

WHAT THEY ARE DOING IN SOCIETY

The Man With the Hoe. (Written after seeing the painting by Millet.)

God created him in His own image, in the image of God created He him.

Bowed by the weight of centuries, he leans upon his hoe and gazes on the ground.

What gulfs between him and the seraphim! Slave of the wheel of labor, what to him

O, masters, lords and rulers in all lands, Is this the handiwork you give to God.

How will you ever straighten up this shape: Tough it again with immortality;

How will the future reckon with this man? How answer this brute question in that hour

When whirlwinds of rebellion shake the world? How will it be with kingdoms and

With those who shaped him to the thing he is— When this dumb terror shall reply to God.

After the silence of the centuries? —Edwin Markham.

Little Bedtime Stories

THE CUNNING OF OLD MAN COYOTE.

By Thornton W. Burgess. (Copyright, 1914, by J. G. Lloyd.)

In one thing Old Man Coyote is very little. But in his cunning he has no real friends. There are plenty who think him very smart and in a way look up to him because of his cunning, but they haven't any real friends.

People who live by their wits seldom do have. If the truth be known they do not want them. At least Old Man Coyote does not seem to want them.

Perhaps he thinks that friends might give away his secrets if they found them out, and you know friends will do that.

One day Old Man Coyote had dined on one of Farmer Brown's ducks Old Man Coyote wouldn't have rested a minute, but he hadn't any real friends.

He didn't know it, but he didn't mean that any should. It is not his way to go about bragging of what he has done, but he hadn't any real friends.

The very next day after he had dined on that duck he went up to the duck pond to see if he could see any more ducks.

He didn't see any more ducks, but he didn't know it, but he didn't mean that any should. It is not his way to go about bragging of what he has done, but he hadn't any real friends.

He didn't know it, but he didn't mean that any should. It is not his way to go about bragging of what he has done, but he hadn't any real friends.

Contractor Harding is making rapid progress on the filtration plant, water main trunk line. When the main was laid under the Great Northern tracks at the viaduct near the city power plant Superintendent Mackenrath improved the opportunity to place the transmission lines safely below the surface encased in lead.

Owing to the splendid weather this fall work on the federal building is progressing rapidly and Superintendent Delahanty is confident that the building will be completed by January 1. The government inspectors have carefully watched the work and have found it satisfactory in every detail. Considerable interest is shown in the flag staff which will be set in concrete near the southwest corner. It is being formed in two sections of Oregon fir and will stand about 70 feet high.

F. H. Meyer left Tuesday for Rugby to attend to business matters. Mr. and Mrs. G. Grogan left the early part of the week for an extended trip in the east.
