PARK RIVER IS STILL IN LINE

Came Through the Grafton Game Successfully—Many Good Contests.

Some right interesting high school football was played Saturday in North Dakota, the Park River-Grafton game, won by Park River, 27 to 0, being one of the most important contests.

Park River and Grafton, old time rivals, played a hard game. Gullickson, the star Park River full, was injured, and may be out of the game for the season. The winner of Grafton, was taken to a hospital after the game, on account of an injured kidney.

New Rockford won from Devils Lake, 19 to 13, the game being played at New Rockford.

Cavalier and Langdon played at Langdon, Cavalier winning, 13 to 6.

Minot had an easy time with Kenmare, winning 107 to 0. The Magic City gang had everything.

Wahpeton won from Wheaton, Minn., by a score of 13 to 0.

Crookston and Bemidji played at Bemidji, and Bemidji won, 21 to 0. This game puts the Bemidji team in line for the northern Minnesota championship, and will give them an undisputed title if Crookston beats East Grand Forks.

SHEVLIN MAY GET YALE COACH'S JOB

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 1.—Saturday's game with Colgate probably was the last time the Yale football team will play under the present coaching regime. Today, Thomas Shevlin is due to arrive here, to have the superintendent part in the handling of the bills for the rest of the season. One report has it that the place of chief of the Yale staff of football tutors is to pass from Hinkley to Shevlin.

The general belief is that something radical and drastic is needed and needed quickly in the Yale football situation is to be saved from utter failure.

IOWA AGAINST BASEBALL RULE

Iowa City, Iowa, Nov. 1.—Iowa university athletic board of control will vote for the repeal of the amateur baseball law of the big nine. Prof. Nelson A. Kellogg, director of athletics, and member of the board, declared today that the amateur delegate to the coming winter session of the conference would be instructed to join the repeal forces.

It is predicted that Illinois, Minnesota, Ohio and possibly Purdue and Indiana will be with Iowa, as against Chicago, Wisconsin and Northwestern.

HARD GAMES FOR GOPHER COLLEGES

St. Paul, Nov. 1.—Hamilne and the aggie will provide the only local game this week, the relative showing of the two elevens to date giving the edge to the Aggie.

Some days ago, Clymer was asking for a decision on the matter so that he could give Louisville, which city was after his services, an answer. He preferred coming back to Toronto he said.

CLYMER TO STAY WITH TORONTO

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 1.—Manager Bill Clymer will have charge of the Toronto International league baseball team again next season, the Toronto club having accepted his terms.

Some days ago, Clymer was asking for a decision on the matter so that he could give Louisville, which city was after his services, an answer. He preferred coming back to Toronto he said.

SUFFRAGE AND THE OLDER GENERATION

(New York Evening Post.)

Dr. Lyman Abbott remains unalterably opposed to woman suffrage, and his son is for it. Hamilton Wright Mabie is against it, but his daughter is for it. At the very time Mr. Taft was arguing against suffrage, his daughter was a member of the equal suffrage league. Grover Cleveland's widow is president of the Anti-suffrage association at Princeton, but his two daughters are ardent workers for votes for women. In the west, families are united on it, but in the east it runs like a sword between the two generations.

DRIGGS IS ONE OF PRINCETON'S BEST

Princeton, N. Y., Oct. 30.—In the struggle that Princeton, on November 6, one thing may favor the Tigers. The Harvard attack is primarily built around Mahan. At least, the attack is most effective for long gains when he is carrying the ball. Princeton, on the other hand, for once has more than one dangerous man in the backfield. The Cambridge players cannot afford to devote their entire attention to covering Talbot, as they did Peniston and Baker. Glick, Shes and Driggs are all dangerous men when they are tending the pigskin.

One of Princeton's greatest problems will be to hold the ground that punts by Driggs may gain. The Tiger ends have shown some of the work on the offense and have defended their stations well against a running attack. While they usually get down the field on punts, however, and while Highly has shown some good tackling, both he and Brown must improve vastly in this respect if they expect to keep Mahan from bringing the ball back and thus neutralizing much of the kicking ability shown by Driggs. Of course the latter will endeavor to either keep the ball away from Mahan or kick it over his head, but neither of these things is always easy to do. If a man continually kicks out of bounds in an effort to hold ground gained he not only loses distance, but robs his team of the possible chance of recovering a fumbled ball. No, the Tiger ends must learn to tackle more fiercely and more surely.

