

ROW CONTINUED AT STARKWEATHER

Dentist and Deputy Game Warden Make Counter Accusations.

Devils Lake, N. D., Sept. 11.—Developments have come thick and fast in the Brownlee-Cull case at Starkweather, which started when Deputy Game Warden Cull was arrested on a charge of assault, on complaint of Dr. W. J. Brownlee.

On his arrival at Devils Lake Cull told his story to Assistant State Attorney Smythe and the latter telephoned to Starkweather, demanding that Justice Gill, who had issued the warrant, dismiss the action. Gill refused to stand pat, refusing to take orders from the prosecutor until he had "been shown."

As an outgrowth of the fracas Cull has signed a complaint charging Dr. Brownlee with having game in his possession illegally and with failure to show his license. The records of the state's attorney show that the doctor was in possession of a license, which was at home. He had not shot the birds in question, he claims, they having been presented to him by a farmer who had borrowed his shotgun.

It is stated that the doctor met with an accident yesterday when he was a severe injury. The warrant has not been served on him as a result.

On account of the attitude of the state's attorney's office in the matter it is quite likely that the people of Starkweather will ask the attorney general's office for a special prosecutor to see that the assault charge against Cull is pushed.

TRANSIENT'S CLOSE CALL

Foot Jammed When Car of Lumber Hit by Engine.

Jamestown, N. D., Sept. 12.—Andrew Gubberard of Bloomer, Wis., had a close call from fatal injury, when he got caught in a car of lumber in the N. P. yards. His left foot was badly bruised. He is now at Parkview hospital recovering.

He was crawling in the end door of a car piled high with lumber when a switch engine bumped the car, shifting the load and pinning his foot between the ends of the lumber and the end of the car. A second or two more and it is probable that Andrew Gubberard would have been killed.

It required the service of a crew of men an hour and a half to unload the top of the car and free the man. It was feared that his foot would be crushed, but at the hospital it was found that the pedal extremity was badly bruised and will be saved.

EUROPEAN STRUGGLE

Fought All Over Again At Jamestown; Germany vs. France.

Jamestown, N. D., Sept. 12.—A skirmish from the European war broke out at a threshing crew eight miles north of the city, when Messrs. Slinker and Visk, members of the French and the Germans. Both are of German descent and became quite choleric during the discussion.

It is said Visk upheld the French end of the argument, supplemented by a pitchfork, while Slinker stood for the Germans. Slinker was not quick enough and Visk made a stab at him with the fork, routing the Germans. Slinker hollered for reinforcements and three members of the threshing crew rushed to the assistance of the slowly retreating German farmers. They rushed Visk and are said to have artistically placed the map of Germany over the face of Visk.

When the battlemoak cleared away it was discovered that both the attacking forces were subject to Red Cross treatment and were accordingly brought to the city where they now repose on cots at Parkview hospital. They are recovering rapidly and are expected to be able to resume work—and let the Europeans fight their own battles hereafter.

MOHALL HAS TWO HORSE RUNAWAYS

Drivers Fortunately Escape Injury But Vehicles are Demolished.

Mohall, N. D., Sept. 12.—Peter Halverson's team had an exciting runaway while he was in town. The horses became frightened when the tugs came loose, letting the whiffletrees strike them on the legs. They started from in front of the Erickson confectionery store and dashed down Main street at furious speed. When in front of the court house the poll dropped, upsetting the spring buggy, and throwing Mr. Halverson to the ground with considerable force, but fortunately he escaped with no more severe injuries than a few bruises to his leg and body, and the team continued on its mad run to near the eastern limits of the city, where they broke loose from the buggy leaving it badly broken.

Mohall, N. D., Sept. 12.—Joe Morrison had a lively time when his team became frightened at the lumber which was coming in. On trying to quiet them a grain tank filled with wheat was overturned. The wagon pole and harness were broken but no further damage was done.

ILLEGAL HUNTING

Illinois Resident Pays Heavy Fine for Shooting Game.

Hope, N. D., Sept. 12.—Ward Glenwood was convicted and fined for hunting without a non-resident license as a result of a trip here by Chief Game Warden Reko of District Game Warden South. The officers came here to investigate some alleged violations and found that Glenwood, who had secured a resident license, lived in Princeton, Ill. He owns several farms here and spends a part of each fall looking after his property. He evidently became frightened and turned back his resident license. The officers learned he hunted last year without a non-resident license and prosecuted him on that charge, the fine being in excess of what he would have been compelled to pay for a non-resident license. Just because actual and bona fide residents can hunt on their own lands without license, some of the non-residents feel they have the same privilege.

For an early violation of the game law one of the tenants of Glenwood's lands was fined and the local sportsmen feel the pair of convictions will have a beneficial effect in this locality.

STOLE SPEEDER

Passengers Missed Train and Hurried to Destination on Speeder.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 12.—Having bought tickets from Haggart to Casselton and having missed the regular train and being in a hurry to reach their destination, Otto Lind and John Kettelo, two Finlanders, took a gasoline speeder from the N. P. section house at Haggart and started out for their destination last evening.

They probably thought, that having tickets, they were entitled to ride on the railroad any way they pleased, but they had not gone far when they began striking trouble. When about two miles from Haggart the engine broke down and the men were forced to stop and refused to go any further. This was only the beginning of the trouble, however, for after deserting the machine and starting out on foot, they were overtaken by the Haggart section crew on a hand car, who had missed the machine and started out to follow it.

