getting accurate returns, and we trust that this fact will be an apology for whatever news we have been unable to handle in this issue.

Disastrous Storm Wednesday

A disastrous wind and rain storm from the northeast struck this locality at 4:30 Wednesday morning, and did much damage to buildings. It is not thought that appreciable damage was done to grain, though in a few instances it was badly lodged. In Beach, broken plate glass windows constituted the principal damages. The Power's and The Toggery being heavy losers from plate glass breakage. Overstad & Hoverson lost a number of windows, as did a number of residences throughout the town. The Chautauqua tent was torn to rags, necessitating the use of the opera house for the closing day. The big brick Case building, occupied by Greiner's garage, was badly wracked, the roof being just ready to let go when the wind died down. Brown Bros. of north of Beach lost a big granary, which was tipped over into the creek and broken up. Martin Malmgren lost a number of small buildings, the wind taking a freakish turn when it destroyed the hen coop and scattered an old hen and her brood. Later, Mrs. Malmin made an investigation of her garden to ascertain the damage, and discovering a kettle turned bottom-side up, kicked it out of the way, to be startled by the appearance of the hen from underneath. At Wibaux, likewise, much damage to glass fronts was done, a number of business houses being heavy losers. Campbell's Carnival Co. which is filling a week's engagement there had one man killed and a dozen people more or less injured. Canvass was stripped from nearly all the tents, and much lost. One hundred men were engaged nearly the whole day repairing the canvas and getting the grounds in shape. The Ferris wheel, which was blown over by the wind, landed directed over a mother and babe, the huge spokes missing them by a margin. The mother had an arm broken by a stay. Much excitement was occasioned when a lad reported that every one in one tent was killed. Investigation proved that the "victims" were wax figures of life size, which had been knocked from the pedestals.

A. E. Woodward and Miss Corrinne Nichols United in Marriage Wednesday at M. E. Church in this City.

An item of much social interest, which we were compelled to omit in our last issue because of our early publication, was the marriage of Mr. Allen E. Woodward and Miss Corrinne Phern Nichols, prominent young people of this city, whose nuptials occurred at the M. E. church Wednesday, June 21. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Schaffer, pastor of the Bonnie View charge. The couple were attended by Harry Woodward and Miss Woodward, brother and sister of the groom. The charming bride was beautifully gowned in white crepe meador, with an over drape of satin striped marquisette, with a bodice of silk lace, trimmed with pearls. She wore a veil of embroidered silk net, with a wreath of orange blossoms and carried roses. The groom wore the usual black. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mrs. Noble, and is held in the highest esteem by her many friends. The groom is a very successful business man of this city, being a member of the firm of Woodward Bros. in the wholesale and retail cigar business, and is an extensive land owner in the Golden Valley.

They left the same day for their honeymoon trip east, among their objective points being Minneapolis. Upon their return, they will reside in Mr. Woodward's residence on the south side, where they will be at home to their friends after July 15.

The Chronicle joins this estimable couple's many friends in extending congratulations and best wishes.

About a year ago, I learned the cause—you had a fire, and I presume lost your subscription list, which tells me why I never heard from you. I do not know how much I owe you, but I do know I want to get back on your subscription list. Trusting we may meet face to face some time, I am. Yours sincerely H. B. FITZ JERRELL
