Great Men Is Need Of Times

REV. FATHER MACCORMY ELOQUENTLY PICTURES THE NEED OF MEN WHO WOULD DIE FOR PRINCIPLES.

"Ruts and Anti Ruts" was the subject of Rev. Father MacCormy in an excellent address delivered to a good sized audience at the auditorium yesterday afternoon. Father MacCormy possesses all the art and skill of the orator in presenting his points and impressing the central idea of his message upon his hearers. Voice and personality also combine to make him a most interesting speaker.

Starting in a rut at sixteen we are likely to be there at sixty, said the speaker. Start in a rut at 18 and we are most likely to be there at eighty. Those who leave the beaten path and get out of the ruts of life find the journey often difficult and hard for persecution has been the lot of every reformer the world has known.

The speaker declared that to him the greatest bore in the world is the man who agrees with him on every particular. Every person, he said, has a place in the world, a duty to perform and to perform in his own particular way. That God seems to balance everything in the world is the indication found on every hand. Of two brothers one is likely to be active and athletic the other quiet and studious, of two sisters one may be vivacious, the other shy. So in everything. We are cogs in a great machine, fitting in to gether and the whole being in perfect balance.

The honored expresident notwithstanding, the speaker declared that neither armies nor navies are the nations best defense. The best and only impregnable defense is the door of the Christian home. The order of the world is progress and the speaker warned his hearers against thinking that because a man buttons his collar in the back he is walking backward.

The speaker declared that both religious and political freedom have been born on the American continent. He eulogized the men of the Revolution and declared the statement which is sometimes made that no man ever dies for a principle. The men who suffered and died at Valley Forge, suffered and died for the principle of religious and political freedom, until them almost unknown in the world.

The need of today, the speaker concluded, is for men like the men who assembled in the Continental Congress and who staked lives, liberty, wealth and honor for the principle in which they believed. The speaker pointed to Washington as the true type of great American and said that men of the type of Washington are needed in the public affairs of the present.

Misses Mabel Frederickrod, Anna Croonquist, Dora Forsberg and Mrs. DeNee Chase are among the students from Kensal who have enrolled at the present term of Summer school at the Normal.

Miss Christine Davis of the Bismarck hospital is back from a vacation at her home in Valley City.—Bismarck Daily Tribune.

John Ketchel of Mott was sentenced to the federal court for thirty days because he forged the name of his brother in making out some naturalization papers.

Miss Beatrice Sorem who has been teaching in the schools of Freeport, La., has returned for her vacation which she will spend at her home here.
