Fred Robinson, who has been working at Hastings became suddenly insane over religion and was brought to town. His brother James Robinson, of Benton, Ohio, was sent for and will leave here today with the patient for the old home, where it is hoped that he may recover.

The beautiful autumn weather continues and late fall work is being completed as well as is usually done. The heavy rains in the early fall were very discouraging, but as usual there is always a season for everything and at this time we are enjoying weather that could be utilized for threshing, plowing or even picnicking if one was so inclined.

Mesdames Wm. Olson, J. H. S. Thomson, and C. Moore were charming hostesses to thirty-five friends this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Olson on Park avenue. Jars and vases of yellow chrysanthemums and streamers of paper made the rooms bright and cheery, and the time was delightfully passed in chat and dainty needle work, concluding with a delicious luncheon served at small tables. The place cards were dainty conceals of chrysanthemums. The ladies will also entertain a company of friends tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Robt. Anderson, who has been the guest of relatives in St. Paul for the past ten days, has returned home.

Chas. Nottmiller and John McIntyre are out on the Missouri bottoms shooting ducks and such other game as may come their way.

The Ladies Guild of the Episcopal church are planning to send a box of old clothes to the Indians at the mission at Turtle Mountain and would be pleased to receive contributions from anyone having anything to donate. Telephone 121-L.

B. D. Hill of Jackson, Michigan, who left here ten years ago to take up his residence in that eastern city, is here looking after his crops on his farm. He will leave tonight for his home. He is accompanied by his nephew of the same place.

Miss Katherine McMullen entertained eight of her little friends at dinner last evening on the occasion of her eighth birthday anniversary. The table was centered with a festive birthday cake, lighted with pink tapers. Miss Katherine was the happy recipient of a number of pretty gifts from her little playmates.

Chas. Fairbanks of this city late last night received the welcome news that his son Ray has been elected as county auditor of Bowman county, by a majority of about fifty per cent over his opponent. The unusual feature of the election was that Mr. Fairbanks had been a resident of Bowman county for only two years, and made his race against a man who every one thought had a walk away. He is a former resident of Valley City, and was a member of Company G.

This is a year of landlides, but they are not all democratic. George M. Young for congress, republican, has won out by a majority of 10,000. Considering the fact that the vote was light in most of the counties it is a big majority. It is noticeable too that Mr. Young received the biggest vote of any republican candidate in the counties of the second congressional district. While Mr. Young will take the oath of office for congressman on the 4th of March for the first time he has practically carried this district three times. Four years ago, before the state had been divided into congressional districts, he received a majority in the counties which now compose this district. He won the nomination in another hard fight last June and has again at the election last Tuesday won out, his majority increasing with each contest. While Mr. Young has always made it plain that it is his ambition to represent every portion of the district rather than any particular locality his friends in Valley City and Barnes county are especially pleased that Barnes county's candidate for representative in congress has proven at the polls his tremendous popularity with the voters, and their confidence in his ability to faithfully and ably represent them.

FOR RENT—Six room house, 314 East Main street; call phone 339-L. (11-6-1d)

The St. Catherine Guild will meet at the home of Mrs. D. O'Malley, Wednesday, Nov. 13th.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Roberts returned yesterday from the east, and are located at the Rudolf hotel until the completion of the new North Dakota Improvement company's apartments.

Mrs. M. R. Nelson will entertain at her home on Fifth avenue at cards Friday afternoon for Mrs. Harry Burjkness, a visitor from Minneapolis.

Mrs. Chas. Peterson charmingly entertained a company of friends at Bridge last evening at her apartments on Main street. Guests were bidden for three tables and Mrs. Paul Featherstone was awarded a pretty trophy for high score. The pleasure was concluded with a delectable luncheon service.

There is perhaps more than the usual amount of interest in securing election returns today. The streets of Valley City are lined with men discussing the election returns. The Times-Record office has been besieged with seekers after election news and has done its best to give as complete news as possible, not only by issuing an extra edition of the paper this morning, but in response to requests by telephone and callers at the office. Great credit is due the election officers at Valley City for the very prompt news which they gave to the public covering president, governor and congressman, which was available at seven o'clock. Those who were trying to get returns over the telephone from Jamestown and Bismarck at a late hour and were told that the count had not been completed had reason to feel proud of the enterprise of the Valley City inspectors, judges, and election clerks.

The members of the Sheyenne club entertained their husbands at a perfectly appointed four-course dinner last evening at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank White. Halloween suggestions in orange and black were carried out in the decorations of the rooms and also in the appointments. The round table was centered with a large handsome bowl of fruit and the place cards were original designs with conundrums. Each guest was favored with fancy head gear made of vari-colored paper. Following the dinner, the evening was merrily spent in games and stunts appropriate for Halloween eve, and the new members were initiated into the club, Mrs. L. B. McMullen acting as master of ceremonies. Covers were laid for Messrs. and Mesdames T. S. Henrx, E. C. Hilborn, M. C. James, Morris Johnson, L. S. Palmer, Presler, J. E. Switzer, W. M. Wemett, S. A. Zimmerman, Perry Pickett, Messrs. L. G. McMullen, O. A. Barton and Frank White, and Mrs. W. Benson.

J. W. Foley was a visitor here Saturday on his way to Kenmare with the remains of G. W. Gray.
