

DIRECTS SHOWS FOR WAR BENEFIT

Frenchwoman Prominent in Relief Work Has Word to American Friends.

Paris, Dec. 30.—Madame Yvette Guilbert, though free from all professional engagements, is at present one of the busiest women in Paris.

"I have two great reasons to be proud," she said to the Associated Press, "first, of my French birth, second, of my American nationality, acquired by marriage."

"Words," she added, "have lost their power in inexpressible horror and pain; actions only count. My own heart is so full that it is difficult for me either to speak or to sing, but we must nevertheless try to do something for those who are powerless to do anything more than suffer; we must act also for the rising generation who are in danger of feeling the effect of it all long after the war has passed."

"In the concerts I have organized all of the participants who are not in need have voluntarily given their time to the relief work, and we intend to make our movement as practical as possible by giving it direct application."

BELFORT IS MADE AVIATION CENTER

Geneva, Dec. 30.—Both English and French monoplanes and biplanes have recently arrived at Belfort and are fitting up in the large park near the town where several sheds have recently been constructed.

AMERICANS HAVE GREAT INFLUENCE

Frenchman Says Presence of U. S. Minister Kept the Food Prices Down.

Paris, Dec. 30.—An attache of the Belgian foreign office, who escaped from the capital recently, says life there is not as disagreeable as in other Belgian cities, largely on account of the influential presence of the American minister.

"The price of food has not greatly increased, and the people who have money to buy it are not suffering," he said. "But the bread which is strictly rationed (300 grams a day for each inhabitant) is black, starchy and indigestible."

"The lack of fuel is another hardship. Nearly all the coal that comes by canal from Charleroi is taken by the Germans, who manufacture benzine for their automobiles from it in the suburbs of Brussels, and it is very difficult for the people to get even the small quantity they require for cooking purposes."

FEW AMERICANS WED IN LONDON

London, Dec. 30.—American weddings in London are now very rare and the usual number of holiday weddings among Americans traveling in England will be lacking.

"In the case of Americans or other foreigners desiring to marry in England the same consideration will be shown in an extreme emergency that is shown to Englishmen, but the church has made very clear its unwillingness to issue special licenses even in such an emergency."

NORWEGIANS EVEN CENSOR TELEPHONES

Christiania, Dec. 30.—In her desire to maintain strict neutrality, Norway has even kept tabs on telephone conversations. In matters of a military nature are discussed over the telephone, central will disconnect the talkers instantly.

HERALD WANT ADS BRING RESULTS

There are rooms to be had in Grand Forks possessing all the comforts which a young man may have been accustomed to in his own home.

Homelike Rooms

Those who place these rooms in their houses at the disposal of young men realize that after a man has done a hard day's work downtown his home surroundings must be conducive to rest.

If you are looking for a room with all the comforts of home and do not find it listed in today's Herald, run an ad of your own tomorrow, telling what you want in a room and in what section of the city you prefer to live.

You will get answers, plenty of them. Have them addressed in care of The Herald, if you prefer.

AWFUL FIRE IS DEALT AVIATOR

Biplane Hit 144 Times and Seriously Damaged—Brought Down Safely.

Paris, Dec. 30.—The Petit Parisien gives the following account of the vicissitudes of a biplane which has figured in the most important air crises of the flying corps.

"Biplane M. F. 123, in a violent engagement with a German machine, was struck by an explosive bullet, which passed within 2 1/2 inches of the gasoline reservoir. At the same time two musket balls fired almost vertically, burst the frame on the right-hand side and lodged in the interior of the front hood."

"In another engagement a rifle ball, fired from a trench which the machine passed at the height of 300 metres, pierced the writing board of the observer."

"On another occasion the M. F. 123 maneuvered over a captive German balloon, when a shell burst immediately under it and 47 bullets or pieces of shell struck the machine. The armor-plate was pierced just between the little openings made for the pilot's legs, but the aviator was not touched. The machine was obliged to come to ground, but there was a hole in bringing it back into the French lines. On examination it was not only found that the armor was pierced in several places, but there was a hole as big as a man's fist in one of the blades of the propeller. Altogether the machine had been hit by 144 rifle bullets, 15 fragments of shell, 25 of the wire stays had been severed and 2 of the commanding levers ruptured, 2 propeller blades broken and the hood shredded at 7 different points."

WOULD BUILD WALL OF BRICK ON RHINE

Geneva, Dec. 30.—The Swiss association of brick manufacturers has seriously suggested that the Swiss government erect a wall of bricks along the River Rhine, extending from Basel to Chur, and which would be of sufficient thickness to resist the shells from the famous German howitzer.

MONUMENT TO CAT THAT SAVED OFFICER

Newport, Wales, Dec. 30.—A subscription is being started to erect on the grounds of the town's feudal castle a monument to the French cat which saved the life of Lieutenant Lloyd of the Grenadier Guards.

