

From Tuesday's Daily

Mrs. Adam Snyder, of East Main street, who has been confined to the Clinic for the past week was taken to her home yesterday. Mrs. Snyder has improved considerably which is very good news to her friends in the city.

Paul Baarstad's electric shop is being moved in to the rear of the Mid-dlewest Trust Company's building. Paul is very busy the past two or three days getting his shop fixtures moved.

Politics are beginning to get into form in the city. The women have taken charge of that part of the work and are leaving no stone unturned to get the women interested and out to vote. The men folks are likewise getting a move on themselves and are perfecting their organization, so that the city will be well looked after along these lines.

The many friends of Frank Flora will be pleased to note that he is getting along very nicely and expects to return home in the near future. He has been at a sanitarium at Hinsdale, Ill., for the past four weeks. This good news will certainly be pleasing to Mr. Flora's many friends at home.

Mrs. C. J. Lybeck returned yesterday morning on No. 1 from Rochester, Minn., where she underwent an operation five weeks ago. She was accompanied by her daughter Anna, who has spent the past three weeks at that place.

J. W. Aldrich, proprietor of the Kindred Hotel, who has been laid up with pneumonia for some time, is again able to be down stairs and attend to business. Jack is too energetic a man to take this being laid up and is glad to be on his feet again. He is still weak but coming stronger every day.

Bees, costing originally $5 have produced honey valued at approximately $125 since the last of July, according to R. L. Webster, entomologist at the North Dakota Agricultural College. Here is one place where if you go into the bee industry you won't get stung.

F. O. Hellstrom, with the accent on the first syllable, and who is one of the only five decent democrats in the state—he admits it himself—was a Valley City visitor last night. Mr. Hellstrom is now busy trying to tear down the party he claims to be identified with by going out campaigning against O'Connor—which said work is making votes for the fusion candidate for senator every time F. O. opens his mouth on a platform.

The editor is in receipt of a letter from Assistant Editor Lynn Cowell who is at Rochester getting treatment. Mr. Cowell says that he is to have another operation on his leg the middle of this week so that it is possible he will not be able to return home for some time. Here's hoping that this will put an end to his troubles along these lines.

Stern Bros. are getting out a very handsome new box of home made candies. The boxes are attractive, nicely fixed up and on the outside are the words "Tempt Her." Which means that most anybody's girl or wife will be easily tempted to accept a box of these choice confections. Hallowe'en kisses are another confection these enterprising candy manufacturers are putting out.

C. A. Lee and "Dusty" Rhoades of the State Teachers College went up to Arrowwood Lake hunting after ducks recently, and about all the fun they got of it was five ducks, a good soaking and the privilege of sleeping all night in the automobile or a straw pile. Mr. Lee says he is satisfied with one experience of that kind and "Dusty" refuses to be interviewed.

It has been the custom for many years for the Valley City Fire Department to give an Annual Thanksgiving Ball, and this year, as usual, the ball will be given on Thanksgiving eve, which will be Wednesday, Nov. 29th. The ball will be held in the G. C. armory. Further announcements will be made later, as arrangements are completed by the Committee in charge.

Edward McCosh, twelve year old son of Mrs. McCosh, Riverside avenue, had his leg broken while playing football Sunday afternoon. The boy tried to imitate some of the big chaps in tackling, undertook to make a tackle of another boy, then a mixup ensued and Edward was the victim of a broken leg. Dr. S. A. Zimmerman was called and fixed up the break and now Edward will have to refrain from playing football for some weeks to come. Thus in one short minute the joy was taken out of life for him.

Alton Packard, cartoonist and humorist, will appear at the North Dakota Agricultural college armory on November 7 at 8 p. m. as the first number of the annual lyceum course. The course for this school year offers five entertainments of high order, according to A. G. Arvold, chairman. On November 28 Isaac F. Marsson, noted journalist, will appear. The Welsh Singers will be the third number on the program, January 17. Lorado Taft sculptor, will be at the armory on February 15, and the Harp Ensemble company will appear on March 8.

