

BRISTOL SPEAKS AT CONVOCATION

Mosquitoes in Relation to Public Health Discussed This Morning.

WOULD WIPE OUT MOSQUITO PESTS

Address on Important Subject Well Attended at the University.

Dr. Frank D. Bristol was the speaker at the convocation this morning. His subject was one of vital interest to all. He spoke on "The Mosquito Problem and its Solution."

The reason for presenting this subject at this time is that the winter is the season for planning an effective campaign against the pest. If we are to accomplish any real good in fighting flies and mosquitoes we must begin early.

A careful survey of many of our warm cellars, and other places about our homes and barns which are protected from the elements, would bring to light many female mosquitoes passing the winter in a dormant, inactive condition awaiting the social season of the early spring and summer.

Dr. Bristol went on to point out that most mosquitoes hibernate in the form of the winged insect, although the type of mosquito found along the sea coast and in salt water swamps hibernates in the form of eggs which are deposited in the soft ground where they remain inactive until warmer weather stimulates their development into the winged insect.

The speaker next took up the problem of the relation of mosquitoes to disease. He pointed out at this time that although North Dakotans were not liable to experience any of these diseases that nevertheless he considered it advisable to inform them as to the diseases with which the mosquito is associated.

Dr. Bristol then divided the classes of mosquitoes into two classes—the coast mosquito and the inland mosquito. Those of the first class he pointed out are found along the sea coast. The second class he divided into three varieties:

1. Culex pungens, or common house mosquito; 2. Anopheles, or malarial mosquito; 3. Stenon, or yellow fever mosquito. This class as a rule does not breed in salt water, but rather in the stagnant water of rain barrels, cisterns, sewers, cesspools, water troughs, tin cans and numerous other receptacles associated with our dwellings.

An interesting fact that the speaker brought out at this point was that the reason we do not find mosquitoes breeding in large bodies of water is because they need a certain amount of organic food.

Dr. Bristol strongly advocates an anti-mosquito campaign. He said: "So far as our local situation is concerned, I would first recommend the abolishment or proper screening of all stagnant water about our homes, streets and public places."

CANDOR OFFERS PRIZE TO FAIR

Noted Dakotan Offers Prize Cup for the Best Beef Herd.

In 1913 the Northern Pacific railway offered a trophy cup for competition at the Grand Forks fair to be awarded to the best herd of beef cattle from a registered sire, bred and raised by a non-professional breeder.

This cup was won at the North Dakota State Fair in 1913 by R. A. Candor of Cokesville with his herd of Aberdeen-Angus cattle. Mr. Candor came back in 1914 to the Grand Forks fair, determined to take the cup home and keep it there.

Mr. Candor has always attended the Grand Forks fairs and has always been a strong booster for the fair game in the northern part of the state and in a letter to the local fair officials tenders the cup for annual competition for beef herds at Grand Forks.

The trophy is a handsome 16-inch silver cup, valued at $50 and will be named the "Candor-Northern Pacific Trophy Cup" and Mr. Candor wishes the cup to be awarded every year. Probably at the end of a term of years the cup will go to the person winning it, but if a breeder living in the southern part of the state, as it shows the wide-spread interest taken in the fair and is in line with the policy of the board in the encouragement of the non-professional breeder.

TWO GERMANS IN SASKATOON CELLS

Arrested by Northwestern Mounted Police Before Leaving Country.

Winnipeg, Man., March 6.—Henry Kloth and Gustaf Kloth, both German reservists, until a few days ago proprietors of the Alexandria hotel at Warman, Sask., and wealthy men, are now lodged in cells at Saskatoon awaiting transportation to Brandon where they will be interned with other alien prisoners of war.

The mounted police detachment at Rosheen stated that these men were contemplating flight to St. Paul, Minn., where they were in communication with the German consul. A few days ago the men applied for a leave to go to Manitoba, stating that they intended to rent a farm there. They were under police surveillance, and this started renewed investigations.

The authorities deemed it expedient to place the men under arrest until the end of the war.

Little Lola (in berth of the sleeping car)—"Mamma, I want to go to bed!" Mamma—"Why, you are in bed, dear!" Little Lola—"No, I'm not. I'm on a big shelf."

One day small Sadie was watching the lid of the teakettle rise and fall, emitting at the same time tiny puffs of steam. Finally she said: "Mamma, you'd better call in the doctor. The teakettle got the asthma."

"Why do you put your dolls away so carefully?" asked Aunt Myra. "Oh," replied little Eva, "I'm keeping them for my children to play with."

"But suppose you do not have any children?" queried her aunt. "Then," replied the little miss, "I'll give them to my grandchildren."

"If" is the most unsatisfactory word in our language.

FEAR FOR SAFETY OF ARCTIC PARTY

No Messages Received Since Last April From Stefanson.

No news has been received since April, 1914, from Vilhjalmur Stefanson, formerly a student at the North Dakota state university, now with the Canadian Arctic exploring expedition last heard of near Herschel Island, according to New York dispatches received today.

The dispatch is dated at Shingle Point, Mackenzie Bay. It states that the schooner Mary Sachs, which sailed from Ballis Island to Banksland August 19, should be able to advance some distance northward in search for the Stefanson party as the coast around Bankshead is believed to have been unusually free of ice.

The winter base of the schooners Alaska and North Star was established about fifteen miles east of Cockburn Point, directly south of Sutton and Liston islands, the dispatch says. It is added that the prospects are good for the work of the southern party during the next year, as it is well equipped with provisions, sledges and dogs.

House Expresses its Sorrow Over Death of Mrs. C. G. Higbee

St. Paul March 6.—The House of Representatives adopted the following resolution expressing its sorrow at the sudden death of Mrs. C. G. Higbee in the House retiring room:
