

If we haven't gained anything we have the satisfaction of knowing that we are all assessed more than on the equal basis as the result of your work.—J. B. Hackett.

A Great Team

The Leader and the Cooperators' Herald are a great team; it is the strongest and most powerful team that ever pulled together in the Northwest. They are doing wonders.—K. P. Levang.

He Sends the Money

Editor Nonpartisan Leader: I will send that money for the Leader. I am well pleased with the Leader and the League. The Leader is the best paper out of six that comes to my home.—Christ Olson.

He's Very Much Surprised

Editor Nonpartisan Leader: I was somewhat surprised on receipt of your letter of January 10, to learn that you had not received the money on the check which I gave your representative. At the time I gave check and until late in the summer I had money in the First National Bank of Des Lacs.

Now I have done business with this bank for the past ten years and this is the first time I ever had a check "turned down" by them, whether I had money in the bank or not; if I was short they would notify me and I would go in and square up.

Are you positively sure that they returned my check once? I will go over to Des Lacs in a few days and see that the money is sent you, for you surely deserve it.—E. L. Griffin. (We are positively sure that this check was returned once.—Editor.)

Editor Nonpartisan Leader: I have been reading the Leader since last October and find it and Pearson's Magazine the greatest papers I have ever read. In January 27 issue I was greatly interested in the page edited by A. A. Harris on woman's rights and the Keating-Owen bill.

So we'll stick to the League through thick and thin, If we stick to the League we're bound to win;

We farmers have the munitions to spare And now we've the gun to kill the bear.—C. W. Clarke.

Likes the Road to Bismark

Editor Nonpartisan Leader: I am much interested in the Nonpartisan League as I am one of the early rubes, having joined on February 5, 1915, at Bismark just about the time the League was born.

I like the letter by J. C. Olson (The Road to Bismark), as I know the danger of following the old parties.—C. H. Roth.

Doing Noble Work

Editor Nonpartisan Leader: The Leader is doing noble work and ought to set every farmer to thinking for himself independent of the line elevators, the banks and the politicians.—Aslak O. Nasset.

No Occasion for Sorrow

Editor Nonpartisan Leader: I am sorry to note that the Leader is back of some of the Bismark politicians for office. All they are after is office and I believe they should be cut out and not a single one of them backed up by the farmers. I know that it is a bad old gang down there and we must watch out for them. I have lived here only 21 years but I know them all pretty well and the only way for the Nonpartisan League to make any headway is to cut out the politicians entirely and elect farmers—yes real farmers, that will serve the people right and I hope every member of the organization will express their feelings in the same way.—C. H. Lundquist.

[The Leader begs to say to friend Lindquist that there is no occasion for sorrow. The Leader is not back of any Bismark politicians and the only way it could be said to be behind them is when they are on the run and the Leader after them. They may say that we are back of them but that is for the purpose of deceiving members of the League.—Editor.]

Expensive Nuisance

Editor Nonpartisan Leader: Having been assessor in our township for several years I wish to say that it has always appeared to me that the 28-item schedule was a burdensome and expensive nuisance. But this 95-item schedule which is being sprung on the farmers of North Dakota is entirely out of reason.—W. H. Brumwell.

Get Rid of the Groundhogs

Editor Nonpartisan Leader: I am a reader of the Leader and enjoy every issue and so does everyone around here. We realize this is the state of the groundhogs. We are waiting for a date for a League meeting so that the farmers can hear the matter thoroughly discussed.—Albert Moxness.

Most Truthful of All

Editor Nonpartisan Leader: I have received the Leader for four issues and will say that it is the most truthful paper I have read. I think the only road to success is to all unite in one body. I am for the terminal elevator, packing plants and all.—C. Moffit.

Reads the Leader First

Editor Nonpartisan Leader: I am getting your paper and can say that it is the best paper that comes into my house. I take a few others but we always look for the Leader first.—O. L. Krogstad.

Cleared Up the Issues

Editor Nonpartisan Leader: A rousing meeting was held by one of the League speakers here last night. The meeting was characterized by intense interest on the part of the farmers present. Previous to the meeting there was a rumor that this was only another movement to inveigle the farmers into some political trap, that it was not a real farmers meeting but Mr. Fletcher soon cleared up all questions of this kind.—F. R. Strong.

Six Dollars Well Invested

Editor Nonpartisan Leader: At first I was not willing to become a member of the League but now I see it was $6 well invested. I like the Nonpartisan Leader first rate.—Henning Stoneberg.

More Than a Revolt

Editor Nonpartisan Leader: The Fargo Forum says the Nonpartisan League is the farmers of North Dakota in revolt. If their reporter had been present at the League meeting at Landa he would have thought that it meant all of that and then some. It was sure some meeting.—A Farmer.

News Snapshots Of the Week

Creeping into Hampton Roads, Va., in a fog and manned by a German prize crew, the Appam, British merchantman, which was captured off Africa by a disguised German gunboat, caused a sensation throughout the country; she had 430 other persons aboard. The announcement of the appointment by the president of Louis D. Brandeis, a radical, an anti-trust lawyer, to the United States supreme court surprised the country; objections appeared in the senate. Zeppelins renewed their activities, both Paris and London being pelted by bombs, which killed and maimed many. President Wilson extended his tour for preparedness to include more western territory. After being lost in the Atlantic for almost two days the submarine K-5 was sighted and put in at Key West, Fla. Governor Goethals and General Edwards reached Washington to report on the Panama canal slide and canal fortifications. D. Lamar will serve two years for impersonating congressman.