From Wednesday's Daily

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. L. Vestperman, prominent citizen of Bismarck, N. D., were Valley City visitors last night.

Mrs. A. A. Boe, of Fingal, N. D., is a Valley City visitor today, and is looking after business matters in the city.

Lester Pratt, of Fargo, salesman for the Barnhard Banking Supply Co., of St. Louis, Mo., is in the city today attending to the needs of his customers.

C. H. Carpenter, president of the Carpenter Lumber Company, is here today looking over the business in this city. He arrived from Minneapolis last night.

C. R. Weber, of Jamestown, N. D., one of the always on the job traveling men, was here this morning, and went out on a trip to Enderlin, and other points. C. R. is very optimistic about the success of the independent ticket next Tuesday.

Last night being Hallowe'en night the boys were out enjoying themselves to the best of their ability. They were up to their usual pranks that are played on this evening. Chief of Police E. H. Swanson reports a very quiet night.

Engineer Henry Fisk leaves tonight for Abbotsford, Province of Quebec, where he goes to attend a family reunion. His father is to celebrate his 88th birthday and Henry wants to be on hand to give him the glad hand and help celebrate this important event.

Mrs. A. H. Axtell and daughter Nancy returned Sunday from a two months visit in the east. While away they visited friends and relatives at Manassas, Wisconsin, and Kankakee, Ill. They report a very splendid trip but were glad to get back to little old Valley City.

Paul G. Baarstad has moved his electrical shop to the rear of the Middle-west Trust Company's Building where he will be glad to receive the continued patronage of his customers. Paul is making his new home a very nifty little place.

M. A. Norris, of San Francisco, Cal., is a recent arrival here and is joining the forces of the Fidelity Building & Loan Association of this city. He will have charge of the Minot territory for this company and left today to get on to the job. Accompanied by C. A. Baker, of this city, who will get him introduced and located.

Harry Flint accompanied Rev. Ward Boyd of Jamestown, to this city Tuesday, both gentlemen being guests of the Rotary Club at the regular dinner. Mr. Boyd is the Presbyterian pastor of Jamestown while Mr. Flint is one of the solid business men of that city.

The editor is in receipt of an invitation to attend an informal reception in honor of the teachers of the public schools at the Masonic Temple, Cooperstown, N. D., on November second, at eight o'clock. We should very much like to be present but at this particular time guess we will have to pass it up.

The Times-Record is sorry to hear that Fred Colby, the hustling manager of the State Teachers College farm, has been confined to his home for the past week with a serious attack of quinsy. He spent a very bad night last night, we are told. His many friends are sorry to hear of his sickness and sincerely hope that he will soon be well and out again.

G. E. McKay, of Billings, Montana, has been here for a few days consulting with the officials of the Fidelity Building & Loan Association of this city. Mr. McKay has been identified with the Security Building & Loan Association, of Billings, Montana, and has now joined the local organization and will have charge of the company's business at Grand Forks. Mr. Baker will also go to Grand Forks and see that he gets started right.

Prof. J. B. Meyer is not coming along quite as fast as he might, but he is improving slowly and we hope will soon be well. He is still hobbling around on crutches. Prof. is missed from his usual haunts and of course in his classes, but patience will help out some—but it is hard for a live-wire like Jules to be patient. He got a nasty deal in that accident and it has been more serious than at first thought.

Miss Clara L. Larson, who for the past four years has been County Club Agent for Barnes County, has resigned. Miss Larson is checking up the final reports of the year's work and Achievements pins will be awarded to all club members who mail their reports in the near future. The annual report for the county will be compiled during the month of November. Future requests concerning club work may be referred to Mr. T. X. Calnan, County Extension Agent.

NOTICE

Having received the endorsement of a large number of the voters of Barnes county, at the June primaries, to the office of Register of Deeds, I respectfully solicit your further support and vote at the general election, Nov. 7, 1922.

