Mr. Hoff is a member of the St. Paul Rotary Club and while here was a guest of the local organization at their weekly luncheon.

G Company has resumed its outside drill since the weather became warmer. The company was out last night and presents a very fine appearance. Capt. McDonald is whipping his company into shape fast and has the largest company in the state national guard, 101 being enrolled. In another year we will not only have the largest company but the best drilled and appearing company. The boys will go to camp the coming summer but the place of encampment is not known at this time.

The Masons are to have their annual ball next Monday at the temple, for which arrangements are now being made and completed. This will be the first social function of the Masonic bodies to be held in the remodeled building and the opening next Monday night will undoubtedly be a pleasing event to all those who attend.

Frank Green, who was driven out of his location under the Liberty Cafe by the fire this morning, will open up in the old postoffice building at once and will be pleased to greet his old customers in the new location. Frank runs one of the most up-to-date barber shops in the city and the new location will be as convenient as the old for old and new customers.

Miss Helen R. Crissman, the general field secretary for the World Wide Guild will be at the Baptist church Thursday evening. All young ladies should make a special effort to hear her. She is a graduate of Kalamazoo College and is a very fine speaker. This will be an unusual opportunity for the girls and young women of Valley City. All are invited.

The Elks held a regular meeting at the home last evening. There was a good crowd in attendance. Installation of officers for the ensuing year was the business of the evening. Following the installation Darby O'Malley was endorsed by the lodge as district deputy.

The Odd Fellows of Rogers held a meeting last night and a large delegation from this city went up in taxis to take in the work. The first and second degree of the order were exemplified and the locals who attended report a very good meeting.

Ed. Quist is in the city today, coming down from his home in the Dazey district this morning. Ed. is one of the many candidates for sheriff of this county and is kept busy greeting his many friends in the county and advancing his claims to the office.

Street Commissioner Hanson is busy these days with the city street grading equipment getting the streets in shape as fast as possible. Some of the streets are in very bad shape this spring, due to the heavy snows and wet weather, but a few days work by Pete will put them in pretty fair condition.

The Home Economics Club met on Monday evening with Mrs. Frank Heimes and Mrs. Geo. Karshner as hostesses. Interesting articles and poems were read on "The Home". Officers elected for the year were: President, Mrs. Frank Heimes, Vice President, Mrs. H. E. Nelson, Secretary, Treasurer, Mrs. W. E. Root. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

The Board of Directors of the Commercial Club have noted the fact that on Friday of this week a number of Good Friday services will be held in the city, one of them being a union meeting at the Grand theatre in which seven ministers of the city will participate. In view of the general interest displayed the Commercial Club Directors request that so far as possible all business houses of the city close their doors between the hours of 12 m. and 3 p. m. on Friday, April 14, in order that all may be free to observe fittingly this sacred memorial. This is done in order to unite all the community in a spirit of co-operation and harmony.

Fred Carr is evidently preparing to tickle the bosom of Mother Nature as he purchased two Van Brunt drills from the Barnes County Implement Co., this morning and is preparing to ship them to his farm north of Eckelson. He tells about getting ready to get into the fields for the spring's work but we opine that Fred will have business near the buildings while someone else takes charge of the operation of the implements.

It has been reported to the Times-Record office that some young men or large boys were busy last Sunday shooting meadow larks with rifles. It seems to us that meadow larks are the birds we want to come here and make their home and we hope these boys or young men will refrain from shooting them from this on. The song of the meadow lark is so cheery and comforting that we want to hear as many of them as we can. Please boys, leave the larks alone.

The republican caucuses will be held tonight from 7:30 to 8:30 in each of the regular polling places for each precinct. The report yesterday that one caucus would be held for the city at the City Hall is incorrect. Go to the regular polling place for your precinct tonight and elect your delegates to the County Convention. Only voters of the north half of the third ward will meet at the City Hall. The county convention will be held at the City Hall on Saturday, April 15th.

Many of the residents are instructing their garbage haulers to haul the refuse to the ball park but there are many who are not. This is a convenient place to dump and is not a long haul so there should be no reason why all ordinary refuse could not be dumped there. A great deal more refuse is needed to fill the left field hole and the time for filling it is short so it is requested that everyone do their part in giving material out there to make a base for the dirt dressing.

