FLOUR MILL FOR GLADSTONE

Fifty Barrel Long Process Mill Will be Erected in Near Future.

Gladstone, N. D., May 6.—At a meeting of the business men and farmers of Gladstone and vicinity interested in a flour mill, it was decided to build a 50 barrel long process mill, this process being recommended by the committee consisting of Messrs. Bayer, Dolwig and Shank, who were previously appointed to investigate the different processes.

The old Lee mill site and elevator has been purchased from Mrs. G. W. Lee and the mill will be built on the old foundation and will be a 5 story structure with a 12-foot basement, 34x40 and 42 feet high. All the very latest improved machinery will be installed and a 55 horsepower engine will furnish the power.

The mill will be completed and ready for operation about September 1 when a first class miller and also a competent second miller will be employed, who will be able with the first class equipment which will be installed, to turn out as good flour as can be made.

The mill will be in operation a few months in the summer the mill will run day and night.

The following directors were elected: S. Rolfe, a prominent London, England, millwright and miller, has been in charge of the construction of the building and the installment of the machinery.

WOODEN SHOES AGAIN IN VOGUE

School Children of Berlin Are Using Them Again.

Berlin, April 27.—Correspondence of The Associated Press.—After more than a century and a half of relative unpopularity and disuse, except among the peasantry, wooden shoes are becoming the vogue with school children once more, and their use is being actively and practically encouraged by school authorities.

The reason, of course, is the scarcity and unprecedented expensiveness of leather shoes which gradually have caused people to forget the old-time dislike of and stigma attaching to wooden shoes. Hundreds of school children in the past few weeks have taken, either to leather shoes with wooden soles, or to the old all-wooden "clogs."

The first move in favor of a resumption of wooden shoes was taken by the school authorities in notifying teachers that they should countenance the use of such shoes in spite of all the noise made when the children clattered about the bare floors in them.

Then the authorities of the suburb of Lichterfelde went a step farther and offered a premium of one mark to all children being in part or entirely supported who would wear wooden shoes with wooden soles for a period of four weeks. Those authorities who have charge of supporting the families of soldiers spent a considerable sum of money in the purchase of several hundred pairs of shoes, which were offered to the public at prices ranging from a little over a dollar to a dollar and a half a pair.

At first only the boys took to the new shoes, but gradually the girls too have adopted them, and hundreds of children of both sexes wear them to school daily and save their parents' leather shoes for Sundays and special occasions. Gradually they are winning a vogue in other parts of Berlin, and, of course, are widely worn in the country districts.

The history of the "pantine" or wooden slipper, generally without heels, of which sort, goes back for centuries. Along in the early part of the eighteenth century an edict was issued in Prussia against their use, and not only were persons who disobeyed punished, but communities which permitted their use were fined heavily. For a long time, however, they continued to be so popular that the edict had never entirely disappeared in country districts where they are better protected than leather against mud and wet, and where their durability naturally commends itself to the peasants.

After a short time, however, a shortage, is also having its effects in the Prussian schools in the decree by the minister of education that from now on slippers of the fullest possible extent replace the old-time wooden shoes in which the children have been accustomed to do their lessons.

In issuing his decree, Minister von Trotz zu Solz called the attention of teachers to the fact that because of the shortage of paper children who had to use the books were compelled to make to use up every available space, and that the books no longer need to be enclosed in a heavy paper cover, all of which goes to waste.

PLANS TO RECAPITULATE.

Rome, Italy, May 6.—Renewed efforts to recapitulate the Campagna Romana are to be made this spring notwithstanding the distractions of the war. The Campagna is a section of plain some thirty miles wide which surrounds Rome, between the mountains and running down to the sea. In ancient times it is said to have been the most densely populated region of Italy, and it is estimated that 10,000,000 people, but today it is largely a dreary waste of swampy soil so infected with malaria in summer that the laborers and shepherds there are compelled to retire to higher ground.

In a recent address before the Libanese Chamber of Deputies, Paolo Orlandi, an eminent Italian engineer, said that sanitary work done in Egypt, Cuba and Panama indicated the ease with which malaria could be eliminated and he believed that with modern machinery such as the Americans had used the Campagna could be converted into a healthy and prosperous region. "Fremingham" says already have been obtained through the model villages, and on the Ostian Way, and the other on the Tiburtian Way.

SOLDIER BOYS BAKE BREAD IN DESERT

In the various field camps and headquarters of the American forces in Mexico bread is now being supplied direct from the army bakeries. In the early stages of the campaign food was carried from the border to the various camps and depots in motor trucks. The installation of the field bakeries releases these trucks for other important duties. The bread turned out in these field bakeries weighs about a pound per loaf. Uncle Sam has found that an army will fight well, and hiking all day over dusty desert and cactus-grown prairie does not affect adversely the appetite of the soldier boys who are hunting Villa.

JAMESTOWN

Jamestown, N. D., May 6.—The Junior Banquet to the Seniors of the College of Liberal Arts was the outstanding social feature of the week. It was even more brilliant than the splendid banquet of a year ago. This annual feature is far more from a funeral affair to the seniors. It is a good wish in view of the impending departure into larger life of the honored members of the college student body. Speeches were made by many. Dr. F. B. Taylor was the guest of honor as advisor.

The play "Road of Yesterday" is now well on its way for completion. The cast are busily engaged and expect to put on the finest play given by the college. It is a great undertaking, but the cast is proving equal to the task under the efficient leadership of Miss May Chalfant, the college dramatic art critic and dramatist. The play will be staged May 23.