MERGER MAY STOP BASEBALL WAR; FED MAGNATES WOULD BUY WAY INTO MAJORS

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Plans are nearing consummation to terminate the baseball war by absorbing into the National league the men who hold the Federal league's bank roll.

The deal probably would have been completed already but for the sudden death of R. B. Ward, president of the Brookfields, who generally was credited with having put more money into baseball than any other individual during the professional life of the sport.

The plans which were submitted to organized baseball representatives by Federal league promoters during the world's series, and on which leading spirits in the National and Federal leagues have been working industriously, contemplate taking into part ownership in different National league clubs Harry Sinclair, Phil Ball, Charles Weeghman, William Walker, Edward Gwinn, and the heirs of the late R. B. Ward.

Eliminate Five Fed Clubs.

That would eliminate five of the Federal league clubs—Newark, Brooklyn, Pittsburgh, Chicago and St. Louis—and the other three would have to be provided for by the American association and the International league. Kansas City is in A. A. territory, and Baltimore and Buffalo are within the boundaries of the International. The Newark plant of the Federal league is to be retained for use on Sundays by the New York Giants.

The scheme as outlined is for Sinclair to become part owner of the Giants, Ball to purchase the Britton equity in the St. Louis Cards, Gwinn to be allowed to buy into the Pirates, and the Whales and Cubs to be consolidated and play on the north side grounds in this city. The Ward interests may be taken care of either in the New York or Brooklyn club, and the present Brookfield plant would become available for the International league.

Ben and Murphy Oppose Change.

The obstacles in the way of this deal are said to be President Johnson of the American league and Charles W. Murphy, phantom owner of the Cubs, the latter of whom is presently credited with having blocked off the peace negotiations which were started last winter between Edward

NEBRASKA HOLDS A FIRMER GRIP

Hold in Missouri Conference Championship is Tightened Saturday.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 1.—Nebraska's work from Ames, Kansas, lost to Oklahoma, Arkansas and St. Louis were unable to reach a decision, Missouri and Kansas agreed played a scoreless tie in Saturday's gridiron games in the southeast. The contests resulted about as the experts had prophesied.

The prospect of Nebraska, as Missouri Valley champion for 1915 and Oklahoma as claimant to the title in the far southwest were unchanged.

Nebraska shut out Ames 21 to 0. It was the latter part of that score which occasioned the most surprise, for though the Cornhuskers were conceded to win the Iowans were expected to play them to a close score. Nebraska's defense in the second quarter on a series of brilliant end and open field runs which netted three touchdowns.

Missouri has put up a better fight than in the game with Oklahoma which the latter won, 28 to 14.

The Oklahoma speed at the overhead and open field game could not be met effectively by the Kansas, who showed very weak at tackling.

Saturday's game virtually sounded the knell of hopes that the Jayhawkers would be the conference team to stop Nebraska's march toward the title, Missouri already being conceded out of the race.

Missouri and the Kansas agreed played well on the defensive. Aside from that, the game was without feature, as neither exhibited any strength.

Missouri's defense in the second quarter to get beyond the aggie's 20-yard line.

The game in St. Louis was a nip and tuck affair in which both St. Louis and Arkansas were stone walls on defense. Like the Missouri-Kansas game, this was a no-score contest.

Drake uncovered unexpected power in the game with Washington and came from behind to a 27 to 15 victory.

Texas A. and M. defeated the Haskell Indians from Kansas and in a fast game at Dallas, 21 to 7. The Texans won on forward passes after being outplayed by Haskell in the first game. University of Texas achieved another shut out victory in defeating Southwestern 45 to 0.

last fall and winter is willing to believe the consent of C. W. Murphy will be found necessary to any scheme for the amalgamation of the Cubs and Whales and their removal from the National league in which Murphy owns a half interest. This matter is said to be in the hands of National league officials at present.

The American league is figured as an obstacle to the consolidation scheme of the National and Federal leagues is not to have only a passive interest in the surrender claim to players who jumped American league contracts to perform in the Federal circuit, but the side issues is a plan to supplant the Federal league manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and give the reins to Fielder Jones, manager of the St. Louis Feds. This may be done by Owner Comiskey of the White Sox.