There was a good crowd at the Grand last night but it wasn't any better than the picture should receive "Outside the Law" was the feature film last night and is one of the best of the real good pictures of that style that has been filmed for some time. It is a "crook" drama and the story is an interesting one and well pictured. It is well worth seeing. In addition to the feature picture the program includes a comedy, Pathe News and Topics of the Day.

The members of the American Legion Auxiliary met in the Legion hall last evening. There was a fair attendance and the evening was spent in the discussion of matters pertaining to the club. Last year the Auxiliary ladies planted a tree for each service man who had died. As there are others who have passed away since that time the ladies will again plant trees in commemoration of them. Rev. J. J. Dalton was a guest of the club last evening and gave an interesting talk on the work of the Red Cross and explained the assistance which that organization is giving to help unfortunate ex-service men who are passing through the city, giving them food and whatever other assistance they deemed necessary. He asked the club if they had any funds with which to help in this work. Arrangements will be made to give some help with the work. The ladies will again sell poppies for Decoration Day and these poppies have already arrived. Last year the poppies sold by this organization were made by the war orphans in France but they have been made this year by the disabled war veterans in Minnesota hospitals. It was decided by the members of the club to hold a private dancing party in the Legion hall on April 24th.

ABOUT RED CROSS NURSING SERVICE

Although the ideal embodied in visiting nursing existed before the Christian Era, modern secular nursing did not come into existence until the middle of the Nineteenth Century, when Florence Nightingale was successful in arousing public opinion to the fact that nursing was an art, and should be raised to the status of a trained profession. It was not until 1877, however, that American organization first sent trained nurses into the homes of the poor, and the honor of the first effort in this direction belongs to the Woman's branch of the New York City Mission. Similar work was done in Chicago in 1883 with one nurse sent out by the New York Ethical Society, but Public Health work grew slowly and disconnectedly until 1905, when a rapid development began with the organization of new phases of the work. In 1902, there were 136 visiting nurses in the country, but by 1916, the number had exceeded 5,000. The work included pre-natal care, infant and child welfare, school nursing, bed side care and industrial and welfare work. The services were maintained by private organization, federal or local governmental agencies and endowments. The first effort to establish public health nursing on a national basis began with the creation of the Red Cross town and country nursing service in 1912, when nurses with specialized training for the work were sent into the field and there provided with supervision and training by the Red Cross. Kent County, Michigan, was the first county of the Middle West to establish such a service. From this beginning the work has spread until today there are more than 1300 rural public health nurses working under the direction of the Red Cross in chapters throughout the country. Probably no other country or historical era can produce an accomplishment in the domain of public health betterment of such magnitude or social significance.

Rural public health nursing began in North Dakota with the establishment of a nursing service in Grand Forks County in Nov. 1914. This county has the distinction of being the second county in this country to establish such a service with county funds. The service consists of the inspection of the school child, home visitation, advice to mothers, talks on hygiene and sanitation and the stimulation of interest in hot lunches for the rural school child.

In Sept., 1917, a full time school nurse was employed in Bowman county and has since been maintained by county funds. As early as 1913, however, Bowman county had established the physical inspection of school children by the teachers, and although such inspection could only detect the grosser defects, it undoubtedly did much towards arousing interest for the early establishment of a nursing service.

LaMoore County established a public health nursing service under the County Commissioners in Feb., 1915. Physical inspection of the pupils in the schools disclosed the fact that a large number of children were suffering from defective eyes. This condition was diagnosed as trachoma by the county health officer and as a result of this, an intensive survey was made in LaMoore County by the U. S. Public Health Service and a Federal hospital established.

In Sept., 1919, when the first Red Cross Public Health Nursing Service was established in North Dakota, there were six nurses in the state engaged in school nursing. The Anti-Tuberculosis Society of North Dakota had been functioning since 1909 and had in their employ two nurses who made health surveys in communities over the state, placing special emphasis on the prevention of tuberculosis, and as a result of such efforts, considerable public sentiment had been aroused to the need for organized public health nursing. The State Board of Health is the logical place for the centralization of all health activities and the nursing service of the Red Cross has from its beginning endeavored to maintain a close relationship with this agency.

Benson County Red Cross Public Health Service began Dec. 1, 1919, and has been carried on very successfully ever since. All the school children of the county have been inspected and about 30 percent of the defects found have been corrected. The work has also included infant welfare clinics, at which children of pre-school age have been examined and the mothers instructed regarding their care. Realizing that every child has the right to be well born and that the public health nurse is the logical person to advise the mothers regarding this important question, Benson county nurse has instructed many of the mothers of the county in the simple means of preservation of infant life and demonstrations have been conducted in different parts of the county in the CARE of the BABY and HOME HYGIENE.