Hallowe'en has come and gone and we want to say from what observations we have made that it was a sane hallowe'en. The youngsters got out with their lanterns and had a good time, some of the older ones played a few harmless pranks and took loose articles and carried them away, while many others contented themselves with soaping up the windows. That's not so bad. It would not be hallowe'en unless a few things of this sort were indulged in. We have heard of no property damage.

The Senior Class girls of the Valley City High School entertained their mothers and the faculty Monday evening at the Congregational Church, at a banquet. It was in the nature of a get-together party between the faculty, mothers and students. The banquet was served by the Congregation-Auxiliary Guild. A splendid program was arranged which consisted of the following numbers: A vocal solo by Miss Helga Rude, who sang "My Ain Folk" in a very delightful and pleasing way. Miss Vale, of the faculty, followed this number with a toast to the mothers. She gave a very splendid talk. The response was given by Mrs. W. N. Palmer who toasted the daughters and faculty and which was given in a very pleasing manner. Miss Healy, also of the faculty, sang in a very pleasing way "Mother Macreeve." Following these numbers Supt. Hanna and Prof. Ward gave toasts to the mothers, daughters and faculty. During the course of the banquet impromptu singing was indulged in. Following the banquet and program an informal reception was held.

We wish to again call your attention to the Ladbury Ladies Aid Sale and supper at the E. J. Mosher home, Friday evening, Nov. 3. The price for supper will be 30c for adults, and 15c for children.

Among the positions much sought for at the University of North Dakota is that of king of the law school, and our townsman, Eli Weston, has been elected to that position and accorded this much coveted honor. It is the tradition in the school of law to hold an election for king, queen and chancellor of the exchequer. These officers are to later be coronated by public acclamation and it carries with it an honor aspired to by all seniors in the law school. The law school is looking forward to the time when they will occupy their new building, and from the indication by the increased enrollment this year they will need all the room afforded. Too much credit cannot be given to President Kane, students claim, for the selection of the faculty of the law school this year. The faculty is composed of men having, as well as a thorough knowledge of the law, a background of practical experience. From the present outlook the law school will soon be as large as any school on the campus.

GOVERNOR NESTOS ISSUES AN APPEAL

Governor R. A. Nestos today issued an appeal to the voters of North Dakota, urging them to aid in rehabilitating the credit of the state by electing officials who command the confidence and respect of the people of other states as well as of North Dakota. The Governor's statement follows:

To the Voters of North Dakota
After having visited almost every county in the state I am certain that the people are quite well satisfied with the way that public business has been handled during the past year. The people do not want the public business conducted behind a veil of secrecy again. They do not want any more public funds misused or any further mismanagement of public business. Neither do the people want the credit of either the state or its people injured again.

In the view of this desire on the part of the people, there are two things which I believe that it is my duty to call to the attention of the voters now that the campaign is drawing to a close; that the policies of the present administration can not be successfully carried out with only half of the officers filled by people who are in accord with these policies, or without a legislature in which a majority is in accord with those policies. I therefore want to urge upon those voters of the state who believe that we have served them faithfully and well insofar as possible with a part of our state officials still committed to the policies of the old administration, that if they want to see those policies fully applied to every department of our state government during the coming two years, they must not only vote for me for governor, but for all of the other candidates on what is known as the O'Connor-Nestos ticket, including the members of the legislature who are committed to the policy of the open books, honesty, economy and efficiency in public business. No governmental policy can be given a fair trial with the governor for it and the legislature against it.

