The Times-Record notes, in the list of appointments made at the Methodist conference at Mandan by the bishop last Sunday that Rev. J. S. Wilds, the popular pastor of the Epworth M. E. church of this city, has been sent back to this charge for another year. We know that this pleasing news will gladden the hearts of a whole lot of people of Valley City who have learned to highly esteem the pastor and family during their five year's sojourn among us, and there is no one more pleased than is the editor of this paper, who always looks forward day by day to those friendly visits he makes to this office.

There was a large crowd out to see "Ole i Skratthult" and his company of Swedish actors at the Grand last night but many of them went away disappointed. The funeral of the late O. A. Laughlin was held yesterday afternoon at the Masonic temple at 2:30, and a beautiful but impressive service was given. Many friends and neighbors were present to pay their last respects to the one who had been a good citizen among them for so many years. The Masons conducted the services assisted by Rev. C. W. Baxter, rector of All Saints Episcopal Church, who preached a splendid sermon, pointing out that while the deceased had reached the night time of his life on earth he would rise in the glorious springtime of eternal life. The rector eulogized the deceased for the good work he has done in various ways while with us and said that his place could not be filled in this community. The Kiwanis quartet, consisting of Messrs. J. A. Krick, F. H. Bradshaw, Will Moore and C. A. Lee furnished beautiful music for the occasion. The Municipal Band, of which the deceased had been a member for so long, acted as an escort to the cemetery, while delegations from the various orders to which he belonged accompanied the remains to Woodbine cemetery. The floral offerings were beautiful. The passing away of Dr. Laughlin has removed a man who did much good work for the city along many lines and he will be missed from the activities of our city life.

"SILAS MARNER" LIVED LIKE ORPHAN ANT

Jem Rodney was a poacher and otherwise disreputable, but when he sat in the tavern and said, over his tankard of ale, "Silas Marner's mused, livin' there like a orphan aunt," he well nigh spoke the truth.

But no one in Raveloe knew the story back of Marner's solitary life. They did not know where he came from. They knew not of his past hopes, faith and trust and how all had been blasted by the deceit of his best friend.

The Grand Theatre will present on next Wednesday and Thursday "Silas Marner," an exact motion picture translation of George Eliot's greatest novel and one of the leading classics of English literature. Frank P. Donovan adapted "Silas Marner" for the screen, and also directed it, choosing for prominent characters, such well-known artists as Craufurd Kent, Marguerite Courtot, Bradley Barker, John Randall, George Fawcett, Anders Randolph, Jean Girardin, Marie Edith Wells and many others.

VALENTINO AN ACE IN "BLOOD AND SAND"

Rodolph Valentino in "Blood and Sand" his first Paramount picture starring vehicle which will be the feature at the Grand theatre next Monday and Tuesday, portrays a Spanish "ace," a bull-fighter who has risen to the same popularity in his profession as that enjoyed by "Babe" Ruth, Eddie Rickenbacker, Jimmie Murphy and Charles Paddock in theirs.

As "Juan Gallardo," an idol of Spain, Mr. Valentino is called endearingly by the bull-ring crowds, "Espada," or "spade," that being the type of ace considered particularly lucky to Andalusians.

The development of Juan Gallardo from a ragged urchin to a favorite of his country and his loves for two women are the basis of an intensely interesting story written by Vicente Blasco Ibanez and adapted by June Mathis who wrote the scenario for "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." "Blood and Sand" is a Fred Niblo production. Lila Lee and Nita Naldi have the leading feminine roles.

The president promise coupled with a statement that the Harding administration has already done much for the farmer and helped to restore better markets was read at a farmers' gathering at the Washington Court house this afternoon by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. Harding said, "That he was convinced that the farmer was not being adequately compensated and the administration had done everything in its power to restore normal prices as compared with the cost of production. A great deal has been accomplished toward the better condition and prices. The president predicted that the American farmer would not stand of a program of decreased production such as some of the agriculture leaders desire."

CLIFFORD HAYES IS EXONERATED

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 13—A break in the alleged romance of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, wife of the sexton had occurred three months ago. When this was brought to light the woman, who it is believed filled the gap, was very friendly to the pastor while Mrs. Mills was recovering from an operation and is sought as a possible suspect for the murder of the couple. The woman toward whom the investigators have turned may become enraged as the result of the resumption of the alleged love affair between the pastor and the choir singer. The authorities have opened an entire new field of investigation. A statement by Mr. James Mills, husband of the murdered woman said that his wife had spent the greater part of the summer convalescing from an operation. This might lead to further investigation. The investigators have turned their back on the feeble minded trio. Raymond Schieler, Pearl Balmer and her father Nick Bahmer, who is still in jail. Clifford Hayes, victim of Schieler's fight is completely free and exonerated. While prosecutor Beeckman said he feels that someone killed the couple by mistake but he is willing to go back with the rest toward the vengeance theory.
