SANBORN CAMPERS RE-

PORT A GOOD TIME

Sanborn Enterprise: On Friday evening the Sanborn boys who had been for a four days stay at Valley City, broke camp and returned to their homes. The boys are all enthusiastic over the Chautauqua grounds as an ideal place to camp, and all have good things to say for the directors of the association who made it possible for them to locate so favorably. The boys wish to express their special indebtedness to Sec. F. H. Buckwalter, and to Dr. Pray for the very practical interest they showed in the camp. Valley City Chautauqua will have 16 good live boosters in Sanborn hereafter. Rev. Frank Atkinson, who cared for the crowd, says that the person who thinks it is a vacation to provide meals three times a day for 16 boys with healthy appetites, has a mighty big field of service awaiting him just as soon as he wants to go to work. However, Mr. Atkinson and the boys all report a very enjoyable time, and suggest bigger things for next season. We are also requested by the campers to express their appreciation of the services of Messrs. C. J. Miller, C. O. Langer and S. L. Thordisen in providing means of transportation.

YOUTHFUL CHECK ARTIST

Jamestown Alert: A young fellow from Velva dropped into Carrington the other day and called on some of the boys whom he had known last year at the University of North Dakota. One of these boys endorsed a check for him which was passed at the store of a local merchant. It was later found that the check was valueless at the Minot bank on which drawn. The college boy was traced to Kensal, where he had worked the same game. He was then traced to Wimbledon and from there to Valley City, where he had boarded the cars for Fargo. The Fargo police were unable to locate him in that city and no trace of the boy has been found. His parents at Velva were communicated with and told that if the check was made good the son would not be pursued and prosecuted. The father said that the boy had worked the same stunts many times in the past and that he was done making good checks. He told the officers that he would be pleased if the boy was caught and taught a lesson.