The ability of a state to borrow money or secure credit is based on the reputation it bears. And a state is judged by the class of men it elects to public office. If North Dakota should elect him to the United States Senate a man who had been recalled because of his misuse of public funds and abuse of public confidence; a man who advocates revolution if his faction does not prevail at the polls; a man who consorts with the radicals of the state and nation, taking their advice on questions of state and national importance and appointing them to public office; a man who shows no regard for the constitution of his state if it runs counter to the desires of the radicals with whom he associates—if North Dakota sends such a man to the Senate, can we blame the people of other states if they lose confidence in us when we indicate by our vote that we approve of such misconduct. If we elect a man to the United States Senate who, as governor of the state, reappointed as bank examiner a man who knew had made a false statement under oath to the Supreme Court ordering the reopening of the Scandinavian American Bank with the consequent loss of several hundred thousand dollars to the state, to the depositors, and to those who were persuaded to buy stock in that bank after its reopening—if we elect such a man to the Senate, knowing his past record, can we expect the people of other states to extend credit or to repose any confidence in us?

You know what happened after the people of other states began to realize the true character of the Nonpartisan League, which had secured control of our state government. You all know that it became impossible to sell our state bonds, and that the hail warrants went begging at discounts of 20 cents or more on the dollar. The confidence of those who have money to loan was shaken in the government and citizenship of our state. They refused to extend us credit and give us the loans which were necessary to conduct our usual business enterprises within the state and in getting our farm products to market.

After the recall election last fall, the slow process of again building up the credit of the state was begun, and it has borne good fruit; the citizens of other states accepted the result of that election as evidence that North Dakota was again entering upon an era of good sense in the management of public business. But if you now repudiate the action taken at the time of the recall election by electing to the highest office within your gift, the man whom you recalled from office as governor, you will give the people of other states reason to think that you now approve of the evils of which you disapproved last year. If you do that you will not only again destroy that confidence which is now in a fair way to be re-established, but you will make it impossible for a long time to reassure those people that we are not in sympathy with Mr. Frazier's records, and do not endorse the views on the right of confiscation of property which are held by the L. W. W. and other radicals with Mr. Frazier associates and whom he has befriended. It will take more than one election to restore their confidence. Frazier has not in any way indicated that he is sorry that he permitted so much graft and misuse of public funds, and public confidence while he was governor or that he now believes that a governor should be more faithful, honest and watchful over the public's business affairs than he was. The confidence so necessary to our prosperity will not be completely restored for six years or more if Mr. Frazier is elected to the Senate. A man must expect to be judged by the company he keeps, and a state cannot escape being judged by the man it elects to office.

If the vote recorded on November 7th, should in any way indicate that the people of North Dakota approve of such misconduct of public affairs as even our opponents admit prevailed under the Frazier-Lemke administration or of such social and economic theories as are advocated by the Frazier-Lemke group, we can not reasonably expect the people of other states to respect or trust us. As governor, and as a citizen, it is my duty to promote the welfare of the people of this state by every just and reasonable means in my power. You expect me to do that but I must have your full co-operation or the result of our effort cannot be satisfactory to either you or me. Therefore I want to ask, with all the earnestness that I can command, that if you want to help to further re-establish North Dakota's credit and to restore good will and neighborliness in our state, you must not only prevent the recording of any vote that would injure our state but you must make every effort between now and November 7th to secure the election of every candidate on our ticket, including the candidates for legislature and J. F. T. O'Connor for United States senator. The bigger the majority for the O'Connor-Nestos ticket the sooner we will enjoy that era of peace, good will and prosperity for which we are all longing.

ITALY BOWS TO FACISTA DEMANDS

Rome, Italy, Oct. 30 — Italy today has bowed to the Facista and Benita Mussolini busied himself forming a new cabinet. The demands of Mussolini, leader of the Facista, for complete control of the government, be handed over to his faction was granted by King Victor Emanuel, when Mussolini was invited to form a new cabinet. The demands of Mussolini was backed by 800,000 adherents all ready to act if the government is not handed over peacefully. Facista leaders rejected flatly the compromise as was granted the invitation to form a new government which was only granted by King Emanuel after Mussolini had refused point blank to participate in any cabinet headed by Premier Salandra. Mussolini is expected in Rome today. He left Milan where he has been conferring with the leaders of his party.