The sheriff's office here was notified and Sheriff Ross and Deputy Sheriff Kramer went to Haggart, where they arrested the two men and brought them to Fargo, where they are in jail awaiting action to be brought against them.

ROBBED PARTNER

Transients at Fargo to Have Hearing Today.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 12.—Tom Russell and Rufus Cooksey, two transients, were placed in the county jail where they are awaiting hearing on a charge of robbing John McCall, their working partner, and will come up for their preliminary hearing today.

The three men had been working near Edmond and had come to Fargo from that place and took rooms at a local lodging place. They were in the morning he found his two partners gone and with them, he alleges, his money went also. The three men also a trunk in which the three kept their belongings and this was gone also, but McCall was able to identify the trunk at the Northern Pacific baggage room where it had been left early in the morning. Last afternoon word was received to send the trunk to Mapleton and immediately the county officers went there with McCall and he identified his two former partners.

From what could be learned by the officers the two men left Fargo about 8 o'clock in the morning in an automobile for Mapleton.

FAREWELL BANQUET

Citizens of Souris Give One for Postmaster Jenks.

Souris, N. D., Sept. 12.—The citizens of Souris gave a banquet at the Hotel Gladys in honor of John E. Jenks, who leaves soon for Devils Lake. Mr. Jenks has been postmaster here, having filled the office of postmaster at this place ever since the town of Souris was established. Covers were served by J. P. Halldorson presiding as toastmaster. J. E. Jenks and W. W. Hubbard, both veterans of the Civil war, gave interesting reminiscences of the day. A merry discussion of the relative merits of postmasters and demonstrators as postmasters ensued, the newly appointed postmaster, J. P. Shahan, democrat, joining in the argument with his usual wit and humor.

LOOKING FOR OIL

For the Past Week Experts Look for Flow Near Kenmare.

Kenmare, N. D., Sept. 12.—For the past week an effort has been made to locate gas in the city limits and on the outskirts of the town. The prospecting has been carried on under the direction of W. W. Johnson, who has been watched carefully by a number of the leading business men. The methods employed by the Canadians is not unlike that used in "witching" for a well, save that in place of using a willow, a copper wire is used. Most of the locating has been done near the water tank.

PREACHERS LAST SERMON

Lakota, N. D., Sept. 12.—Rev. A. F. Fehlandt, who has been pastor of the Lakota and Michigan City Congregational churches for the past four years, preached his farewell sermon to his Lakota congregation.

The church was crowded with the members of the congregation and friends of the pastor, who all expressed themselves as being sorry to see Mr. Fehlandt leave. They all will have a warm spot in their hearts for him should he ever decide to return to again take up the good work. He left for Ripon, Wis., where he will enter upon his new duties as a professor of economics and sociology in the Ripon college. Mrs. Fehlandt and the children preceded him a few days.

LAUGH WITH US

A Pennsylvania farmer was the owner of a good Alderney cow. A stranger, having admired the animal, asked the farmer, "What will you take for your cow?"

The farmer scratched his head for a moment, and then said, "Look a-here! Be you the tax assessor of nas she been killed by the railroad?"

A landlord returning home after an absence of several weeks saw one of his tenants sitting on a stone wall, whistling merrily. The moment that he greeted him, however, the man scowled and began abusing him. "Why, what's the matter, Pat?" he asked.

"Matter is it?" was the answer. "Matter enough, when your stewart is a'fter evicting me, bad luck to him!"

DEAN SQUIRES HAS RETURNED TO CITY

Spent Summer in Chautauqua Work—Glad to be Back Here.

After spending the greater part of the summer lecturing at chautauques in the states of Iowa and Missouri, Prof. Vernon P. Squires, dean of the liberal arts department at the University of North Dakota, has returned to the city. He declares that he is all ready to begin work at the institution.

He left here early in June to attend the one hundred and forty-sixth annual commencement exercises at Brown university, of which institution he is a graduate. He was one of the main speakers at the annual commencement dinner. The degree of doctor of letters was conferred upon Dean Squires while he was at his alma mater.

Following the exercises at Brown university Prof. Squires came back west and stopped at Cresco, Iowa, on June 22, where he began his chautauqua work. He was engaged with the Redpath-Yawter company, which has the largest chautauque system in the entire country. During part of the summer this firm had charge of twenty-two chautauques daily.

Dean Squires states that his line of work has been greatly developed in these two states and that the people are very much interested in the movement. He declares that chautauqua at Marshall, Mo., had to compete with the fair and a large circus, but despite this fact the tent was crowded with people.

Prof. Squires states that he was very much impressed with the chautauqua as an educational factor. He believes that it is a true university extension, bringing education and inspiration to thousands of communities and to millions of people. He finished his chautauqua work at Marshall September 1st. He was well received every place he went drawing large crowds.

In speaking of crop conditions, Prof. Squires claims that the yields in Missouri are very disappointing this year. He believes that the farmers of this state are much better off than those in Missouri. In the latter state farmers are only getting about one-quarter of the expected corn crop, due to the protracted drought in that section of the country.

Dean Squires comes back thinking more of Grand Forks than he ever did before. He visited many towns, some larger and some smaller than this city, but he found none that appeared more lively or prosperous.

Linton, N. D., Sept. 12.—The new Farmers' elevator is fast nearing completion, and if present plans work out according to schedule the house will be in shape to begin taking in grain about the first of October. It does not mean, however, that it will be entirely completed. There is still much work of a finishing nature to be done, such as putting on the building engine house, office, flour sheds, spouting, etc., but by the end of this week it is thought that the machinery will be installed so that some grain can be bought.
