THE LOCAL FORUM

Time was when the corner store was the village forum, and where, on the long winter evenings, the men of the community gathered around the sawdust cuspidors, with the open cracker barrel within reach, and discussed weighty problems.

The sawdust cuspidor has become passe, and the pure food authorities look with disfavor on the open cracker barrel.

It matters little by what name such gatherings are called. It matters little under whose auspices they are organized.

MONEY TO LOAN

Walt Mason: Oh, "Money to Loan" is a common sign; it everywhere greets these eyes of mine.

The word "obey" is to be retained in the marriage ceremony. As to its significance it might be said:

The bread line used to be a designation of poverty or hard luck. Now it represents a fortune or being fortunate to get a chance at this luxury.

An Idaho taxidermist is attracting considerable attention by his advertisement which reads: "Let me mount your head and tan your hide."

It would be an expensive game for Germany to maintain its submarines if the other nations abandoned navigation.

If prices continue to raise it is almost certain that Coin Harvey will have to come out of his hiding place.

North Dakota papers should use the word "launch" advisedly, always remembering that this is a dry state.

Shakespeare's fine phrase "The world's a stage" has been revised to read "The world's a smoking car."

THE LITTLE FOLKS

The little folks, usually referred to as "kids," have more influence in giving character to a town than they realize.

On the other hand, when the boys, and the girls too, for that matter, are reasonably agreeable among themselves and polite to their elders their influence is far-reaching and gives the town an atmosphere of refinement.

Joe Winkler and a party of four friends from St. Cloud, Minn., were arrivals in the city Wednesday and visited here until Friday evening at the homes of the Winkler brothers.

Harry Davidson has returned to the city from New York city, and is greeting friends in the city.

ways be polite and civil at home and on the street, in school and at entertainments, etc., and to be helpful at home; to save their money; not to play "hooky" and many other things that develop character on the one hand or weaken it on the other.

A polite, manly boy or a womanly little woman is a credit to any family—and to the community.

The time to begin to form character is when one is young and we trust that every young person that reads this advice will take it kindly and begin now to lay the foundation for a happy useful life.

IMPROVING FARM BUTTER

The adoption of more careful methods of handling milk and cream and improved practices in the making of farm butter will reduce rather than increase the trouble incident to home production of this food.

Cream alone should be churned. It may be skimmed as soon as it rises or may be separated by a mechanical separator. The latter plan is the more efficient, and though requiring a considerable initial outlay often will be profitable.

The barrel type has been found by dairy specialists to be one of the most satisfactory churns. The dasher or plunger type requires a somewhat greater expenditure of labor.

When the butter is free from all milk it should be taken from the churn with a paddle and placed on a worker. The hands should never touch the butter, both on account of sanitary reasons and because the body warmth may melt the fat.

The butter should be prepared for market in a rectangular mold, since, when in this shape, the product is more easily wrapped and handled and is more pleasing to customers.

After the butter-making operations are completed the churn should be rinsed carefully with warm water. It should then be scrubbed with hot water, cleansing powder, and a fiber brush, and finally should be scalded and set in a clean, sunny place to drain and dry.

THE BEGGAR

Always beside me as I go my way This beggar, Time, walks with his outstretched palms, Demanding, not beseeching, of me alms; Alms of the precious hours of my day.

So side by side we walk until my day is growing dusk, and Time's purse of the years

Holds aims of mine, bright-jeweled with my tears, Since I have given these treasured hours away.

Nor from his swoolen purse will he give me One hour, although with spendthrift song and gay I flung him alms, not ever said him nay.

A beggar and a miser both is he! —James W. Foley.

AN EPIC OF THE COST OF LIVING

John R. Croesus owned a clutter of mazuma (slang for dough), And he led the league in grabbing off the dollars long ago,

And he speared the shining shekels with an ambidextrous tin, And he hunted down the festive tinsintabulating tin;

But his pile is pale and puerile when compared with that of mine, He is just a pica piker and a tin horn and a shine.

I am richer now than Croesus ever dreamed that he could be— I've a genuine potato and it all belongs to me!

Alexander Henry Midas was the transmutative guy, With the alchemic mitts juggled ev'ry thing that met his eye

With goboons to gelt to gratify his smallest wish or whim, You might say, as in a whimsy, life was tough and go (ld) for him.

For indeed he had a multitude of cunning, curly kale, And he had it by the bushel and the barrel and the bale,

But I hold I have him faded, more plethoric is my roll— I am now the sole possessor of a genuine piece of coal!

Sing me not the wealth of Inca, El Dorado, or Cathay, Fair Colocoda, General Motors, U. S. Steel, or wheat of May.

MAKING BUTTER

Cream is made up of little fat globules floating in milk. In making butter the fat globules are brought together into a mass and the milk is removed as buttermilk.

When the barrel churn is used at low gas to escape every few minutes at first. When the butter begins to come keep a close watch and stop churning when the butter granules are the size of wheat kernels.

The United States department of agriculture in 1855 made an investigation as to the time required to produce a bushel of corn. They found that it required four hours and 34 minutes of human labor.

From 1909 to 1912 a similar investigation was made in Minnesota. T. P. Cooper, then with the Minnesota experiment station, now director of the North Dakota experiment station, in summing up the results finds that 45 minutes is the time required to produce a bushel of corn now, or only one-sixth as long as in 1855.

In other words, a day of human labor now is worth more than six times as much as in 1855, due to the use of more and better machinery, better varieties of corn and better soil management.
