Alice Lake, the screen star whose latest picture, "Hate," a Maxwell Karger production for Metro, will be shown tonight at the Rex theatre, recently told how she keeps fit during her exacting work for the screen. "If you're in really good health," she said "there are no rules for keeping well, as far as I can see. You give no more thought to general health than you do to breathing. It is only when your breathing becomes difficult that you think of taking any measures to improve it. You don't talk about it as a rule. "But with all of this talk of keeping fit, it shows something must be the matter with most of us. And that probably true. We seen to have civilized ourselves into a low condition physically. But there's still enough intelligence left in civilization to show us that we must turn back to the lives of the savages for many things if we are going to be well. And I'm afraid I turn back by instinct rather than design."

SOVIET GOVERNMENT WILL NOT PROTECT

Moscow, Russia, Oct. 21—The Soviet government has withdrawn its guarantee for the protection of foreigners in Vladivostok because of the Japanese demands that the Mikado troops be permitted to completely evacuate the city before the Russians march in. Foreign Minister Tchitcherine told the United Press today. The plan is that both the Russian and Japanese troops are to be out of the city for some time and the Soviet government will not be responsible for what happens during that time. It is reported that British and American marines have been landed at Vladivostok to protect the foreigners. The situation in Vladivostok is this (the Japanese have agreed to evacuate the city and will allow the troops of the Russian Far Eastern army to occupy the city. The Japanese have demanded that the Russian troops withdraw a considerable distance from Vladivostok and only enter the city after the Japanese have marched out which will be sometime after October 25. The Soviet Government Foreign Ministers protest that a dangerous period will ensue. They will not be responsible for anything that might happen during that time as the Japanese have already destroyed the supplies and fortifications and burned the depots and explosives, said Tchitcherine.

INDIVIDUAL LOAN LIMIT IS RAISED

Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 18—The farm loan limit and to any one farmer was raised from $8000 to $10,044, according to the report published by the Industrial commission this week. A. T. Lindman, acting as director of the department in making the announcement of the increase made the following statement. The industrial commission finds that the farmers' loan limit should be raised from $8000 to $10,000, consistent with these changes which has been demanded for some time. The rural credits of South Dakota is ruled by the similar ruling and this places our rural credits on the same footing. We have many deserving farmers in our state. Many of the farmers in the state have never been able to receive any benefits from the loan department as the loan of $8,000 would not pay off the loan already on the farm and this increase will enable them to receive benefits of the department. Applications have been received to the extent of $761,550 by the farm loan department of the Bank of North Dakota for the first 15 days of October. Appraisal force have been gradually increased until it is carrying on the work much faster than it can be appraised. New appraisals have been received to the extent of $914,550. Loans have been received and accepted and paper sent for signature that amount to $499,550 for the first 15 days of October. The department has received the following applications for the first 15 days of October: Total application received $17,165,020, total appraised $9,148,540. Total applications approved and loans, $5,704,900. Total complete and paper recorded and those accepted with paper sent out for signature total $4,587,134.
