REPORTS COST OF LIGHTING SYSTEM. City Electrician Turns in Annual Statement of work For the Year.

The total cost of services and materials for the operation of the arc lighting system of the city of Grand Forks during the last year was $1,720.73, according to the annual report of M. Fitzgerald, city electrician, which was presented late Thursday to the city auditor. Of this sum $117.97 was expended for construction materials, and $222.76 for operating materials including carbons, etc. The remainder was paid out in salaries, pay for the care of a horse, etc. The total cost of operating the ornamental street lighting system for the year was $906.81. Payments from various sources in this connection, however, amounted to $248.11, leaving the net cost of the service $658.70. Mr. Fitzgerald also reported that there were 136 ornamental light clusters, and 138 street lighting arcs in use in the city during the year. Two new arc lights were installed during the period. The electrician made 227 inspections of electric wiring in private owned buildings during the year.

CHARLES HURST DIES IN CANADA. Former Well Known East Grand Forks Resident Claimed by Death.

Word reached the city today of the death, at Saskatoon, Sask., last night, of Charles Hurst, formerly a well known resident of East Grand Forks. Mrs. Hurst was visiting in East Grand Forks several weeks ago, and had planned to stay here longer, but she was summoned home because of Mr. Hurst's illness. Pneumonia was the cause of death. The remains will be shipped to Crookston, where Mrs. Hurst's parents reside. For a number of years Mr. Hurst was chief of police of this city. He resided here about fifteen years. About eight years ago he left the city. A few years ago he moved to Saskatoon, where he resided until his death. He was 50 years old at the time of his death. Farm Mortgage Loans. At a low rate of interest. See Sullivan Bros., 309 DeMers avenue, East Grand Forks, Minn.—Adv.

STATE WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Jennie Simonson, formerly of Devils Lake, who has made her home at Aberdeen, S. D., for the past three years, to Dr. J. J. McDowell occurred at Aberdeen, Wednesday of last week. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Hans Halgren of Devils Lake and has hosts of friends there. The attendants were Mrs. and Mrs. Ralph Greer, formerly of Devils Lake. The Aberdeen American says of the event: Dr. J. J. McDowell, a veterinarian, and Miss Jennie Simonson, a milliner, were united in wedlock last night at 8 o'clock at the Baptist parsonage by Rev. D. C. McManis. The ceremony was extremely simple and quiet. The bride was given away by the only witnesses, both Mr. McDowell and Miss Simonson are well known in Aberdeen, and they have hosts of friends.

The marriage of Miss Bertha Dietrich and Herman Kaeding was solemnized in the German church at Bottineau, Rev. Mr. Hubbert officiating. They were attended by Margaret Kaeding, Lena Gust, Reinhard Kaeding and Charles Hubbert. The reception was given to a large number of relatives and friends at the home of the bride's brother, Herman Garbe, where she made her home while there. They will be at home on the bridegroom's farm.

County Superintendent F. J. Steffek returned recently from a several week's visit in Wisconsin, with a bride. The following account of the marriage taken from The Gillet Times of Gillet, Wis., the home of the bride: "Miss Jessie Alme—da Magee, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Magee, of Gillet, and the town of Brazeeau was quietly married Tuesday, February 16, at Menominee, Mich., to Fred J. Steffek, of Schafer, N. D. Jessie has grown up mostly in Gillet, went to school here and is well known to us as a young lady of culture, refinement and highly esteemed, and while Mr. Steffek is not so well known to our people he is a gentleman known to us as a young man of push and energy, holding the responsible position of county superintendent of school in North Dakota at the present time. The young people will make their home in Schafer, N. D., where they will go about March 1."