Barnes County Red Cross Nursing Service was established March, 1921, and has consisted or work with the school child, infant welfare clinics, bed-side nursing in emergency, and pre-natal work. As a result of the large number of children found to be underweight in examination of one school, milk has been supplied for a morning and afternoon lunch for all the underweight children in the school. On the success of this experiment depends further development along this line in Barnes county. A splendid plan of co-operation has been worked out between the dentists of Valley City and the Red Cross N. D. The dentists have agreed to give oral hygiene talks to groups over the county when invited and have set aside a half day per week for the rural children. 163 mothers in Barnes county have completed a course of 15 lessons in Home Hygiene. This is a definite step in Health Education

Work. On Jan. 1, 1922, 27 Public Health Nurses were serving North Dakota. Seven of these services are financed entirely by county funds, seven are financed jointly by the Red Cross and County, and 13 are maintained entirely by the Red Cross. Nineteen Red Cross Nurses report 11,385 children examined in North Dakota during the months of Jan. and Feb., 1922. 22.3 percent of these children were more than 7 percent underweight. 30 percent had dental defects. 20.2 percent were suffering from some abnormal throat condition. 14 percent had defective vision. 6.6 percent had nasal obstructions which were seriously affecting their health and hindering their school work. 2,194 of these children examined reported corrections made since the nurse's previous visit. 683 homes were visited by the nurses during this two months' period and emergency bedside care given in 67 cases. During the summer months most of the nurse's time is devoted to organizing surgical, dental, and infant welfare clinics over the county. In one county 139 cases of tonsils and adenoids were operated on at the Red Cross clinic. In another county 200 infants and children of pre-school age were examined by local doctors, and treatment recommended where necessary. In co-operation with the Extension Dept. of the Agricultural College, Nutrition groups have been organized and conducted in four counties where Red Cross Nurses are functioning.

EXHIBITS AT S. T. C.

The Teachers College is having a very successful exhibit and sale of Japanese prints and stencils. There are a number of old prints of the masters of the Ukiyo-ye School, which marked the period when the art of the wood block was at its highest development in Japan. These are fine and rare and cannot be duplicated. There are an unusual number of most interesting reprints of the old prints which are very fine, but not so rare. And also there a great number of hand cut stencils which have never been shown here before. These are on free exhibit for all who care to see, in the museum on the first floor. Miss Deem is in charge at 4:30 each day and gives talks on Japanese Art in general, and on the fine things in the exhibit, to those who are there at that time.

Everything on exhibit is for sale, and the proceeds of the sale go to defraying the expenses of the other exhibits, which have been given free to the public, during the year. If you are in sympathy with this move of the College to bring this art education to our community, you may help the cause by buying a picture or two. You can find them priced as low as five cents, and as high as four dollars, and they are all good.

IRISH LEADERS TO CONFER

Dublin, Ireland, April 11—Michael Collins and Eamon DeValera, leaders of the Free State and Republican forces in Ireland, have accepted the invitation of the Lord Mayor of Dublin for a conference to consider a truce.

GREATEST OF ALL

PHOTOPLAYS COMING
D. W. Griffith's wonder spectacle, "Way Down East," which comes to the Grand Theatre for four days commencing Monday, April 24, is assured a wonderful reception from the hearty response that Manager Piller has evidenced from his patrons. No theatrical attraction of the year has created the stir that has followed since the opening presentation of this production at the 44th Street Theatre in New York City early in September, 1920. It crowded that theatre twice daily from the start and was given such unstinted praise that it has been acclaimed the greatest picture of all times.

"Way Down East" as you know was a play by Lottie Blair Parker which Joseph R. Grismer helped adapt to the stage and enjoyed unusual popularity for over a decade upon the regular stage. D. W. Griffith has taken this basic story and by his new art form which represents a combination of music, drama and motion pictures, has produced a classic. It pictures New England rural life with a fidelity and charm which cannot be approached under any other circumstances. To this absorbing tale of love and lovers Mr. Griffith has given it those touches which make his work something apart from all other forms of dramatic and pictorial entertainment. Its great punch comes after the former story would ordinarily terminate and is the greatest scene ever conceived in the theatre.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the nomination as Register of Deeds of Barnes county in the June Primary Election, and will appreciate your support at the polls.