The Endowment Campaign committee is meeting with large success. Ten thousand dollars was just recently given to the college by local citizens, and it is predicted that over $25,000 will be garnered in the course of the next week. One citizen gave $5,000 last week, and another $2,000. The face, as if he felt happy for the opportunity to give to such a worthy institution. That is the way the college is looking upon it. It is the biggest citizens, a great asset to the city and state.

The new catalogue is nearly ready to leave the press. It is going to be the finest yet in press work and material, exhibiting the great development of the college.

Last Monday in Oriady hall a mass meeting was held to consider the means and in the final endowment steps. It is the last and final pull, and much enthusiasm was manifested. A number of addresses were made. It was a Get Under it meeting.

The baseball schedule is about complete for the season. It is as follows: May 5—Windsor and Jamestown college at Jamestown—practice game.

May 8—High school and Jamestown college at Jamestown.

May 11—Aberdeen Normal, South Dakota college at Aberdeen, S. D.

May 12—Ellendale normal college at Ellendale.

May 13—Edgeley college at Edgeley.

May 17—University of North Dakota at Jamestown.

May 20—Windsor college at Windsor.

May 24—Valley City Normal at Valley City.

May 27—Aberdeen Normal at Jamestown.

May 30—Ellendale normal at Jamestown.

June 5—Valley City at Jamestown.

The band and the entire college marched through town to escort Mr. William Landis to the depot as he left to represent the state and the western association in the Interstate oratorical contest to be held at Springfield, Friday, June 10, on his third time Mr. Landis is on for the college and state. The whole state clashes him success in this final contest of 12 states. It is the biggest contest North Dakota has been in.

Dr. W. J. Johnson, author and lecturer of Philadelphia has been engaged as commencement speaker for June 15. He is author of "Lincoln the Christian."

The Big entrance White Globe electric lights on the big brick plaza are being connected up for lighting this week. Also similar lamps on brick posts on the new drive in front of the building. With the regular college white-towry lights the campus will be brilliantly illuminated hereafter, a splendid improvement which the boys and girls will enjoy.

CAMP MEETING AT JAMESTOWN

Commencing June 23 Meeting Will Last Until July 3.

Bismarck, N. D., May 5.—The twelfth annual camp meeting of the North Dakota Methodist Camp Meeting association will be held in Jamestown from June 23 to July 3. Officers of the association are planning for one of the most successful camp meetings yet held. A number of prominent workers of the Methodist Episcopal church will be in attendance and contribute in the work.

Rev. S. A. Danford of Bismarck will have charge of the meetings. Other people to assist are Rev. J. M. Taylor, Bismarck; Rev. F. H. Farland, LaMoure; and Rev. W. R. Thatcher, the latter will have charge of the singing. Mrs. S. A. Danford will act as matron during the Epworth league convention and camp and will be in active charge of the children's service. Rev. W. G. Bennett of Jamestown, will have charge of the camp grounds and supplies.

The officers of the association are: President, S. A. Danford, D. D.; Bismarck; secretary, Rev. F. H. Farland, LaMoure; treasurer, Paul M. Brown, Hettinger; manager of dining hall, Rev. Ira E. Hammer, Beach; Supt. of young people's department, Rev. F. W. Gress, Mandan; superintendent of grounds, W. G. Bennett, Jamestown.

ST. ANTHONY BOY IS INJURED

Mandan, N. D., May 6.—John J. Seidle, son of John Seidle, Sr., prominent farmer living in the St. Anthony vicinity, met with a very painful accident in which he nearly lost his life. He was driving a team of horses to the field to begin the morning's work and when a short distance on his way the horses became frightened and ran away. Young Seidle was thrown from the buggy against a larger corner fence post and was severely injured internally. His parents saw him in difficulty and ran to his assistance. He was rendered unconscious and fearing that he was more seriously injured than he really was he was hurried to Mandan to a physician.

After examination it was discovered that he was badly bruised and injured about internally, but that he would recover in a few days. His father declared had his head struck the post with the force that his shoulder did there is little doubt but that he would have been killed. The horses ran a few feet and then stopped. There was no damage done to either the horses or buggy.

THE W. D. SWEET HOMES TO BE BUILT IN GRAND FORKS

To those people of Grand Forks, who live in rented houses, or in flats or rooms, and who possess the greatest of human longings; that of living in a home of their own, the following statement of what we have done and are doing in Fargo, will be of interest.

During my last term as mayor of that city, I became greatly interested in the necessity of meeting in some way the demand for moderate priced homes. After the expiration of my term, about two years ago, my first investigation satisfied me that adequate capital and competent organization would solve the problem, as a business proposition, and under the plan, which we adopted, we have built and delivered to their owners—homes, to the amount of nearly $100,000 in the last two seasons. The homes, without a single exception, are substantially built, comprising the best material and skilled workmanship and the elegance of design and finish, is unsurpassed.

I believe the city of Grand Forks, in character and future possibilities, is so nearly identical with Fargo, that what has been done there can be done here—needing only the capital and enterprise. Therefore, at the request of several of our people of this city, we have determined to ascertain if there is here a desire for home owning. Briefly stated, our proposition is as follows:

If you own a good lot or intend to buy one, we will build for you a home. You will advance no cash, but when the house is done, you will then commence to pay for a monthly installment of about what the house would rent for—and this monthly installment will include the interest.

Now I will say to wives and husbands, if you are interested and will call at our office on the fourth floor of the First National bank building, we will submit plans and specifications and show you photographs of the homes, actually built and explain to you fully how you can acquire a home of your own with the money you now pay rent.