"WHY I AM DIVORCED." He Was Too Old. (By E. K. Wooley.) "An old man ought not to marry a young woman," announced the man with the iron-gray hair. "My first wife and God rest her soul—was a splendid woman. We were very happy together. She was everything that a woman and wife should be, and I cannot tell you the emptiness that her death left in my life. "She had always urged me to remarry, if she should be taken first. I had always refused, but when she could take her place and pooh-poohed the thought of remarriage. But when she left me I was literally alone. Our two daughters were married and living far apart in distant cities. I was getting along toward sixty and had nothing but a big empty house and some stocks and bonds to occupy me. Such things are cold comfort for a lonely man. "One of my neighbors, with whom I often spent an evening at chess, had a daughter living with him. She had married a young fellow when she was seventeen, and marriage turned out disastrously. A divorce followed. At this time she was about the age of my oldest daughter and a very attractive looking woman. She appeared to be very contented also, and we became quite friendly. "I don't know what first put the idea into my head that this girl would fill the empty place in my life. It suddenly came upon me one evening as she brought us hot chocolate, that she would look very comfortable in my own home every evening. "I thought it over continually after that, and presently I asked her if she thought she could be contented to be an old man's darling. She said she already loved me and would be proud to be my wife. "Both my daughters opposed my marriage, my oldest daughter especially, who warned me that I would regret taking a young wife. 'Get somebody near your own age, father,' she wrote, 'somebody who will understand you and be ready to settle down in your ways.' "There is no fool like an old fool, indeed," sighed the man with the iron-gray hair, simply to get the woman I made over quite a bit of my property to her. "We were no sooner married than matters began to get serious. I had no more quiet evenings. My wife wanted to be on the 'go' continually. When I wanted to rest she had some plan to be up and doing. It was one round of pleasure. My wife thrived on it, but it was rapidly driving me crazy. "Finally I gave up. She really tried to settle down somewhat at first, but our home evenings together were a farce. She was bored and restless and finally I told her to go ahead and have her good times, and I would be sure to be home when she wanted to come home. 'I'd always had great faith in women, you see. My first wife was as good as gold and I thought of all women accordingly. "Yes, I was a foolish old man. Even when rumors were brought to me, I refused to believe them. An anonymous letter, I simply tore up and threw away. One night a man and a woman brought her home in a taxicab. They said she had been suddenly taken ill. I believed them and hurriedly sent for a physician. The doctor looked rather queer after he had examined her. He left some medicine and said she would be all right in a day or two. He should have told me the truth—that my wife was simply drunk! "The last year I knew fairly well what she was doing. We quarrelled often. Then she ran off with a young fellow who'd been taking up and down with her. I sent her a letter to divorce her so that she might marry him, because she loved him. I complied with her requests. But she had her before the divorce was granted. "The mistake was that I was too old. I should have known better. I was better advised by my own children. I might now have an unregretting and peaceful old age with a companion near my own years. And I blame myself, in part, for the wreck of that girl's life. I was too old to fill her bounding young life.

AMERICA WAITS BRITISH REPLY. London, March 12.—The British reply to the American note, suggesting that England allow all foodstuffs to enter Germany in turn for Germany's abandonment of her submarine warfare on merchantmen and her policy of mining the high sea, is expected to be forthcoming at an early date. The reply is expected to indicate that the American note, suggesting that England allow all foodstuffs to enter Germany in turn for Germany's abandonment of her submarine warfare on merchantmen and her policy of mining the high sea, is expected to be forthcoming at an early date. The policy of the Germans which arouses the most indignation among the British government is her continued alleged persecutions of the Belgians, millions of whom, it is declared, would be at this moment in a state of semi-starvation but for American generosity and assistance. Walter Hines Page, the American ambassador, presented the foreign office a note from the state department asking information about the proposed British plan for cutting off the German trade. This note is identical with the one presented at Paris, as France and England jointly announced they held themselves at liberty to make reprisals against Germany.

SKIN TROUBLE ALL OVER BODY. Itched Terribly, Could Not Sleep at Night, Clothing Aggravated Trouble. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Healed. 1362 Fulton St., Chicago, Ill.—"I noticed peculiar spots breaking out all over my body which itched terribly. They were red and later white and scaly. The eruption burned and itched so that I could not sleep at all at night. My clothing aggravated the trouble and made me itch more. "I took a treatment but got no relief. I read the Cuticura advertisement in the paper and wrote for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used them as per directions and had my first night's rest in two months. Then I bought one box of Cuticura Ointment and had only used half of it with the Cuticura Soap when I was healed. I have no disfiguring scars left." (Signed) Frederick Saaj, August 8, 1914. "Keep your skin clear, clean and free from dandruff, and hair live and glossy. Cuticura Soap, with an occasional use of Cuticura Ointment will do it. Sample Each Free by Mail. With 32-p. Skin Book on request. Address post card "Cuticura," Dept. T, Boston." Sold throughout the world.
