

SECOND BROTHER SLAIN IN WAR; MOTHER SUFFERS

Grand Forks Woman Given Picture of Horrors in Letter From Parent.

NO MEAT; LIVING ONLY ON POTATOES

Everything for the Army—Cossacks Brutal to Young Girls.

How they have lived on boiled potatoes, without meat, without fish, with practically no bread, and with water as a substitute for coffee during most of the time, is the story told by Mrs. Minnie Galloway, a peasant woman residing near Konigsburg, Germany, in a letter to her daughter, Mrs. Paul Lieberg, 317 Lenox avenue, Grand Forks, in which she also tells of the death of her second son at the front.

Two boys who have fallen on Germany's battle fields, and a third boy, only 18 years old, still at the front, is the remarkable contribution this aged German woman has made to the Kaiser in his world war.

Only Potatoes Since June.

"We have lived on potatoes since June. The government takes every thing for the soldiers. There is no meat, not even fish. Flour is given to the people at the rate of five pounds for each person a month, and the cost is very high. It is so high that most of the people are unable to buy," writes Mrs. Galloway.

The district in which Mrs. Galloway resides has seen some of the terrors of war. For three days, a band of Cossacks were camped in the little yard of the Galloway home. "They were awfully mean to the young girls," writes the German woman, describing conditions then. "But the Cossacks did not stay long, for the German soldiers soon drove them out."

"I don't know what we are going to do now," says Mrs. Galloway, "for with Richard (her 18-year-old son) gone to war, there is nobody left."

The family has heretofore succeeded in making a living by conducting a hay operation in truck gardening, but now that avenue of income has been cut off.

Death of Daughter Expected. The daughter still residing with her mother is a consumptive, and her death is expected almost any time.

In another letter, telling of the work of the Cossacks, she writes that they robbed a store keeper of $400.

S. or R. R. lands (20%), Gas and water mains and electric light plants (20%), Waterworks systems (20%), All other property not included in preceding twenty-seven items (20%).

LOOSED FROM THE BODY. Men's souls, encompassed here with bodies and passions, have no communication with God, except what they can reach to in conception only, by means of philosophy, in a kind of obscure dream. But when they are loosed from the body, and removed into the unseen, invisible, impassible, and pure region, this god is then their leader and king; they there, as it were, banking on him wholly, and behold their wisdom and wisdom passionately affecting that beauty which cannot be expressed or uttered by men.

MAKERS OF BEST SCHOOL GARDENS ARE ANNOUNCED

Miss Rosalie Hatherell, Supervisor of Work, Makes Report.

Miss Rosalie Hatherell, supervisor of the school garden work, today gave out her report covering the judging of the gardens for each school. Edgar Olson, field agent for the Grand Forks County Better Farming association, was the judge and the ten best gardens were selected in each school.

The pupils who won more than one prize are: Bernice Couch, Roosevelt school, three firsts; Ruth Wilder, Belmont school, two firsts; Quentin Crawford, Washington school, two firsts; Fred Reed, Washington school, two firsts; Ruth Palm, Winship school, one second, one first.

Mr. Olson said that all the gardens showed excellent growth of vegetables and flowers, and he found a large number of well planned gardens. His final word was that the best gardens this year much excelled the best of last year. The garden work, both at the schools and the homes, has been greatly stimulated by the most generous premium list offered by the Northern State bank of this city, and also by the keen interest taken in this work by C. W. Ross of that institution.

Of the five best garden plots in the city Jalmer Lee, Winship school, had the model vegetable and flower garden. The best display of vegetables in the city was that of the garden of Ruth Wilder, Belmont school, had a dainty bit of flower border of perfect design. Marion Bird, Wilder school, had a flower border design which was a mass of beauty and luxuriant growth. Bernice Couch, Roosevelt school, and Quentin Crawford, Washington school, were awarded ten foot plots which would have practically supplied a small family with the fresh vegetables daily during the season.

In picking out the ten best plots in each of the different schools competition was close, especially at the Wilder gardens where a large number of deserving plots were left out in awarding ten "bests." Three sizes of plots were considered in selecting the ten prize gardens—small, medium and large. The best display of vegetables—beets, carrots, turnips, corn and special plantings—were awarded at the different gardens.

The ten best gardens in order of merit, and the best display of vegetables by schools, are as follows: Belmont Gardens. 1. Ruth Wilder, flower garden. 2. Clayton Cassidy, vegetable and flower garden. 3. Hazel Pettman, flower garden. 4. Johnnie Lund, vegetable garden. 5. Goodman Larson, vegetable garden. 6. Herbert Richardson, vegetable garden. 7. Harold Haugan, vegetable garden. 8. Beulah Hodge, vegetable garden. 9. Delos Seifert, vegetable garden. 10. Lloyd Hanson, vegetable garden.

Best display of vegetables—Beets—Emil Knudson. Carrots—Clara Thompson. Turnips—Richard Martin. Special—Peppers—Ruth Wilder. Roosevelt Gardens. 1. Bernice Couch, vegetable garden. 2. Ezra Neils, vegetable garden.

3. Jane Pagett, vegetable and flower garden. 4. Ida Sherman, vegetable garden. 5. Sylvia Hall, vegetable garden. 6. Mary Chidlaw, vegetable garden. 7. Oren Vaaler, vegetable garden. 8. Vivian Couch, vegetable and flower garden. 9. Florence Cleveland, vegetable and flower garden. 10. Esther Olson, flower garden.

Best display of vegetables—Beets—Robert Engstrom. Carrots—Martin Saby. Turnips—Bernice Couch. Corn—Bernice Couch. Special—Planting. Herbs—Sarah Sutherland.