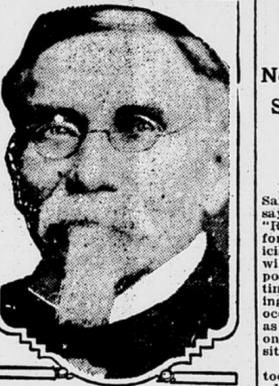

A RIGHT START

It is universally conceded that the person who secures the proper start is much more likely to bring his task to a successful conclusion than the man who goes about his work ignorantly.

INVENTION TURNED DOWN BY U. S. A BIG HELP TO GERMANS

Washington, Dec. 28.—Louis Gathmann, inventor of the method of handling and firing the huge masses of high explosives with which the Germans battered down the Belgian forts and which they are using on their battleships, now lives in Washington.

"His invention, contrary to the popular belief is not the gun but the detonator by which these great quantities of high explosives are set off after the shell carrying them has been fired to a great range and the ordinary armor-piercing projectile."

CROSSING NORTH SEA TICKLISH JOB

Vlissingen, Holland, Dec. 30.—Crossing the North sea is now ticklish navigating, and it half as many mines are cited as the crew of the Princess Junliana testify, it is easy to comprehend why all crossings must be made by daylight. The Dutch boats leave for the English coast at 8 in the morning and reach Flushing shortly after 4. As passengers from London must report for Scotland Yard inspection at 5, this means that it is substantially a 24-hour business to get from London to Holland.

WOMEN OF FRANCE CHANGE THEIR GAIT

London, Dec. 30.—Paris women are changing their gait. Says a correspondent from the French capital: "In nothing has the woman of Paris, whose silhouette is copied all over the world, changed so much as in her walk. A short time ago she wriggled her way along and her anatomy appeared to be of the strongest. Today she is gradually slipping back into her old habit of tripping, and it suits her much better. Her figure is taking on its familiar lines, and the fat chest is likely to disappear with the ungraceful wriggle."

GERMANS ADMIT RUSSIANS STRONG

No Question but What the Southern wing is Superior to the Opposition.

Berlin, Dec. 30.—(By wireless to Sayville)—The official press bureau says: "Russians have strengthened their forces opposing the Austrians in Galicia and the latter, it is understood, will be compelled to make new dispositions which will require some time. Local military experts are making attempts to picture the Russian occupation of the line of Kozno-Jaslo as no real gain for the Russians, but on the contrary, weakening their positions."

"This view, however, is considered too optimistic. The fact must be faced that the extreme left wing of the Russians is proving itself superior to its opponents."

"The German government will permit private traffic on the Belgian railway from January."

IF THERE IS A LABEL ON FAIR SEX

There can be no doubt whatever that the extreme left wing of the Musical Courier was written by a mere man. "If ever the Germans capture Dunkirk, the rest of England had better be careful."

"Of course it is. How stupid of me. I don't understand, though, how the Germans got into Scotland."

"I thought Vosges is in Belgium." "You are right; it is. I got it mixed up with Ypres."

"Aren't those German guns remarkable?" "Phenomenal! And to think that they're only fifteen inches high."

"Soissons is putting up a stiff fight." "No, lovelier you may encounter—A very banquet for the bees."

"To push on to Cracow and effect a junction with Joffre." "Isn't it wonderful to be able to follow the whole war scheme so thoroughly?" "Marvelous!"

Miss Green (Judge): Her name was Mabel—Mabel Green—And yet somehow it did not fit her: For in her eyes there shone the sheen Of violets that gleam and glitter. Her cheeks were pink anemones— No lovelier you may encounter— A very banquet for the bees. There was no trace of "green" about her!

Her brow was like a lily flower Upon a summer morning sunny; Her hair was like the shining dower Of kingcups with their hoarded honey.

Her name, it seemed a shame, I ween, Her red lips were so shaped for kisses; And so I blotted out the "green." By changing Mabel's Miss to Mrs.!

RED TAPE PUTS HIM OUT OF ARMY

Born in Geneva of French Parents, Records Mixed and He has no Country

Paris, Dec. 30.—A remarkable instance of red tape in the administration of French affairs is furnished by Louis Dumont of Velizy in the department of Seine and Oise. He describes himself as "the man without a country."

Dumont was born in Geneva, Switzerland, thirty-three years ago of French parents, though the official registers of France declare them to be "unknown." Eight days after his birth he was brought to France and has lived here ever since. When he applied to be placed on the recruiting lists, the council of revision declared that he was a foreigner.

"Very well," thought Dumont, "I'll have myself naturalized." But the naturalization bureau also has its red tape. To be adopted as a citizen of the French republic it is necessary that one prove that he is a foreigner. Dumont went to Switzerland and though no one doubted that he was born on the banks of Lake Lemane, he could not produce any official document proving his Swiss nationality.

