The election was held this morning in accordance with a custom inaugurated last year. The election of a king and queen does not mean that the law students are in any way undemocratic, for as a matter of fact, just the contrary is true.

Beyond this the gyroscopic drift of a bullet fired vertically is nil, against some 30 feet or 40 feet under normal conditions; also the error of the earth's rotation is a matter of feet westward and cannot be allowed for without taking reference to the compass bearing. Taking all these things into account it is evident that for the infantryman or gunner not specially trained, the task of bringing down an aeroplane flying at high altitude is no light one, especially when we recall the fact that for every inclination and bearing of the line of sight the conditions differ.

WOMAN DESCRIBES GERMAN AFFAIRS

Declares Conditions in Hanover Are Almost Normal at Present Time.

PRICES ARE NOT HIGHLY ADVANCED

Believes, However, That if War Continues, Winter Will See Raise.

Mrs. R. C. Kneuert of this city arrived home this morning from Hanover, Germany, where she has spent four months, and she tells an interesting story of conditions in Germany as a result of the war.

Mr. Kneuert went to Chicago a week ago to meet his wife and son who had just returned. They visited Mrs. Kneuert's father, C. Schrader, in Hanover. In speaking of her trip, Mrs. Kneuert said:

"Conditions in Hanover are almost perfect, the only warlike movements being the mobilization of troops in the city. The prices on foodstuffs had not advanced any while Mrs. Kneuert was in the city but likely would advance during the winter and that city had a plentiful supply on hand and would be able to take care of all its people and the soldiers stationed there for at least a year.

"Special trains are being run from Berlin through Hanover and practically all the people are being evacuated of foreigners who wish to leave the country. Many of them refuse to go, however, as they say they are perfectly safe there and want to see how things will turn out. A number of English citizens are still in Hanover and seem perfectly satisfied to stay in the city.

Surrendered Papers. "All people coming from any German province were forced by the English authorities to give up any German newspapers that they might have in their possession. Mrs. Kneuert had saved all the papers published during the outbreak of the war, intending to bring them home for the benefit of her friends, but was forced to give them up at London."

On the homeward trip, Mrs. Kneuert took a train from Hanover, through Germany and Holland, and from Holland came by boat to London, where they were forced to remain for several days. They finally were allowed to go to Liverpool, where they secured passage on the White Star liner, The Majestic. There were only five Americans in the party, the majority of them being Canadians returning to their business affairs in Canada. The officials on the boats showed the passengers every kindness and the trip was made with no great discomforts except that it was extremely cold from Montreal. Twenty-five massive icebergs were passed in the Atlantic ocean.

Mrs. Kneuert says that she would have liked to remain longer only that she feared that within a short time country letters from her home would be leaving the German provinces. The mail service is greatly tied up, it taking letters over a month to reach this country, letters from her home by Mrs. Kneuert's father did not want her to make the trip fearing that the ship would never reach its destination. She says that she is glad now that she did as the experiences were very interesting.

May Play Warren. The local high school football team may clash with the Warren eleven Saturday. The latter team has asked for a game, and if satisfactory arrangements can be made, it will be definitely scheduled. Poston also is after a game with the locals.

ENGINE STRIKES SLEEPER'S HEAD

Louis Field in Serious Condition From Accident Last Night.

Louis Field, transient, was struck by the Northern Pacific train from Red Lake Falls shortly after 9 o'clock last night and is in a critical condition at a local hospital from concussion of the brain as a result.

According to the account of the train crew, the man was lying beside the track in the East Grand Forks yards, his head being partly in the path of the side work of the locomotive.

The engineer failed to see him until the train had almost reached the spot at which he was lying. The speed of the train was checked but it was impossible to stop entirely, and the side of the engine struck him a glancing blow on the head.

Field was picked up unconscious. His head was found to be badly cut and bruised. He was brought to the East Grand Forks depot on the train and was then removed to St. Michael's hospital, where it was found that he was suffering from concussion of the brain. His condition today is said to be serious.

The name of the unfortunate man was learned from papers found in his clothing. He is believed to come from Minneapolis, and the M.H. City authorities have been communicated with in the effort to obtain information regarding his friends or relatives.