Winship Gardens. 1. Jalmer Lee, vegetable and flower garden. 2. Ruth Palm, vegetables and flower garden. 3. Elizabeth Bristol, vegetable and flower garden. 4. Doris Bristol, vegetable and flower garden. 5. Howard Peters, vegetable and flower garden. 6. Lydia Voltman, vegetable and flower garden. 7. Frances Folk, vegetable and flower garden. 8. Ruth Ring, flower garden. 9. Frederick Evans, vegetable and flower garden. 10. Beatrice Lamont, vegetable garden.

Best display of vegetables—Beets—Fred Reed. Carrots—Marie Carl. Turnips—Ruth Palm. Corn—Ingoif Lee.

Washington Gardens. 1. Quentin Crawford, vegetable garden. 2. Marie Moore, vegetable and flower garden. 3. Caroline Rustad, vegetable and flower garden. 4. Lorettie Gorman, vegetable and flower garden. 5. Ruth Turner, flower garden. 6. Arthur Streibig, vegetable garden. 7. Adeline Feinstein, vegetable garden. 8. Wilmer Hagen, flower garden. 9. Katie Felst, vegetable and flower garden. 10. Annie Halverson, vegetable garden.

Best display of vegetables—Beets—Fred Reed. Carrots—Fred Reed. Turnips—Quentin Crawford. Special, Late Planted Garden—Doris Marto.

Wilder Gardens. 1. Marion Bird, flower garden. 2. Bergliot Lindelle, vegetable garden. 3. Verne Cox, vegetable garden. 4. Harold Jones, vegetable garden. 5. Louise Melby, vegetable and flower garden. 6. Hilda Allen, vegetable and flower garden. 7. Madeline Miller, vegetable and flower garden. 8. Lillian Miller, vegetable and flower garden. 9. Martin Granrood, vegetable garden. 10. Charles Burgess, vegetable garden.

Best display of vegetables—Beets—Lilabelle Turner. Carrots—Marion Bird. Corn—Roy Mumford. Special Late Planting—Arthur Hagens.

A complete record of the crop harvested from each garden plot is being made up and it is expected that these crop reports will exhibit some surprising results when all are in. These reports will be taken into account in the final credits for the season's work.

MORGENSTIERNE IS HONOR GUEST

Telegram of Greeting Sent to Forbundet Headquarters at Christiania.

Wilhelm Morgenstierne, secretary of the Norwegian Forbundet, at a banquet given in his honor last evening at the Commercial club rooms by 100 of the representative Norwegian residents of Grand Forks, "condemned dual citizenship and" "condemned Americanism. He stated that Norway did not stand for divided allegiance, that it was understood that the Norwegian citizen of the United States, his first duty was to his adopted country, but he urged his hearers not to entirely forget the land of their birth.

The dinner was one of the most successful ever held in this part of the country by the Norwegians and after the banquet fifty of those present who were not members of the organization, joined the Forbundet.

A telegram of greeting was sent to the Forbundet headquarters at Christiania in honor of Morgenstierne. Several interesting addresses were given by prominent Norwegians of the city, and the program closed with the singing of "America."

Mr. Morgenstierne left this morning for a tour through a number of the chief cities of the state, and will return to Grand Forks on September 17, when he will be further entertained.

IRVIN BRATLY IS EXPECTED TO RECOVER. Young Man, Accidentally Shot Last Night, Doing Well Today.

GLOCKNER THOUGHT GUN WAS UNLOADED. Trigger Caught in Running Board—Youth Did Not Lose Consciousness.

Unless infection sets in, Irvin Bratly, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Bratly, of Gilby, who was accidentally shot last night, will recover, the attending physician announced today. The charge from the shot gun, which was held in the hands of Walter Glockner, struck young Bratly on the side of the head, fracturing part of the skull.

The accident occurred about 11:20 o'clock last night at the University avenue entrance to the Sims automobile garage.

Young Bratly, who is employed at the Sims garage and Walter Glockner and some friends spent yesterday hunting. When the automobile stopped at the Sims garage, Glockner started to climb out from the back seat.

He held a shot gun in his hands, with the barrel pointed downward. Until the gun was accidentally discharged, when the trigger caught in the running board, Glockner thought that the gun was not loaded.

Young Bratly, who lost consciousness when the car reached the hospital, he walked into the institution.

Mr. and Mrs. Bratly reached Grand Forks at 4 o'clock this morning making the trip from Gilby by automobile.

AMUSEMENTS. At the Foto Play Friday and Saturday. "Her Great Match," from the pen of that master story builder, Clyde Fitch, whose plays dealing with the age-old but ever-new elements contained in love and femininity created their own vogue, when originally presented Gail Kane, whose potent dramatic charms bewitched Broadway audiences in the stellar roles of "Seven Keys to Baldpate," "The Miracle Man" and other notable stage successes. It is seen in the leading part in "Her Great Match," wherein she repeats the distinctive artistic efforts, which won for her such notable laurels on the speaking stage.

An Author of Many Successes. Edward Peple, the author of "A Pair of Sixes," who now enjoys the distinction of having written the biggest farce hit of the century, has other successful plays to his credit, among which might be mentioned that charming comedy, "The Prince Chap" and the sterling melodrama, "The Littlest Rebel." This American author's ability to write three plays so distinct, different and of such distinguished merit, has been the subject of much wonderment and newspaper comment.

"A Pair of Sixes" is as thoroughly American in topic and treatment as it is in title. The story is most ingenious in its basis and development, and a factor greatly to its credit is that it is good, clean, wholesome fun, the kind of humor that men can discuss freely, not only with their own women folks, but with the women folks of others. "A Pair of Sixes" sounds like a very small hand, but it will take a mighty good combination to beat it. This is doubtless partly accounted for by the fact that there is an addition to the pair, a quen of hearts, in the play, which is sufficient intimation that the play is not only funny but has a strong love interest.