Dumont finally succeeded in getting a certificate of birth on Swiss territory, but the Swiss administration added the words:—"Still he is not a Swiss."

Dumont came back to Velizy with this document and presented it to the magistrate of the commune who declared a declaration from him as a foreigner.

"Declare something," the functionary demanded, "even if it's Chinese." Mr. Dumont not only sold books; he loved them—some of them so well that he practically refused to sell them. He read constantly and wrote occasionally. His services as book-seller were mainly performed for wealthy individual buyers of old books. Of more permanent importance was his work in encouraging budding genius, as he occasionally came upon it. His admiration for some of the early work of James Thomson, author of "The City of Dreadful Night" was well known. Mr. Dumont not only sold books; he edited much of Thomson's work for publication, and after Thomson's death collected and published all his writings.

Another service which Mr. Dumont rendered to literature was the discovery and identification of the works of a forgotten seventeenth century writer, Thomas Traherne. Mr. Dumont's own writings included two volumes of verse and one volume of contributions to the magazines and reviews.

London, Dec. 30.—The death of Bertram Dobell, a down-town bookseller, commands more space in the London newspapers than the obituary of any man since Lord Roberts, who was the last of the old-time London book sellers, and occupied a unique place in literary life for 40 years.

Mr. Dobell not only sold books; he loved them—some of them so well that he practically refused to sell them. He read constantly and wrote occasionally. His services as book-seller were mainly performed for wealthy individual buyers of old books. Of more permanent importance was his work in encouraging budding genius, as he occasionally came upon it. London, Dec. 29.—Swiss residents in the United Kingdom are considerably disturbed about the attitude of certain sections of the Swiss press, which they fear is threatening the integrity of the republic's neutrality. Accordingly a petition is now being circulated throughout Great Britain and Ireland condemning what are styled dangerous excesses of some Swiss newspapers.

The resolution says that in a free country every citizen has the right to think and write as his opinions dictate. "But," it adds, "we hope that in the future the newspapers will endeavor to cultivate more the critical sense, and to abstain from making comments which could offend any of the belligerent powers."

Some circulating the petitions are desirous that it be signed by Swiss residents of race—German, French, Italian, Swiss—and an effort is being made to bring it before Swiss subjects resident in Berlin.

London, Dec. 30.—The famous Crested bob-sleigh run at St. Moritz will never again see many of its well known "ice jockeys," whose exploits excited interest among the visitors, including the Crown Prince of Germany and the heir to the Austrian throne. "The Grand National" bob-sleigh "crews" composed in a great part of English officers, have been decimated by war. During the retreat to the Marne and the advance to the Aisne, Colonel, Captain, B. S. Dawson, Lieut. B. Quick were killed and Capt. J. Webb-Bowen was seriously wounded. All four of them steered bob-sleighs to victory in the Grand National several winters before the Crown Prince with his German crew. Among the wounded officers are Captain Skier, the well known Alpinist and skier, Capt. Abernethy, a daring Crested bob-sleigh runner, and young Lord Carter, who revolutionized bob-sleighing at St. Moritz, by introducing the prone position of the crew.

St. Moritz will be "dead" this winter and perhaps for many winters without the elite of its English sportsmen. The crown prince of Germany was a personal friend of all the English officers mentioned, and on frequent occasions during his winter visits to St. Moritz in the last five years, they had his guests at dinners and luncheons.

Amsterdam, Dec. 30.—In view of the Porte's alliance with Germany, French words to be found in Turkish newspapers should be replaced with German, according to German newspapers published here. Henceforth Turkes will say Herr, Frau, Fraulein, Kaiser, Graf, Ritter, Fuerst, Grossfuhrer.

The teaching of German is to be made more general in the schools; French to be abandoned.

BELGIAN KING AID TO LOVERS

Wife Makes Way to Husband at the Front, and Monarch Helps Them.

Geneva, Dec. 30.—The Lausanne Gazette tells the story of how a young Parisian woman, recently married to a French artillery officer, won her way to her husband's side at the front in Flanders. The first tried to obtain a pass of the French authorities. Failing in this she traveled in a peasant's country cart for several days to the Belgian headquarters. She met with a polite reception and a polite refusal.

A tall officer looked up from a map he was studying and intervened. "Madame," he said, "a Frenchwoman could never expect such a voyage for nothing." He took up the telephone, and after conversing a moment over the wire said, "your husband will be here soon." He ordered that lodgings be found for the young woman, who thanked the "tall kind officer" and warmly shook both his hands.

Two hours later her husband, puzzled at his recall from the trenches, was astonished to find himself in the embrace of his young wife. Both were further surprised to learn that it was the king of the Belgians who had arranged the meeting.

FAMOUS ICE JOCKEYS HAVE BEEN KILLED