Yankees Will Not Move.

At one time there was a report that the owners of the American league club were contemplating the purchase of the Brooklyn Federal league plant, but that has been denied both by the Yankee owners and President Johnson. Messrs. Ruppert and Huston are said to prefer building a new Yankee plant in Queens county more easily accessible to downtown New York than either the Polo grounds or the Brookfield plant.

With that deal thrown into the discard, the American league would seem to have only a passive interest in the existing peace plans. Aside from the player tangle, it is possible to bring about the demise of the Federal league and the restoration of the National league through an operation for transfusion of blood without the consent of other than the parties to the operation.

The real problem seems to be what to do about the players, some of whom jumped from the American league, some from the National, and more from the minor leagues.

WHAT A NOVELIST THINKS.

To a symposium on what novelists think of the American novel, appearing recently in the New York Sun, Robert Chambers contributed the "views" most notable for their brevity and commonsense.

"You asked me to read what Tom, Dick and Harry say about the American novel. I didn't want to, but I did, because you asked me. And now that I've read it all, I can't remember what T. D. H. & Co. have said. I merely am aware that what they say about what others do is their peculiar way of earning a living—and as good a way as any way, anyway, any way you choose to say it. I don't know much about American novels, not nearly as much as those who write about them. I merely write them. Concerning creative work in general, all I know is this—that people will go on creating as long as they enjoy doing what inclines them, or necessity drives them to do. And as long as anything of the boy remains in the man he will continue to create and to find pleasure in it, but when, in any man, the boy dies, then the necessity, the desire and the ability to create die also. His day's work is done. I am quite sure your readers will not be interested in what I have said; nor am I myself any longer. But you asked me to say something, and I've told you all I know about it a little more."

This is all Mr. Chambers had to say, but it required about one and a half full-length newspaper columns for the editor Stratton-Porter to give voice to her authoritative opinions.

PASSING OF THE COSSACK.

(Seattle Post-Intelligencer.)

Another generation and the picturesque Cossack will no longer speed his burlesque dash through the imagination. He is not scientific, and, therefore, his hour has struck.

At best a survival of medievalism, a new Russia will rise above him; he will be his own problem, but it will be a problem of farm and harvest.

No more is the Cossack the terror of Russia's foe. The Cossack is the rider par excellence, the inspired freebooter, the dauntless desperado of the most farfaring imagination. But where raids the rider, against the modern machine, the rest of the world shines the twirling horseman, the smatching of a life from the grass while steel whirrs madly on the thousand feet of a daredevil folk—where shines these things in the fiery breath of distant, hidden cannon? The glamor becomes a freight and his craft a circus.

Brave was his bravery in terms of millions becomes the universal virtue, and as between Cossack and Ghurka, Bavarian and Slav, who shall judge, when all play heroes' parts?

The first step toward being a politician is learning to call strangers by their first names.—Macon News.

WHEAT CLOSES A CENT HIGHER

Minneapolis, Nov. 1.—December wheat closed 1c higher, May wheat 1 1/8-1 1/4c higher than Saturday's close.

The wheat market was sharply lower at the opening but these figures proved to be the low points of the day. Receipts of spring wheat were very heavy but the market had a good advance in spite of these and final figures are at practically the high marks of the year.

Weather conditions were again very favorable for threshing operations. Receipts in Winnipeg were heavy and the total of wheat was 9,355 cars compared with 814 cars a year ago. Duluth received 1509 vs. 1257 cars. Minneapolis received 1622 cars vs. 646 cars a year ago, making a total in the three places of 6,486, year ago, 2,537 cars.

The weather forecast for the Canadian northwest was for good weather. World's shipments were liberal and the total was 14,652,000 bushels, a year ago they were 10,354,000 bu. The United States visible supply increased 2,026,000 bushels for the past week.

Couldn't Blame Him.

On one occasion Governor Dick Oglesby went down to Joliet to inspect the state prison, and in one of the cells found a very ugly fellow.

"How did you get in here?" asked Oglesby.

"Abduction," was the reply. "I tried to run off with a girl and they caught me."

"I'll pardon you as soon as I get back to Springfield," said the governor. "I don't see how you could expect to get a wife in any other way."
