Hoboes Must Pick Rocks From Roads

JUSTICE MOE SENTENCES THREE TO PERFORM GOOD, COMPULSORY WORK ON ROADS.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

The undesirable element that has invaded Valley City along with the hundreds of honest working men who came here to obtain work in the harvest fields, must give this city a wide berth hereafter. Justice of the Peace Moe this morning sentenced one to thirty days imprisonment for carrying a concealed weapon, and two drew four days each on a charge of vagrancy.

No soft snap goes with the sentence. Sheriff Stenshoel immediately started the prisoners at work picking boulders and big stones out of the roads. This punishment is considered even better than breaking rock. With a hammer, prisoners may catch hold of the end of the handle and not strain their backs, but picking up boulders is different. The back gets plenty of exercise as well as all other muscles of the body.

"No leniency will be extended from now on," said Justice Moe, in passing sentence. "The harvest is on, there is plenty of work for all who want work. There is no possible excuse for idleness. As this is the first case of the season I shall improve the opportunity by making the announcement that all offenders who come before me a second time shall receive not less than thirty days' sentence. And I want it thoroughly understood that this does not mean first offenders will be let off without sentence."

Sheriff Stenshoel and Chief of Police Swanson yesterday arrested Jack Ross on the high line of the Northern Pacific railroad, for hanging around and making no effort to go to work. When searched a loaded revolver was found in Ross's pocket.

The other two men gave the names of Ed. Warner and Harry Miller. They were sentenced to four days hard labor and Ross got thirty.

Sheriff Stenshoel and his deputies have joined hands with Chief of Police Swanson and his force, and the combination of officers is now beating the "jungles," routing out vagrants and breaking up their camps.

Watkins After Blind Piggers and Gamblers

Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 27.—(Special)—F. L. Watkins, superintendent of the North Dakota Enforcement League, has sent the following notice throughout the state:

To whom it may concern:—

"I have sent letters to every states attorney and sheriff in the state stating that many requests are coming to the office of the North Dakota Enforcement League asking that a vigorous campaign be waged against blind piggers and gamblers. Farmers want relief from the drunkenness, carousing and fights incident to harvest where liquor is plenty and business men want the money on long standing bills. If these joints are allowed to run it will demoralize many a crew and cause many cutting scrapes and the gamblers from the cities will carry out of the state many thousands of dollars that should go to pay old debts.

"A real service can be done the people of the state and business interests by the officials waging immediately a relentless warfare against these violators."

STANDARD OIL COMPANY NOW HAS COMPETITOR IN LOCAL MARKET

Independent Oil Company Invades Valley City and Opens Offices in Young Block With Frank Passmel In Charge.

The Standard Oil Company will have competition in Valley City, a condition in the oil market that has been out of existence so long that it dates back among the reminiscences of the oldest inhabitants. The local competitor of the Rockefeller corporation will be the Independent Oil Company. Mr. Frank Passmel, who has been appointed local agent, has already established offices in the Young block and announces that he is prepared to do business.

Mr. Passmel is of the opinion that there is a wide field in Valley City and this vicinity for the Independent Oil Company, and he has received flattering encouragement in the new venture.

Just what effect the competing firm will have on the local oil market cannot be determined until it is in operation for a while. Many are already of the opinion that a price war is not in the distant future, and that the residents of this community will soon profit by having competition in the disposal of this important product.

Since the dissolution of the Standard Oil Company, competing companies have sprung up and established local agencies in all parts of the country. In each instance they have been cordially greeted by the residents, who have grown accustomed to know none but the Rockefeller combination. There are some who are skeptical about material benefit being derived from the competition, contending that pooling arrangements may keep the prices up; but those of different opinion cite the fact that the Standard Oil Company only a few days ago reduced the price of oil in North Dakota, and they attribute the reduction to the entrance of the Independent Oil Company into this state.

When the Independent Oil Company becomes thoroughly established and being cutting into the field of the Standard Oil Company, sharp competition is looked forward to, and it is expected that the war will be marked by a gradual reduction in prices all along the line.

...Fall Rye a Valuable Crop...

Grand Forks, Aug. 27.—"Fall rye is one of the most valuable grains that can be grown in many counties of the state. The average returns per acre from rye have nearly equalled those from the staple crops," says Secretary Thomas Cooper of the North Dakota Farming Association in discussing crops in an interview at Grand Forks recently. Mr. Cooper says that "rye has many manifold advantages as a crop, not the least of which is that it aids in the control of many of our most pestiferous weeds such as wild oats, king head and mustard.

"It should be sown on well prepared land, although it frequently does very well when stubbled in.

Stubble land used for the rye crop should have been previously well plowed, mellow and reasonably free from weeds. Winter rye usually survives the winter without protection from stubble. Winter rye should be seeded the middle or latter part of August, at the rate of one and one-half bushels to the acre. It should be sown deeper than is usual with the spring rains, three inches or even deeper, if necessary to get to moisture, is advisable."

The first barley of this season was delivered this afternoon by Louis Humble to J. H. S. Thompson. Mr. Thompson says the grain is very good this year.

An IHC Corn Binder Makes Not One Saving But Many

It is worth while to own an IHC corn binder, just for the hard labor it saves. Swinging a heavy corn knife all day long, day after day, is work which can be done away with at an actual saving of money. With an a forty-acre corn field can be harvested by two men in seven days. Let that fact sink home. Compare the cost of corn binder harvesting with the cost of extra help necessary to get in your corn by the old back-breaking method. Besides that saving, if you start to harvest with an IHC corn binder when the ears begin to glaze, the good feeding value is retained in the stover. If then the whole crop be hauled to the barn as soon as cured and run through an IHC husker and shredder—Deering, McCormick, or Plano—you have secured every possible dollar's worth of value from your corn crop.

You have a supply of nutritious corn stover stored in the barn for winter feeding in place of hay. You can bale your hay and make it a cash crop.

An IHC corn binder is worth investigation and purchase. See the IHC local dealer for catalogues and full information, or write
