ARE WE BACK OF THE BOYS

Latest reports from Washington are that there are over a million soldiers in France. Over a million American boys facing the Hun!

Are we going to back them up? Certainly we are to the absolute limit. How are we going to do it? We are going to build up reserves of munitions, ships, money, trained mechanics, airships and food.

It has been said that the return ticket of our boys in France will be secured largely through American savings of wheat, sugar, meats and fats. The boys in the trenches are depending upon the folks back home.

Mr. Hoover believes that it is essential that there be built up in this country a great reserve of food supplies. We have over a million men in France now, but this is only a beginning. When we get millions more over there, we must see to it that behind them there is a supply of food so ample and so accessible that there will never be a chance of its failure.

Saving money will not guarantee a food supply. Nature is fickle sometimes and 1919 and 1920 may be lean years. The year 1918 gives promise of being one of abundant harvests. Out of this abundance we must prepare to pile up those surpluses that will positively insure a food supply for our boys in France and for the allies with whom they are fighting, even should there be unfavorable crops in the years to come.

Our ordinary rate of export of beef is two million pounds monthly. The largest single month this year was eighty-seven million pounds of exports.

Our ordinary rate of export of pork is fifty million pounds monthly. This year we exported in one month—March—three hundred and eight million pounds. That is what the American people accomplished this year through their food administration. It was not a difficult thing for the American people to do. No one suffered any serious inconvenience, but each giving up a little, contributed such a tremendous total that we were enabled to save our boys across the ocean and the allied nations who were fighting side by side with us for the liberty of the world from disaster and probably from an overwhelming defeat.

The United States Food Administration is now asking us to save beef and eat more pork in its stead. A short time ago they asked us to save pork and eat beef. Why do they these changes in their request? Simply because they can not change or regulate the supplies of these various products as they are made ready to come into the markets. They must take conditions as they find them and they appealed to the intelligence of the American people to grasp the situation when it is explained to them and to conform promptly and cheerfully to each change or modification in the ruling.

The Food Administration asks that we save sugar; that we use little flour as possible until the new harvest, that we use perishable vegetables, fruits, etc., in place of the Commodities that will keep well and that do not waste any food products that can possibly be saved.

The Food Administration looks to the future with the utmost confidence knowing that America will not fail our boys "over there."

UNCLE SAM IS IN EARNEST AT LAST

The grim and deadly earnestness of the United States government in its war activities, and its determination to stamp out kaiserism never has been so clearly evidenced as in the great official war picture, "Pershing's Crusaders," which comes here for an early showing. Our boys in khaki are pictured in the very foremost trench; on the firing line, where nothing separates them from the boche bullets. You see Americans taking over front-line trenches, with a grin on their faces. You see Secretary Baker, with General Pershing, inspecting our preparations in France. You see the first German prisoners captured by our brave boys—two dozen disarmed, disheveled, half-starved boches, too dispirited even to scowl at the camera. The last half of the picture is devoted entirely to what our boys are accomplishing over there.

The E. M. Lavery family, accompanied by Mrs. Kirk Taber motored to Jamestown Sunday morning, and spent the day visiting relatives and friends, returning home the same evening.

Responding to a call from farmers for help in saving the wheat crop the Richmond, Ind., Commercial club has had pledge cards printed and a campaign has been put on to secure signatures. All professional, business and laboring men in the cities and towns of the county are asked to sign one of these cards which pledges them to assist farmers in shocking their wheat. Signers will prepare their regular work each day until four or five in the afternoon, when they will meet at a designated place and be sent by automobile to the farms to which they are assigned. Farmers will telephone to the Commercial club each day at noon, stating the number of men wanted and whether they can be sent for them. If they cannot send, automobiles owned in the city or town will be furnished for the purpose. Volunteers will be required to eat their evening meal before departure or take a supper lunch with them, thereby relieving the farmers' wives and help from cooking extra meals. Pay will be given at the prevailing rate. By means of this plan farmers can keep their binders running during the day, letting the sheaves lie on the ground to be gathered up by volunteers in the evening. This, they say, will release their regular farm hands for other work and enable them to harvest the fall wheat crop. This plan is being considered by the Valley City Commercial club so figure out what time you can devote in this way.

SPIRITWOOD LAKE CHAUTAUQUA

The big feature of each of the two unique programs to be staged at Spiritwood Lake Chautauqua next Sunday, July 21, will be the address of Hon. Upton, who has just returned from six months in France. Alex Karr, who has heard Hon. Upton, declares him to be quite as interesting as Lieutenant Hill, who on July 7th made such a tremendous impression on his hearers. The Ruby Orchestra will give two splendid musical programs. An accomplished professional lady reader will also appear. In addition, Joe Dillstrom the cartoonist, will give two of his delightful chalk talks. Every one of these four attractions has outstanding merit in an unusual degree. Combined they will without doubt furnish the most pleasing programs ever given at Spiritwood Lake Chautauqua. Afternoon program begins at 2:30 p. m. Evening program begins at 8 p. m. Both programs for the price of one regular admission.

RED CROSS NOTICE

Monday, July 15 the work rooms opened for all Red Cross work. After all the inspiring patriotic talks listened to, can we refuse to do our bit? Doesn't it make you want to work harder than ever? We must forget our differences and be broad enough to help win this war, no matter what happens. We have a quota of over a thousand garments to be finished by Sept. 1, besides making up what raw material we have on hand and this is where the women of Valley City must go over the top and you know we can do it. We will need every one who can possibly help to get this quota out. Invite your neighbors and friends to come with you; it is a splendid place for newcomers to get acquainted. The allotment for Valley City is as follows: Pajamas 75; capes 150; girl's petticoats 150; pinafores 150; taped hospital bed shirts 100; boys' shirts 150; boys' suits 300; chemise 150. Some of the plainer sewing may be taken home after finding out how it is to be finished. More help is also needed in the surgical dressings in order to get our quota out. A class of young ladies and girls over 16 has been formed for Wednesday afternoon and if enough express a desire to work one will be formed for Friday afternoon. This is a great chance for our girls to do their bit in this great work. The rooms are very comfortable now as an electric fan has been installed in each room and a fountain is to be placed in the hall, thanks to our liberal city council. Mrs. Wylie Nelson returned home Sunday from Fargo. She went down the day previous to visit friends.

because it fortifies the lungs and throat, creates strength to avoid gripe and pneumonia and makes rich blood to avert rheumatic tendencies. The more the merrier. Times-Record want ads bring results.
