Suffrage Forces Seek His Aid in Attempt to Pass the Measure.

BRONSON FAILS TO RESPOND TO FRAINE

Lieutenant Governor Challenged Him to Show Basis Opposing Ruling Made in Senate—Both Sides Confident of Victory.

(By H. D. Paulson.)
Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 22.—So determined have the women suffrage forces become in their fight for the ballot that they yesterday telegraphed State Senator D. H. Hamilton of McHenry county to hasten here immediately.

Senator Hamilton was bereaved only last Friday by the death of his wife, and the suffrage forces seek the aid of the mourning senator in their fight to pry the suffrage bill loose from the senate, where it has been held since Thursday afternoon.

Both sides confide. There is apparently little or no change in the situation today. Both sides maintain they are holding their strength, but both seem confident of ultimate success.

Lieutenant Governor Fraine's challenge to Senator Bronson made Saturday to produce any rule of parliamentary procedure opposed to his ruling on the suffrage fight has so far failed to bring a response from the Grand Forks senator. Fraine's challenge was made from the restroom of the senate, when Bronson undertook to question Fraine's ruling.

Fraine's ruling is that it will require a majority vote to re-message the bill to the house, while the suffrage forces maintain it should be automatically returned to the house, when the senate fails to take action on it.

Politics have entered into the suffrage fight to no small extent, the republicans from the southwestern counties maintaining the passage of the suffrage bill again this year would seriously disrupt the party's strength.

FEDERAL LICENSES ARE FEWER

Annual Report of F. L. Watkins Shows Decrease in Amount of Liquor Sold in State.

The reduction in the amount of liquor sold in North Dakota during the last five years is indicated by the falling off in the number of federal licenses from 1,850 in 1909, to 280 in 1914, according to the annual report of F. L. Watkins, superintendent of the North Dakota Law Enforcement League.

Mr. Watkins declares that the prohibition law is better enforced at this time than has been the case at any similar period in the past.

The report also states that the greatest difficulty in enforcing the law in the state at present lies in the fact that the federal government is taking no action to prevent the shipment of liquor into the state under fictitious names. This makes the bootlegger and blimpicker difficult to detect.

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS.
Berlin, Feb. 22.—Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's forthcoming visit to the Austrian headquarters will be for the purpose of discussing personally with archduke Francis the dual monarchy the most important questions pending in the triple alliance powers, according to a Berlin dispatch to the Frankfurter Zeitung.

WRITERS ON THE STUMP.
An enticing subject for discussion in the writer's oratorical class, of course, undeniable that the mental process belonging to the two orders of expression are wholly different, but I should challenge very strongly the contention that the good writer is seldom a good speaker.

Putting aside Burke, Gladstone, Bright and others, who cannot properly be put into class with the modern number of modern writers who have been fine speakers is very large. Canning and Disraeli could write and speak equally well. Macaulay, although, as you remark, he memorized his speeches—was among the great parliamentary orators of the reform era. The memorizing, by the way, was not his fault. He could not help knowing word for word everything that he prepared, and he accomplished the extraordinary feat of writing out for publication in his last years, when he was too ill for original work, the orations which he had spoken ten or twenty years earlier.

Coleridge, his admirers thought, was a marvelous speaker. Dickens was almost without a rival after dinner. Public speaking was a torment to Ruskin (as to Carlyle), but those who heard him never forgot the experience.

Matthew Arnold was a poor speaker. Thackeray on the platform was pitiful. But let me suggest a few other examples. Lord Rosebery is an orator and an accomplished author. Mr. Balfour, when he likes, can write like an angel, and there are few more deadly debaters. Lord Morley will live as a writer, but he has made great speeches. Lord Curzon writes exactly as he speaks, and with about equal facility and force. In their entirely different ways Lord Haldane and Mr. Birrell enjoy the dual faculty. Then consider Mr. Chesterton and Bernard Shaw—in certain respects the greatest master of public speech as of written English alive today. And not to extend the list there is W. B. Yeats, in whom are combined poetic genius, a fine command of prose, and a gift of speech which at its best is perfect.—Manchester Guardian.

Don't forget the rights of pedestrians on the streets and animals on the roads.

Don't adjust carburetor, clutch or coil without making sure you are right.
